Helicopter Missiles Are Used In Vietnam

Other New Weapons Being Considered

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States today introduced new helicopter-borne guided missiles for use against Communist tanks in South Vietnam and sent a team of five generals and admirals into the field to see what other sophisticated new weapons could be used to turn back the Hanoi offensive.

North Vietnam used more than 100 tanks to crush government defenses at Quang Tri and lesser numbers in the Central Highlands in the threat to Kontum Province where the Communists have been trying to slice South Vietnam in two.

The Communists were reported regrouping and reinforcing for an assault on Hue, the old capital of the Annamite kings, but military sources have said they did not expect the major assault to begin for a week. In the meantime there was heavy air action around Hue.

B52s carried out a series of raids in the Quang Tri staging area and South Vietnamese A37 jet pilots reported killing 115 North Vietnamese and destroying 16 tanks, four 130mm cannon and four antiaircraft guns about 20 miles north of Hue.

UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis reported today from Hue that the city today was as lazy and quiet as Manhattan on a Sunday morning after days of near anarchy. He drove from Hue to the new northern front along the My Chanh River and said defenses were firmly established along the river 25 miles north of Hue.

Communist forces struck within five miles of Hue Thursday night, hitting two South Vietnamese bases with rockets and mortars. Four rockets hit Camp Eagle, five miles south of Hue, damaging one building at the base which is headquarters for the 1st Infantry Division. About 100 rounds of mortar and rocket fire hit Artillery Base King, 10 miles west of Hue, but inflicted only light damage.

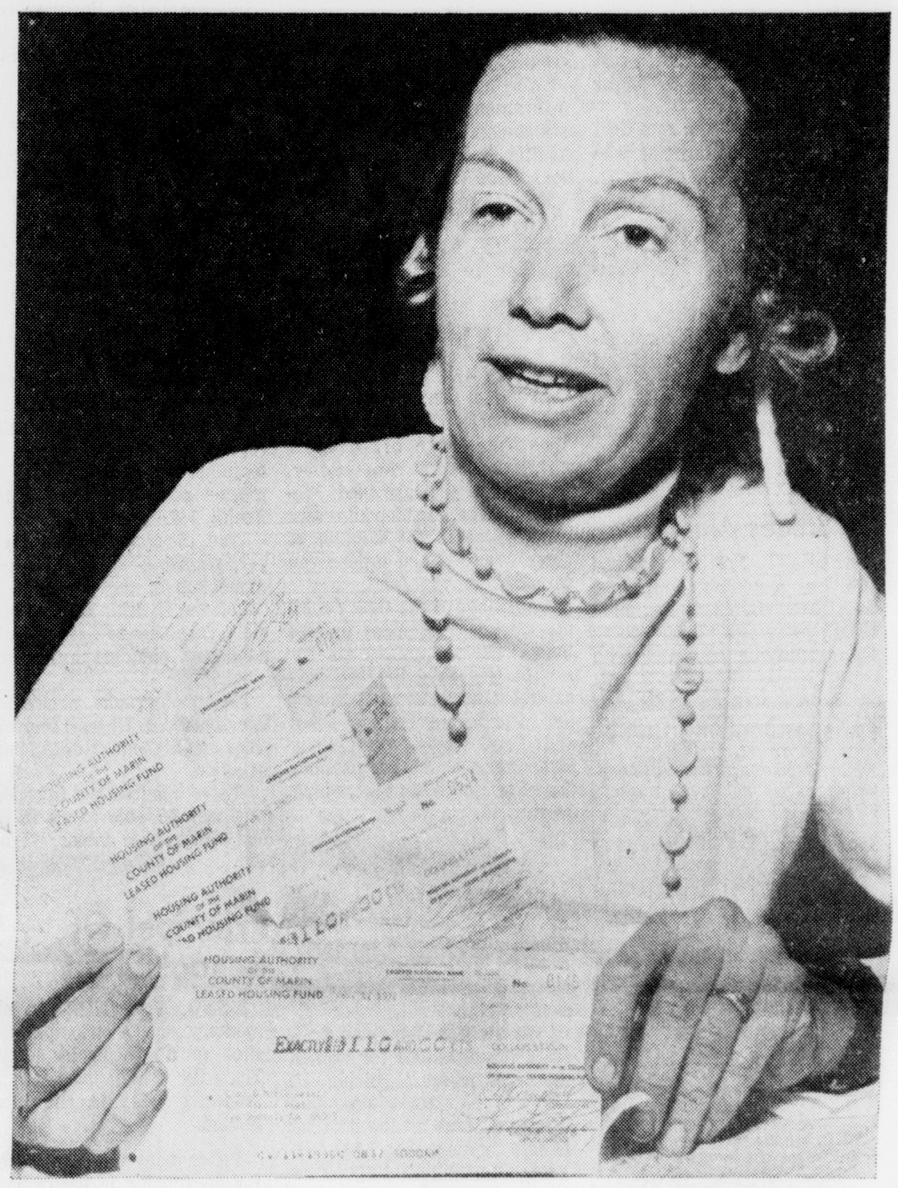
UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported from Da Nang, South Vietnam's second city 50 miles south of Hue, that the city of 300,000 was jammed with 200,000 refugees from Quang Tri and Hue.

He said hundreds of soldiers wearing the blue and white patch of the South Vietnamese 3rd Division were among the refugees despite an order from the regional commander that they return to Hue by 4 p.m. Thursday or face death by firing squad. The 3rd Division was decimated at Quang Tri.

Government forces suffered another set back at An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. The town was hit by more than 900 rounds of artillery and rocket fire during the night and strong enemy pressure forced government troops to evacuate a battalion-sized camp on Highway 13, 10 miles to the south. A government counter-offensive up Highway 13 toward An Loc has been stalled for two weeks.

Arrival of the sophisticated new antitank weapons at Pleiku was reported by UPI Correspondent Matt Franjola who said the U. S. command was bringing in helicopters from Germany equipped with wire-guided missiles for use against enemy tanks.

He said he was told the missiles were of the "TOW" type, TOW being an acronym for tube-launched, optically-tracked, wire-guided. They are described in some detail in Jane's All The World's Aircraft, the authoritative aviation yearbook, in its 1964-65 edition.



TOO MANY CHECKS — Marie Sessi of San Rafael holds a sheaf of rent checks she and her husband receive monthly as landlords for an apartment formerly leased to the Marin County Housing Authority. Five checks totalling $550 have come in the mail since the authority tenant vacated the apartment last December.

LEASED HOUSING MONEY

Check Flow Continues For Vacated Apartment

A San Rafael woman complained today that she and her husband are suffering an embarrassment of riches at taxpayers' expense.

And as taxpayers themselves, Mr. and Mrs. Gimi Sessi of 195 Circle Road are wondering how many other landlords are facing the same peculiar problem.

The Marin County Housing Authority keeps on sending them $110 monthly checks for an apartment they own — one that was vacated five months ago by a tenant under the leased housing program.

"I wonder how often this is happening with other leased housing," Mrs. Sessi said as she fingered the sheaf of checks.

She explained that the housing authority's leased housing program signed a contract in 1968 for the one-bedroom apartment on Second Street, owned by the Sessis. By late last year, the unit needed refurbishing. The Sessis asked the authority to cancel the lease in October so the repairs could be done. After continuing the rental on a month-to-month basis, the leased housing office found new quarters for the single tenant in December. The Sessis began the work, but the rent checks still keep coming in.

Housing authority spokesmen said they could not explain the oversight, but were checking with their accounting staff. The Sessis are holding the checks, uncashed.

Wholesale Food Prices Drop Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale food prices declined for the second consecutive month in April while the nation's unemployment rate held steady at 5.9 per cent.

Despite the decline in the price of meat, poultry, eggs and other farm products and processed foods, the overall wholesale price index rose 0.1 per cent in April, largely because of price increases for industrial commodities.

The April wholesale price increase was the same as the rise for March, but was far below the nearly 1 per cent increases in each of the three previous months when there were large food price increases. After seasonal adjustment, the April wholesale price index went up 0.3 per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the price index for farm products and processed foods and feeds declined 0.7 per cent in April following a 0.4 per cent decline in March. After seasonal adjustment these food prices decreased only 0.1 per cent in April.

The decline, however, did not offset the more than 5 per cent increase in these products during December, January and February.

Because of the food price decline, the index for consumer finished goods roughly comparable to the items included in the consumer price index showed a 0.4 per cent decline in March. However, consumer goods other than food went up 0.2 per cent.

Changes in the wholesale price index generally are reflected in the consumer price index and are passed on to consumers in later months.

President Nixon's economic advisers said the reports indicated progress was being made in the administration's efforts to reduce inflation and unemployment.

"Both the more recent statistics and those for the entire period of the contrgls indicate that we are making progress in reducing inflation under the program," said Dr. Marina Whitman, member of the Presi-

Newspaper Says U.S. In Secret Talk

PARIS (UPI)—A French newspaper said today the United States in secret negotiations has accepted two key peace demands of the Vietnamese Communists, including replacement of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

In a dispatch from Washington, the newspaper France-Soir said the U.S. concessions were offered by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger in a secret meeting in Paris early this week with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

The newspaper's Washington correspondent, Adalbert de Segonzac, said the meeting ended without result but Kissinger was expected to return to Paris despite the suspension of the regular Vietnam peace conference.

The dispatch said Kissinger told Tho, a ranking member of the highest body of the North Vietnamese Communist Party, that the United States was ready to replace Thieu as demanded in the Viet Cong's latest peace plan.

It would also agree to the formation of a "three segment" government of "national concord", also demanded in the Communists' seven-point peace plan.

The encounter stalled on Tho's insistence on the next step of the Communist program

Cotati's Young Council Elects Mayor, Opposes Armed Police

The youthful captors of Cotati's municipal government were in the majority last night as the city council elected a woman-mayor, considered disarming its policemen, opposed nuclear power plants and commemorated National Guard killing of students two years ago.

In a fast-paced meeting with a packed council chamber, Annette Lombardi, 24, was sworn into office and elected mayor. She and Geoffrey Dunham, 29, and Stephen Laughlin, 25, were swept into office April 11 ousting three incumbents. Miss Lombardi had been vacationing in Italy and returned this week to join her running mates on the council.

The young councilmen who said they were morally opposed to armed policemen in the streets of Cotati, were told by City Atty. William Cutler it would be illegal to disarm police because state law requires local agencies to provide all necessary safety euipment including guns.

ANNETTE LOMBARDI

saying he would not send his officers out on the streets unarmed. He said that guns have been used only twice in 10 years in Cotati.

City Clerk Carol Bonfigli said Miss Lombardi and Dunham generally agreed with Locarini that guns are necessary since violent crimes are on the rise in Sonoma County.

Former mayor Sam Houser rose to tell those seeking disarmament that they might as well do away with the police force if officers are unarmed. The idea of doing away with police brought cheers from the young people crowded into the packed room.

On the power plant question, the youthful majority overturned the vote of the previous council and opposed installation of a nuclear power plant in Mendocino County. Holdover councilmen Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert T. Winter dissented.

In other business, the council named Winter as its representative to the city-schools coordinating committee and approved final plans to renovate an old water well. Bids are to be opened June 7.

At the meeting's close, the youths called for a moment of silence in memory of students slain two years ago at Kent State and Jackson State universities.

Airliner Is Hijacked; Eastern Meets Demands—Money, Chutes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A man saying he had a pistol and explosives hijacked an airliner en route from Allentown, Pa., to Washington with 56 persons aboard today, demanding $303,000, parachutes, food and cigarettes. After the plane landed and at least part of the demands were met, the plane left for an unknown destination.

The Eastern Air Lines 727 jet was diverted from Washington National Airport to Dulles International, about 40 miles from Washington, was refueled and took off after demands were met.

After the money and other items were delivered to the plane, 49 passengers were allowed to disembark and were taken to the terminal in vans.

The Federal Aviation Administration was unable to determine immediately what the next destination of the commandeered aircraft might be.

An FAA spokesman said the plane was taken over by a man who told the crew he had a pistol and explosives in his briefcase.

The airline raised "about $300,000" and delivered it to the plane, the spokesman said, along with two cartons of cigarettes (he requested Benson & Hedges), food and about eight parachutes.

Nixon Appoints New Cancer Probe Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today named Dr. Frank J. Rauscher Jr., a noted microbiologist, as director of the National Cancer Institute.

Rauscher, 40, has worked at the National Cancer Institute since 1959. He was promoted to director from his job as scientific director for etiology — activities related to finding cancer causes.

Rauscher succeeds Dr. Carl G. Baker, who was named special assistant to the director of the National Institutes of Health. Rauscher's job was upgraded by legislation enacted last December which gives the National Cancer Institute director direct access to the White House.

Rauscher's appointment paves the way for an intensified scientific drive to find cures and treatments for cancer, which will kill an estimated 320,000 Americans this year.

After meeting with Nixon, Rauscher predicted rapid progress but cautioned against expectations of sudden breakthroughs that might eliminate the dread disease.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Crisis Session

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey's top military leaders met today with President Cevdet Sunday in the midst of an armed forces emergency alert called to ward off new attacks by urban guerrillas who hijacked an airliner and tried to assassinate the nation's police commander.

Tagmac, one of the military men who have run the government by "remote control" for 14 months, ordered the emergency alert Thursday after four gunmen shot and wounded Gen. Kemalettin Eken outside his home. Eken commands the Turkish National Police.

Hoover Honored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday named the FBI's new headquarters, being built at an estimated cost of $126 million, the J. Edgar Hoover Building.

Nixon took the step as a final tribute to the FBI director, who died at his home Tuesday at 77. Hoover was buried yesterday in a private family ceremony at the Congressional Cemetery, about one mile from the Capitol.

The new FBI building complex has been under construction since 1967 and is scheduled for completion in 1974. It stands across Pennsylvania Avenue from the Justice Department, where the FBI headquarters now is.

Stages Ambush

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A gunman ambushed an Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR) patrol near Londonderry today, spraying the vehicle with machine gun fire but causing no injuries, an army spokesman said.

It was the second time in 24 hours that security forces narrowly escaped injury in an ambush. A similar incident occurred early Thursday at Kilrea, north of Belfast, involving an army patrol.

The army spokesman said the UDR patrol, Northern Ireland's part-time defense force, was hit as it cruised the streets of Dungiven, a Roman Catholic village 20 miles south of Londonderry. Fire was returned but no hits claimed.

Israeli Visitor

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — Romania, backed by Israel, sought today to influence a settlement of the Middle East crisis.

The Israeli backing of Romania's Arab-Israeli reconciliation role came in a speech in Bucharest yesterday by Israeli Premier Gold Meir.

"We believe the Romanian government can be helpful in influencing the parties in the conflict to enter into negotiations," she said.

Mrs. Meir began a four-day official visit to Romania yesterday — the first by an Israeli premier to any Communist state.

21 Drown

RETHYMNON, Crete (UPI) — A 15-foot fishing boat with 27 high school girls capsized in the Mediterranean off Crete's northern coast yesterday. Twenty-one girls drowned. Premier George Papadopoulos sent condolences to the families of those drowned and ordered an investigation.

Witnesses said the sea was calm but a slight swell caused the girls in one boat to panic and they moved from their places, upsetting the distribution of weight in the boat, which overturned.

Woman Power

ATLANTA (UPI) — The League of Women Voters decided by a 2 to 1 margin yesterday to keep male members in a second-class status without any right to vote.

"We are one of the few moderate organizations for women that has power," Pricilla M. Leith of Newton, Mass., said when the issue hit the floor for debate by more than 1,500 delegates attending the league's national convention.

If male members were allowed to vote, she predicted that the power of the women would be diluted in the 160,000-member organization.

Act Of Mercy

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — The antigovernment guerrillas who hijacked a Turkish jetliner in an effort to force release of condemned prisoners in Turkey helped save the life of a passenger who suffered a heart attack on the jet, witnesses said today.

Shortly after the Turkish Airlines DC9 landed at Vrajdebna airport, an Ankara clerk named Ismet Altingoz suffered a heart attack. Witnesses said the hijackers went to his side and one of them began massaging the man's chest. Others called medical authorities and helped ambulance crews get him to a hospital. Altingoz later reported he was improved.

No Change

LONDON (UPI) — The ruling Conservative and opposition Labor parties each won a seat in returns today from two special parliamentary elections, leaving the national balance in Parliament unchanged.

But the Labor Party scored landslide gains on the local level in borough council elections in England and Wales.

The Conservatives held the parliament seat in Kingston-Upon-Thames and Labor regained the seat in Southwark, where Laborite MP Ray Gunter had declared himself an independent because of his party's opposition to British entry into the European Common Market.

747 Challenger

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today unveiled plans for a giant 350-passenger airbus, representing the first Soviet attempt to penetrate the big jet market now dominated by the Boeing 747.

Trud, the trade union newspaper, published a photograph of a mockup of the plane, to be called the Ilyushin 86. The official Tass news agency also published photographs of the mockup.

The photographs showed a thick-bodied craft with four engines and high-elevator tail construction.

"Three hundred and fifty persons will be able to sit in its four comfortable cabins," Trud said.

Principal Of School Slain

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—An elementary school principal was shot to death in his office Thursday while most of the students were in the playground.

Police today sought a teacher for questioning in the death of Virgil Ouren, 32, who died of bullet wounds in the head and abdomen.

Witnesses said a man matching the description of Samuel Knipmeyer, 50, a teacher, was seen running from the school. Police Chief James Parker said there had been some disciplinary problems and that Ouren and Knipmeyer "hadn't been getting along."

NBC Asks FCC For More Prime Air Time

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The National Broadcasting Corp. has asked the Federal Communications Commission to abandon as a failure its rule limiting networks to three hours of prime time telecasting per night.

"We believe that the first year's experience under the rule has shown that the public has voted against it by reduced viewing," NBC president Julian Goodman said Thursday.

Goodman told a convention of executives of NBC-TV affiliate stations that the request was filed with the FCC Wednesday.

The limit "has injured most stations and most program producers," he said. "It has limited the networks ability to develop a varied schedule of series and specials. It has worked against program innovation and it has not offered the offsetting benefits that were contemplated."

He said NBC hoped the commission would reconsider the ruling and "hopefully reach a decision early next year, in time for setting the 1973-74 season schedules."

"If, as we believe, a regulatory experiment has failed of its purpose, the commission would be acting courageously and responsibly in correcting the situation.

"We hope that broadcasters, producers and any other parties who feel the rule has been more harmful than helpful will come forward with their evidence to help the commission reach a conclusion on the merits."

The ruling was made to give local stations more prime air time, hoping they would experiment with new programming and develop fresh concepts. There has been little such development, television industry figures have said, mainly because local stations do not have the money and resources of talent and technicians to mount such enterprises, preferring instead to buy "canned" material to fill the vacant half hour.

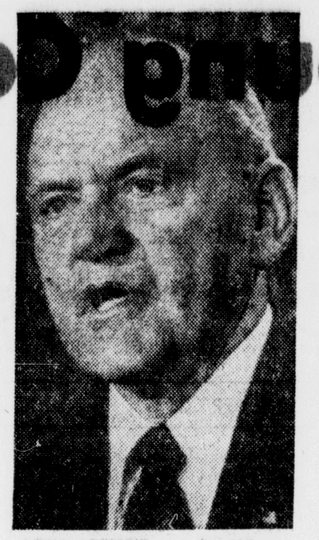
Reagan Aide Changes Posts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan has named Consumer Affairs Director Donald G. Livingston as his assistant in charge of coordinating and developing administration programs and policy.

Reagan named the 34-year-old Republican Thursday to assume the $27,500-a-year post June 1. Livingston's successor has not yet been named.

Livingston, who lives in Carmichael, has headed the Consumer Affairs Department since last October. He joined the administration in 1967.

The programs and policy post has been vacant for several months since George Steffes resigned to go into private business.



NEW CHIEF — President Nixon has named L. Patrick Gray III to direct the FBI through November. He will replace J. Edgar Hoover, who died this week.

Nixon Assistant Attacks Prizes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Patrick J. Buchanan, special assistant to President Nixon, said Thursday it was atrocious and appalling that Jack Anderson and The New York Times were awarded Pulitzer Prizes for disclosing secret government documents.

Buchanan, who writes speeches for the President and prepares news summaries for him, said the prizes to Anderson, who disclosed policy making in the India-Pakistan war, and The Times, which published the Pentagon Papers, were bad lessons for young journalists.

"I'm a graduate of the Columbia School of Journalism which gave out the awards for those two Pulitzer Prizes and I think it's appalling that they gave them to The New York Times and Jack Anderson," Buchanan said in an interview on the Public Broadcasting Service.

"What kind of lesson is that really for young journalists right now? What's he told to do? What he's told to do, in effect, is if you can get ahold of some secret documents, if you can seduce some miserable government employe to give you an NSC (National Security Council) security memorandum and then run it on your own, in your column, you can get a Pulitzer Prize," he said.

He said Anderson "could have opened his mail one morning and someone...out there to, say, to undercut the administration's policy in Asia or to undercut Dr. (Henry) Kissinger personally for whatever motive...anyhow, someone who violated his trust sent this...and he (Anderson) could have picked it out of his mail and run it in his column.

"Now does that entitle him to a Pulitzer Prize? That's not what they used to be given for," he said.

"And so I think, as I say, I think the Columbia—the awards were—those two awards were atrocious," he said.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The president of Mexico, Luis Echeverria Alvarez, will begin an official visit to the United States June 15, with a two-day stay in Washington followed by a visit to several other cities not yet named.

Dr. Spock Slates Two Talks Tonight

Antidraft activist Dr. Benjamin Spock will visit Southern Sonoma and Marin counties today, speaking in Cotati and at the College of Marin.

Spock will be speaking as a presidential candidate on the "People's Party" ticket, backed by a coalition of peace and civil rights groups.

He will appear at 6 p.m. at the Inn of the Beginning, 8970 Old River Highway, where he will address three newly-elected Cotati councilmen —Geoffrey Dunham, Annette Lombardi and Stephen Laughlin.

Two hours later, at 8 p.m., he will speak at Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

Robert Winnie, a worker in the Mill Valley office of People's Party, said Spock will speak on the issues of withdrawal from the war in Vietnam, an end to racism (his running mate is black), a more equal basis for taxation, women's liberation and abolition of the draft.

Spock was nominated in November 1971 to run for the presidency with Julius Hobson, a Washington, D. C. economist.

Plan Open House

The committee to reelect Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. will hold a campaign open house from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday at committee headquarters, 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo.

BENJAMIN SPOCK
Will speak today

Spock was convicted of conspiring to counsel evasion of the draft and sentenced to a two-year prison term in 1968. A year later a federal appeals court overturned the conviction.

Personal Flotation Devices Now Required

The law now requires one Coast Guard approved personal flotation device for each person aboard a vessel, including sailboats, canoes, rowboats and towed recreational boats, the Boating Safety Branch of the 12th Coast Guard District, reminded boaters today.

In the past only motor boats were required to carry a flotation device for each person, the Coast Guard said.

Approved devices include life preserver, buoyant vest, buoyant cushion, a buoy life ring and special devices such as a "float coat, racing jacket, ski vest, etc., the Coast Guard advised.

Commercial fishing boats may use wood floats to meet the requirement.

Persons using a racing shell or rowing scull need not comply if an approved device for each oarsman is carried aboard an accompanying vessel.

$60 Wirecutters Reported Stolen

A $60 pair of wirecutters was stolen between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 6:15 a.m. Wednesday from Mauch Electric, 92 Louise Street, owner Oliver F. Mauch reported to San Rafael police yesterday.

Entry was gained by prying open a rear garage door in the building, police said.

Republicans Accept Miami Beach's Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican National Committee voted formally today to shift the site of its 1972 national convention from San Diego, Calif. to Miami Beach, Fla., where President Nixon was nominated four years ago.

The decision was made by voice vote, without audible dissent, after a recital of the problems the party has confronted in construction and rising costs at San Diego.

The committee thus reversed action taken at its Denver meeting last July when it rejected Miami Beach by an overwhelming roll call vote in favor of San Diego, then the President's known choice.

Mayor Chuck Hall of Miami Beach extended the city's invitation and said details had worked out well. He said the city council vote was 4 to 3 for the invitation but he believes he could say that the entire council wanted the Republican convention at Miami Beach on its scheduled dates, August 21 to 23.

The Democrats also will hold their convention in the same city, starting July 10.

Richard L. Herman of Nebraska, vice chairman of the arrangements committee, read that committee's resolution, which said the site must be moved to avoid exorbitant costs. He said the cost at Miami Beach would be "substantially lower" despite expenses incurred already at San Diego.

Herman reported that the difficulties arose over setting up facilities at the San Diego Sports Arena because of substantial disagreement over clauses in the contract between the GOP and Peter Graham, owner of the Arena. He said there also was concern that the Arena would not be ready on time and about the threat of strikes by construction workers.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chairman of the national committee, said the shift was proposed "with anguish and reluctantly."

"We will renominate Richard Nixon this year and will reelect Richard Nixon this year," Dole said.

Man Found Dead In His Bed

A San Anselmo man was found dead in his bed yesterday, the victim of either a heart attack or smoke inhalation, according to Keith C. Craig, coroner's investigator.

Melville Robert Westenberg, 53, of 26 Sun View Avenue, a salesman for the Automobile Association of America, was found by police yesterday about 11:50 a.m. after they had been called to the home by Westenberg's ex-wife, Gloria Mansfield.

Craig said Westenberg had been dead from five to seven days. From evidence found at the scene, Craig said he believed a fire started in Westenberg's bed covers. Westenberg had apparently dragged a burning mattress into the bathroom and put it into the shower, then ran back into the bedroom with water in a wastebasket to put out the blanket fire. Then he either became overcome by smoke or ill, went into another bedroom, got into bed and died.

A daughter living out of state called her mother after her father failed to answer the telephone for many days. The mother went to his home and found newspapers piled up outside, and called police.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills Mortuary in San Anselmo.

Suspect Held On Check Charges

Ronald Lynn Holloway, 25, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of passing three bad checks and having one in his possession.

Holloway is to appear in Superior Court Monday on charges of passing the three checks worth $115.58 at the United Market in San Anselmo Dec. 19, 20 and 23.

When San Anselmo police arrested him Jan. 21, he allegedly had a check that wasn't his.

ECONOMY

dent's Council of Economic Advisers.

Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the council, told a news conference the 5.9 per cent rate of unemployment was still too high, but he said there was a "strong probability" it would drop to 5 per cent or less by the end of the year.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the decline in food prices was "good news for American families."

But he said the increase in the cost of raw materials and manufactured products "reveals that inflation is still a fact of economic life.

The BLS said there was little change in the employment situation in April, with the number of persons holding jobs remaining at 81.2 million and those out of work at nearly 5.01 million.

Jobless rates remained little changed for adult men at 4.3 per cent, adult women at 5.4 per cent and teenagers at 17.3 per cent. Unemployment for white workers also held steady at 5.4 per cent, but the rate for Negro workers declined from 10.5 down to 9.6 per cent.

The average work week and weekly earnings for rank and file production workers increased, apparently reflecting the recent upturn in the economy.

Average work week for the private nonagricultural economy increased two-tenths of an hour to 37.3 hours, the highest in 25 months. The manufacturing work week went up four-tenths of an hour to 40.8 hours, highest in three years.

Overtime hours in manufacturing inched up one tenth of an hour to 3.4 hours, the highest for factory overtime since December, 1969.

ALDEN FLEMING
Identified Angela

Father, Son Put Angela In Marin

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The son of the owner of a San Rafael service station joined his father yesterday in identifying Angela Davis as the woman who accompanied young Jonathan Jackson to the station the day before the Aug. 7, 1970 Civic Center shootout.

Peter Fleming, 25, like his father, Alden, said that Miss Davis and Jackson came to their station across the street from the Civic Center because they needed help in starting a yellow rental van of the same type used the next day in an aborted courtroom escape attempt.

A third man, Michael E. Vonada, said he was also at the station when two blacks entered. Vonada, a fireman, identified the couple as Miss Davis and Jackson.

Tracing the events the last few days before the Aug. 7, 1970 shoot-out, this week witnesses have testified about these dates. (Some of which were incorrectly given in yesterday's Independet-Journal):

Sunday, Aug. 2, 1970 — Miss Davis took a plane from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Jonathan Jackson attended a Soledad Brothers Defense Committee open house in San Francisco.

Tuesday, Aug. 4, 1970 — Young Jackson borrowed a car from a woman in San Jose which she did not get back until weeks after the shoot-out when it was found at the San Francisco International Airport. Miss Davis and Jonathan went to San Quentin where the 17-year-old visited his brother while she waited for him.

Wednesday, Aug. 5, 1970 — Miss Davis and Jonathan again went to San Quentin. Miss Davis had to remain in a waiting room but she waved at George Jackson while his brother was talking to him. Late in the afternoon Miss Davis bought a shotgun at a San Francisco pawn shop. She was accompanied by a young Negro man.

Thursday, Aug. 6, 1970 — Jonathan Jackson rented a van from a Hertz agency in San Francisco. Later in the day he and Miss Davis were seen at the Civic Center in a yellow van which developed battery trouble.

—installation of a definite "coalition government" in Saigon, France-Soir said.

The United States feels such a coalition would be Communist-dominated, leading to an eventual Communist takeover of the South.

But Tho said North Vietnam would not accept a cease-fire on the battlefield until the United States agreed to the coalition the newspaper said.

The newspaper said the United States proposed a ceasefire that would enable the North Vietnamese to hold conquered territory in the south.

In return it sought an "honorable" withdrawal of remaining U.S. troops in South Vietnam and the return of the prisoners held in Hanoi. The newspaper Le Monde said after hearing Kissinger's report on his meeting with Tho, President Nixon decided to break off the weekly Vietnam peace conference sessions.

In announcing the break, U.S. negotiator William J. Porter indicated after Thursday's 149th session that secret negotiations also had failed.

France-Soir reported on Tuesday that the United States had proposed a seven-day cease-fire in Vietnam and that Hanoi appeared amenable. The U.S. State Department denied the report.

Council, Board To Work Out Site Problems

The Rohnert Park City Council and Cotati School District board have agreed to work together to solve school site problems.

At a joint dinner meeting Wednesday, the council heard school board members say they will have severe financial problems in the future as more subdivisions are built and school enrollment grows.

Mayor Arthur N. Roberts said the council agreed to help the board acquire sites, saying the city perhaps could buy land and lease it back to the district or sell it at a low price.

Roberts said the two groups also agreed to work together to buy and develop play areas adjacent to schools.

Father Held In Slaying Of Daughter

TAIPEI (UPI)—Prof. Li Chi-tai, dean of diplomatic affairs department at Chengchi University, told police he killed his daughter Thursday because she disturbed his sleep by reciting her school homework aloud.

Police said the professor surrendered after the slaying and led officers to his daughter's body.

Police said the girl had been beaten, strangled with a necktie and her head chopped with a butcher knife.

OBITUARIES

George Vogensen, 76, Dies

George Vogensen, 76, retired machinist, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

He was born in Denmark and moved to Petaluma 61 years ago. He worked on ranches in the Two Rock area until his marriage to Mildred Matthews 54 years ago.

Vogensen had worked as a machinist for the Bethlehem Steel Co. in San Francisco and maintained homes there and in Marin County for many years. He retired 11 years ago and moved to 411 Melvin Street, Petaluma.

He was a member of Petaluma Odd Fellows Lodge 30 and Rebekah Lodge 86.

He is also survived by two sons, Sidney Vogensen of San Rafael and Leslie Vogensen of Mill Valley; two brothers, Viggo and Emil Vogensen of Denmark; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Inurnment will be private. Contributions may be made to any charity.

ERNESTO E. QUINTANA

A Mass of the Resurrection for Ernesto E. Quintana, 33, a truck driver of Burley, Ida., who has three brothers and a sister in Novato, will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Monday at Our Lady of Loretto Church, Novato.

Quintana, a former resident of San Jose, who recently moved to Idaho, was fatally wounded in an auto accident on his way home from work Wednesday.

He was a native of New Mexico and had served in the Navy.

Surviving are his wife, Susan of Novato; five sons, Leroy, Michael, Tony, James and Ernesto (Jr.) Quintana; two daughters, Lorie and Adonna Quintana and two sisters, Febe Herble of Novato and Aurora Hurchins of Mississippi.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

VICTOR FASANO

Victor E. Fasano, an electrician from San Anselmo, died yesterday at a local hospital of apparently natural causes, although he had been hospitalized with injuries received in a fall from a ladder on April 12, according to the Marin coroner's office.

He was 65. Born in San Francisco, he came to Marin County in 1948. He worked for 15 years for the Century Electric Co. of San Francisco. He and his wife, Dorothy, lived at 1239 San Anselmo Avenue.

Fasano is survived, besides his wife, by a son, Michael Fasano of San Rafael; a brother, Joseph Fasano of Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz County, and a brother and sister in Italy.

MRS. CRABTREE

Funeral arrangements for Alice T. Crabtree of Mill Valley are pending at Myers Funeral Service in Porterville, Tulare County.

Mrs. Crabtree, 86, died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of California, she had lived in Marin County 10 years, residing at 28 Glen Drive.

There are no immediate survivors.

MRS. PLESHE

Funeral for Grace McAuliffe Pleshe, sister of Frank McAuliffe, owner of the Lagunitas Lodge, was held today in the Patterson and O'Connell Chapel by the Wayside, San Mateo.

Mrs. Pleshe died Monday in a Redwood City hospital She also is survived by her husband, Alexander Pleshe of San Carlos. She was a native of San Francisco.

MARY BALLANTYNE

Mary Ballantyne, retired proofreader for a San Francisco printing company, died today in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 76.

A native of Arlington, Mass., she and her late husband, Roy L., moved to Marin County 19 years ago. He was a retired railroad employee who died in 1970. They had celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1967.

They met in Hoboken, New Jersey, where she worked as a proofreader for a printing company, and when they moved to Marin Mrs. Ballatnyne continued in that work at Phillips and Van Orden Co., printers of telephone books. They lived for many years in San Rafael, but before her death she had lived at 35 Carmel Drive, Novato.

Service will be Monday at 1 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

ITU Suit Is Dismissed In Firing Of Printer

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal district court judge dismissed yesterday a suit brought by International Typographical Union Local 21 against the Independent-Journal over the firing of a printer who was a union leader.

The union had sought a court order compelling the I-J to hold a grievance procedure hearing in connection with the November 1969 firing of John J. DeMartini and also asked about $2,000 in lost wages.

The union contended the grievance hearing should have been held because, although the paper had an expired contract with the union at the time, the I-J was still operating under some terms of the contract.

Judge William T. Sweigert dismissed the suit and granted a summary judgment to the I-J. He said that the contract between the union and the I-J was not in effect at the time of DeMartini's firing and, furthermore, that the union had waited too long to bring suit on the matter.

DeMartini had claimed that he was fired because of union activity but I-J officials said it was because he failed to show up for work and did not arrange for a substitute.

DeMartini, a vice president of the union local, also lost an appeal on his firing to the National Labor Relations Board.

The union went on strike against the paper in January 1970. The strife-ridden walkout officially ended in September 1971, when employees voted down the union.

Decision Is Delayed On Pay Raises

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement District board has delayed a decision until Wednesday on a request by district employees for a 5.5 per cent salary increase.

The board met Wednesday night on the matter but was unable to reach a decision, according to Mgr. Allan D. Telford. The request will be considered at 7:15 p.m., preceding the board's regular meeting at 8 p.m. at 201 Third Street, San Rafael, he said.

The district has nine employees. Last year, they received a 6 per cent salary increase.

Time Service

The Novato exchange of the Western California Telephone Co. has instituted a time service to its customers, according to Gordon L. Lee, division manager. Persons who want to know what time it is should call four-one-seven, he said.

CSEA Employees At College Ask 5.5 Pct. Salary Increase

The Marin Community College District board has received a request for a 5.5 per cent salary schedule increase from employees who belong to the California School Employees Association.

Sixty-six members of the 106-man nonteaching staff of the district belong to the association. The district had no estimate of the cost of the increase.

According to Earlene Jones, district public relations officer, three unions are represented among the district's nonteaching employees. She said salary requests have not come from them to the other two unions, but when a salary settlement was made, it would cover all nonteaching employees.

The Marin Community College District board also:

COURSES — Approved two courses in banking and gardening and deferred action on two other courses, in literature and nursing, until its May 17 meeting.

TOOLS — Approved applying for $180,000 in tools from the National Industrial Equipment Reserve. The district will pay finance, shipping and installation costs of $10,150 if it receives the tools.

HIRING — Rejected a request for two more employees in the district's business office.

TEACHER — Agreed to hire a teacher for "Systems Approach to Community Development," with the proviso that no tenure will be granted for the one-year job.

BIKE PATHS — Set a public hearing for May 17 on granting easements for bicycle paths next to Corte Madera Creek.

CLASSROOMS — Held over to May 17 accepting classroom and office space at Hamilton Air Force Base for Indian Valley Colleges. The district now holds some classes on the base.

LSD-Like Drug Slows Cancer

BOSTON (UPI)—The growth of breast tumors in mice can be retarded with ergocornine, a hallucinogen similar to LSD, researchers reported Wednesday.

The drug can shut off the lifelines of breast cancers and block their growth in animals through the central nervous system, said Dr. Dharm V. Singh, an endocrinologist at the University of Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Singh, in a paper read before a meeting of the American Association of Cancer Research, emphasized that the method was not a cure for cancer but a way of controlling tumor growth.

Legislative Candidates Offered A $250,000 Pie

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Each state legislator running for re-election has been offered part of a $250,000 campaign contribution from contractors and Santa Anita Race Track, it was disclosed yesterday.

The San Jose News reported that Kenneth Ross Jr., lobbyist for special interests, made the offer to legislators through Democratic and Republican party leaders in both the Senate and Assembly.

The contribution would come in the form of free computerized mailing services to candidates produced by Ross' former direct mailing company, Kenneth Ross & Co. of Los Angeles.

If the offer is accepted by party leaders, the News said, it would mean the equivalent of a $2,500 contribution to each of the 100 candidates in legislative races, most of whom are incumbents. Non-incumbents would receive the contribution when the incumbent was not seeking re-election.

However, party leaders could use the computer service to help one of their own challengers defeat the opposition party's incumbent.

The computerized service makes it possible to send a "personalized letter" to each voter which refers to the voter by name in the body of the letter.

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, said he will "probably" recommend the Assembly Democratic Caucus not accept the offer itself. But he said there would be nothing to stop individual Democrats from making their own arrangements with Ross.

Assembly Republican leaders indicated they feared adverse public reaction if they accepted the offer not because of anything illegal, but because of the large contribution coming from a single lobbyist. But they said GOP assemblymen would be allowed to deal directly with Ross.

Ross said he consulted with Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., the state's chief election officer, to make sure the contribution complied with campaign disclosure laws.

"We recognize that in a sense we're sticking our neck out by doing it all in one spot because it's all very evident," Ross said. "But we feel on the other hand, we're being very honst about it. I just think it's a cleaner way of doing it."

Stolen Car Report

A 1964 white Chevrolet pickup truck, license 60985C, was stolen from a Northgate Shopping Center parking lot between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Wednesday, owner Jackalene P. Greer of 4 Tilden Drive, Novato, told San Rafael police yesterday.

Senate Demos Say 100 In State Made $50,000, Paid No Taxes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Marking the first anniversary of what they called the "great Ronald Reagan income tax flap," Senate Democrats yesterday released figures showing that besides Reagan at least 100 Californians with incomes above $50,000 paid no state income taxes last year.

"The figures reflect a staggering imbalance in our taxing system," declared Senate Majority Caucus Chairman Mervyn M. Dymally. "I find these figures very hard to ecplain to people in my district in Watts who make $6,000 a year and pay both state and federal income taxes."

"Only Monday the governor said the working man is the one who would suffer if tax loopholes were closed," the Los Angeles Democrat said at a news conference. "I think these figures show quite well who would be hurtin' — and it wouldn't be the working man."

The statistics, compiled by the state Franchise Tax Board, showed that of 101 persons paying no state income tax on 1970 income, 80 had adjusted gross incomes between $50,000 and $100,000. The remaining 21 had incomes exceeding $100,000, and some with incomes above $500,000.

A year ago today Reagan revealed he paid no state income tax on 1970 income despite his statements that "taxes should hurt." Last month Reagan said he did pay taxes on his 1971 income.

Dymally and members of Project Loophole, a voluntary organization formed by the senator, delivered presents to the governor's office to "commemorate" the tax flap.

The presents were a bouquet of flowers and three huge aspirin boxes. Mike English, a Sacramento State College student and a member of Project Loophole, said, "Now that the governor knows once again that taxes hurt, we thought these might help with the pain."

Precinct Residence Of 30 Days Ruled By Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court ruled unanimously yesterday that starting with the November general election, only 30 days residence in the precinct, county or state will be required to vote.

The decision said that voters must be permitted to register through the 30th day before an election.

Present voting residence requirements in California are 90 days in the county and 54 days in the precinct. To qualify for voting the citizen must register 53 days before an election.

The court said the new requirements would not apply to the June 6th primary this year because time is so short it would result in "needless confusion." Before the November election, the court said, the legislature will have a chance to make any law changes needed.

The ruling was in accord with a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision striking down Tennessee requirements of one year and 90 days residence.

A 1970 federal law directed the states to allow residents to register to vote for president up to 30 days before the elections.

The courts concluded lengthy residence requirements unconstitutionally deprived a large number of citizens in the present mobile society of the right to vote.

The California court said a 90-day residency requirement was not necessary to prevent electorial fraud or to assure that voters would know about the issue.

Clinic Plan Opposed By Committee

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee has recommended that the Marin County Planning Department disapprove the design of a proposed veterinary clinic at 546 Miller Avenue.

According to city zoning administrator Howard R. McGill, the committee objected Tuesday to both the architectural treatment and the landscaping plans.

The committee acted in an advisory capacity to the cou planning department beca the site of the clinic is outs the Mill Valley city limits.

It also approved plans fo combination medical-prof sional building at 239 Mi Avenue. The building is to converted from a single-fam residence.

Wallace Tennessee Sweep Puts Him In Third Place

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, getting two of every three votes cast in a state angered by racial busing edicts, swept all 49 national convention delegates in Thursday's Tennessee Democratic primary.

The triumph raised Wallace's delegate total to 169, moving him into third place behind Sens. George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey and ahead of Sen. Edmund Muskie.

More important, Wallace said, it had the people of Tennessee "sending a strong message to the Democratic Party." That message, he said, is that the party will "have a platform like George Wallace stands for."

Humphrey finished a distant second in the field of 11 candidates, and McGovern was even further behind in third.

With 98 per cent of the precincts reporting, Wallace had 331,543 votes, or 68 per cent. Humphrey had 77,695, or 16 per cent. McGovern had 35,288 or 7 per cent.

Shirley Chisholm, the black congresswoman from New York who was the only candidate other than Wallace to campaign in Tennessee in recent weeks, placed fourth with 18,625, or 4 per cent. Muskie, who avoided Tennessee after making a probusing statement in Chattanooga last fall, was far back in fifth with 9,720, 2 per cent.

It was Wallace's second primary triumph and was similar to his first, in Florida, in that he benefitted from the presence of a school busing referendum on the ballot. Tennessee voters —concerned by busing orders in Nashville and Memphis —came out 4 to 1 in favor of a Constitutional amendment to ban busing for the purpose of racial balance.

Wallace routed the field in metropolitan areas hit by busing orders. But he also enjoyed lopsided margins in numerous counties with virtually no blacks and consequently no busing situations.

President Nixon, who carried Tennessee in the 1968 election, took 96 per cent of the vote in the GOP presidential preference primary, swamping Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Paul McCloskey of California.

But three times as many Tennesseans voted for Wallace in the Democratic primary than for Nixon. Heavy Republican crossovers were apparent in every area and particularly in East Tennessee, traditionally a GOP stronghold.

Although Wallace directed much of his appeal at the working man, he fared well in high as well as low income white neighborhoods. The Belle Meade precinct of Nashville —one of the state's most affluent —gave Wallace 366 votes to 135 for McGovern and 57 for Humphrey.

UNDER OLD GLORY — Alabama Gov. George Wallace appeared to be under the Stars and Stripes yesterday as he stressed a point during an address before about 900 flag-waving supporters in Saginaw, Mich. Tri City airport. It was Wallace's second campaign appearance in Michigan before the state's May 16 primary.

Says Talk Hurts Hanoi, Holds POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hanoi has indicated it might release more POWs if it was certain the U. S. government would not use them for what North Vietnam called "propaganda purposes," according to Teamsters Vice President Harold Gibbons.

The alleged propaganda activities of the POWs, Gibbons said, involved the last three men released by Hanoi in the fall of 1969 —Navy Lt. Robert Frishman, former Navy Seaman Douglas Hegdahl, and Air Force Capt. Wesley Rumble.

He told a news conference Thursday that the Communists said they could understand a repatriated prisoner being returned to duty and resuming bombing missions over North Vietnam, but could not understand, he added, the Pentagon-sponsored tours at which an ex-POW would talk about "pulling out fingernails."

Gibbons, who visited Hanoi in March, said his delegation was not permitted to see an American POW camp because locations of the prisons have been highly classified since the unsuccessful 1970 U. S. commando raid on Song Tay.

Two prisoners he was allowed to talk to, whom he did not identify, were escorted to and from the interview site by a military staff car, he said.

Nixon Risking Rebuff From POW Families

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is risking with his Vietnam policies a rebuff from a group that was once among his most loyal and effective supporters —the families of American prisoners-of-war.

Relatives of POW's and men missing-in-action (MIA) will gather this weekend in suburban Virginia to evaluate what progress the administration has made since September in freeing the prisoners.

None is satisfied and the debates within the community of POW and MIA families now is whether the administration is to be faulted for the lack of progress and, if so, what to do about it.

The opposing views were to be aired at a special meeting of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. The League has been characterized in the past —unjustly, according to its defenders —as pro-administration.

Whatever truth the charge once had, the fact that the organization is convening this evening and the anti-administration criticism leveled by an increasing number of its members made it clear the league is considerably less satisfied with the Nixon policy now than it was seven months ago.

At that time, the League, meeting for its annual convention, sharply rejected attempts to revise its bylaws and shift it from an organization dedicated solely to the humanitarian goals of improving treatment of the men to one that would work politically for an end to the war and release of the prisoners.

But shortly before adjourning, the membership also adopted a resolution declaring that if the administration had not resolved the POW-MIA problem by May, the League would meet "to reassess the international political situation," evaluate the administration's progress on the POW-MIA problem and "determine what course of action the League should take" during the 1972 election campaign.

Unlike the September convention, the upcoming session will see virtually no involvement by the government. Seven months ago the military provided special, free transportation of members to Washington and furnished a variety of services at the meeting. The administration capped its effort when Nixon made a surprise and enthusiastically welcomed appearance at the closing banquet.

An even more significant difference will be evident when relatives of POW's will caucus separately from relatives of MIA's. A number of POW relatives contend that one reason the League has not criticized the administration is that only about one-quarter of its approximately 2,700 members are POW relatives.

Hearing Ordered In Burglary Of Store

A preliminary hearing on a burglary charge against 18-year-old Mark Bennett Keithly of no known address has been set for Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Keithley, who has pleaded innocent, was arrested by Mill Valley police Monday after his prints were compared with those listed from items at Bennett's Variety Store, 19 Throckmorton Avenue, which was broken into April 14. The owner is still trying to detemine what is missing, according to police.

Dockers Await Talks On Fund

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— West Coast dock workers will not renew their 134-day strike Monday if talks are held with management regarding a proposed escrow fund for $20 million in wage increases, it was reported Thursday.

Industry sources said such negotiations between the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association were expected to take place next week.

The way for the talks apparently was cleared by Wednesday's decision by U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg.

The union interpreted the decision as saying "there is no legal obstacle" to setting up the fund, into which the PMA would pay the wage increases the Federal Pay Board turned down.

The PMA refused comment.

The union had asked Wollenberg for an order saying that the negotiations for such a fund were not prohibited by certain statements by board staff members.

Atlantic City Mayor Indicted — Extortion

NEWARK (UPI) — Atlantic City Mayor William T. Somers, a former mayor and five present or one-time public officials, including two current city commissioners, were indicted Thursday on federal extortion, conspiracy and bribery charges following a 10-month investigation.

Somers, 55, who faces reelection in Tuesday's nonpartisan municipal balloting along with co-defendants, Commissioners Arthur W. Ponzio, 48, and Karlos R. LaSane, 39, denied the charges.

U.S. Attorney Herbert J. Stern, who announced the charges, said the federal grand jury handed down the 26-count indictment would continue to hear testimony.

Others charged with shaking down nine businesses for more than $28,000 were former Mayor Richard S. Jackson, 64, currently executive director of the Atlantic City Expressway Authority; Robert Glass, 62, city supervisor of airport, park and recreation areas; Germaine Fisher, 58, formerly Ponzio's secretary, and Florence Clark, 71, formerly assistant city purchasing agent.

City police officer Angelo A. Cibbotti, 37, of Ventnor, and the late Atlantic County Solicitor Albert N. Shahadi, were named as co-conspirators but were not indicted.

Cash Box Stolen

A cash box containing $258 in cash and checks was stolen April 28 from McDermott's, Sausalito police reported. Anne Nicholson, clerk of the store on Caledonia Street, said the box was taken from a counter about 2:40 p.m.

Admission To Terrorist Attacks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A member of the Black Liberation Army has admitted the group was responsible for a series of terrorist attacks on police during the past two years, according to a report published yesterday in the San Francisco Examiner.

(The report follows the Independent-Journal's account on April 28 of an aborted bombing effort the night before in Marin City, in the course of which sheriff's deputies arrested Eddie L. Griffin of San Francisco, former Black Panther and now a member of the Black Liberation Army.

(A deputy sheriff keeping an eye on the new sheriff's substation under construction, because of rumor it was targeted for destruction, caught a man taking a bomb into the building and forced him to take it outside, where it exploded. The man arrested was identified as Griffin.

In a copyright story, the Examiner said Anthony Bottom, 20, now in jail, linked the "army" to a shotgun raid on one police station in which an officer was killed, the ambushing and wounding of several policemen, a bank bombing, a church bombing, and several other attempted terrorist attacks.

One of the unsuccessful schemes, Bottom told the Examiner, was an attempt to blow up a police station with a 66-millimeter antitank gun. Lt. Charles Ellis said police are convinced the account given the newspaper by Bottom is true.

"His account includes details which could only be known to active participants," Ellis said.

Investigators have been convinced for some time that the Black Liberation Army was responsible for violent incidents here and in other cities, according to Ellis.

Bottom, convicted for attempting to murder a San Francisco policeman, is also a suspect in the slaying of two New York City officers.

The Examiner said the Black Liberation Army was a militant group linked with the Eldridge Cleaver faction of the Black Panther Party.

Cleaver, now a fugitive in Algeria, two years ago broke with the Oakland branch of the Panthers headed by Huey Newton and Bobby Seale. The latter contend the party is now committed to non-violent political action and advocates using guns only for "defense."

On Aug. 29, 1971, the Ingleside police station was raided by an unknown gunman who fired a shotgun volley killing Sgt. John Young and wounding two others.

No arrests have been made in the attack, which Bottom told the Examiner was carried out by the Black Liberation Army.

The Examiner said Bottom, in a jail interview, also gave his group credit for the following other incidents:

The Oct. 22, 1970, bombing of St. Brendan's Church during the funeral for a policeman illed in a bank holdup.

The Nov. 5, 1968 holdup of a discount store.

The Jan. 13, 1971, ambushing of Officers Dennis Jacobson and Robert Martinez in San Francisco. Both were critically wounded.

The Feb. 6, 1971, ambushing of Special Officer Larry Heap, in which Heap was wounded.

The Feb. 7, 1971, booby-trap of a house in an effort to blow up policemen responding to a call. No one was hurt.

The March 30, 1971, attempted bombing of Mission Police Station. Dynamite planted on the roof failed to explode.

The Aug. 28, 1971, attempt to kill Sgt. George Kowalski. A man pointed a submachine gun at him in his patrol car and fired. The gun jammed. The two suspects were cornered and captured nearby. They were Bottom and Robert Johnson, 21.

One of the weapons found with them was a service revolver taken from the body of Patrolman Joseph Piagentini when he and another policemen were killed in New York City a year ago.

Drunken Driving Crash Kills Two

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—A 44-year-old mother of eight was charged with felony drunken driving Thursday when the car she was driving struck another auto broadside, killing two brothers.

Ruth L. Collins of Belmont was treated at a hospital before being booked at the San Mateo County Jail. She was charged with drunken driving and vehicular manslaughter in the deaths of Bryan C. West, 23, and his brother, Kevin, 18, both of San Mateo.

Elephant Killers

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Wild elephants trampled to death three persons sleeping in a hut Thursday at Laldhanga village, about 120 miles north of here in Uttar Pradesh state, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported today.

Newton Faces New Charges

OAKLAND (UPI) —Black Panther leader Huey Newton appeared in municipal court to answer one charge and found two new counts lodged against him.

Newton, 29, and bodyguard Robert L. Bay, 28, already were charged with exhibiting a gun in a threatening manner on complaint of disc jockey Alonzo Miller, 29.

Miller asserts that Newton and Bay beat him without provocation in a local tavern.

When Newton and Bay appeared for arraignment Thursday, authorities filed additional charges against each of the men—possession of a loaded gun and possession of a concealed weapon.

Crime Increase Ups Aid Claims

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The rise in California crimes is rapidly increasing the claims for compensation made under the state's program of aid to needy victims of violent crimes, Controller Houston I. Flournoy said yesterday.

Flournoy, a member of the Board of Control which rules on the claims, said 528 claims were filed during the first nine months of fiscal 1971-72, and "this was far ahead of any prior full year."

The 199 awards granted during the same period totaled $397,648, also well above any prior full year. Flournoy said that by June 30 the awards probably will exceed $500,000.

Under the program established by the 1965 legislature, needy victims can qualify for compensation up to $5,000 per claim.

Gas Leaks Snag Mine Rescuers

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)—Smoke and carbon monoxide leaking through emergency bulkheads today delayed efforts to reach 50 miners trapped or dead a mile beneath the surface of the Sunshine silver mine.

At least 32 miners are known to have died in the fire that broke out three days ago in the nation's largest silver mine.

Mine officials, who had been expecting all night to announce that the lower reaches of the smoke-filled No. 10 shaft had been reached, said smoke and carbon monoxide leaking through emergency bulkheads had delayed the attempt again.

But they still held out hope that the 50 miners trapped at the 5,000 foot level of No. 10 ere alive.

"Air is being drawn into the area," said Marin C. Chase, general manager of the Sunshine Mining Co. "If anybody is near the air, they could last a long time until we could get to them.

"We all hate to see the time go by, but they still have fresh air and water. There's a chance as long as they don't get up in smoke-filled areas," Chase said.

The fire broke out at mid-day Tuesday at the 3,000 to 4,000 foot level of the mine. Of the 190 men working underground, 108 got out alive. Five bodies were found Tuesday, 19 Wednesday and eight more Thursday.

The fire was still burning somewhere in the depths of the mine as rescue workers concentrated their efforts on getting the trapped miners out.

Eight bodies were found in the No. 10 hoist room Thursday when rescuers finally reached there from both the Jewell Shaft of Sunshine and from a shaft bored through from the adjoining Silver Summit Mine. Twenty-four other victims were recovered Tuesday and Wednesday.

There was no warning Tuesday when 190 miners smelled smoke from a fire that broke out in old timbers somewhere deep inside the 100 miles of chambers and passageways of the 88-year-old mine, the nation's largest producer of silver.

Three Marin Persons On Federal Juries

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three Marin residents are among 44 Bay Area persons who have been appointed to serve on two new federal grand juries.

One, Richard A. Wuopio of Lucas Valley, will serve on a special grand jury appointed by federal judges to investigate wholesale trafficking in heroin and cocaine.

In signing legislation in March creating a drug task force, President Nixon threatened "heads will roll" if the crackdown gets bogged down in bureaucracy.

Thirty-three cities, including San Francisco, were named as target areas for the crackdown by the new Office of Drug Abuse Law Enforcement.

Named as chief prosecutor for the new drug grand jury here was John G. Milano, an assistant U. S. attorney.

Chosen for the regular grand jury, which will handle other federal crimes, were Janet V. Roseyear of Mill Valley and John D. Clark of Sausalito.

Both of the juries will serve four months.

Two Men Hurt In Accident

Two Marin men were hurt, yesterday, neither seriously, in a three-car crash northbound on Highway 101, south of the Seminary Drive exit in Mill Valley, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said attorney Sol A. Abrams, 69, of 6 Sylvan Lane, Ross, was northbound on the freeway about 11:50 a.m. when a flat tire forced his car to slow down.

Witnesses reported the Abrams vehicle was struck from behind by cars driven by Rudolf E. Ebert, 40, of 42 El Camino Drive, Corte Madera, and Patricia E. Frank, 26, of San Francisco, according to the Highway Patrol.

Abrams was treated for a scraped forehead and injured hand at Marin General Hospital and Ebert was treated for facial cuts and multiple bruises at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael.

Strawberry Plan Copies In Mail

Approximately 1,800 copies of a master plan for Strawberry and surrounding areas, proposed by the Strawberry Area Community Council, will be mailed today to residents.

J. Martin Rosse, chairman of the council's planning committee, said the group plans to get in touch with each householder personally for reactions to the master plan proposal.

Results of the opinion survey will be tabulated and presented, along with the plan that Strawberry residents have been preparing since January, to the Marin County Planning Commission, Rosse said.

All Of A Sudden, It's Water, Water For Seaman

MANILA (UPI) —"I just sat down to rest for a minute and the next thing I knew, I was in the water. It's a funny feeling to be out there by yourself and watch your ship going away."

Seaman Apprentice Matthew Allen Setzer, 18, of La Puente, Calif., told newsmen Thursday how he fell overboard from the fleet tug USS Molala and swam for nearly 16 hours toward land until he was rescued.

The incident took place last Thursday night when his ship was about 25 miles west of the U. S. naval base in Subic Bay, about 60 miles northwest of Manila.

Setzer, comfortable and dry in his hospital bed at Subic Bay, recalled he could see land in the distance but even though he swam in that direction, it did not seem to come any closer.

Asked if he thought at any time that he would not make it, he replied, "several times. But I just kept on trucking."

The Molala began to retrace her course when Setzer's absence was discovered, and requested assistance from land.

A Navy P3 patrol aircraft from the nearby Cubi Point Naval Air Station joined the search early Friday morning and at 10:40 a.m. they sighted Setzer, still treading water. They dropped him a raft.

ART REVIEW

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Why some art "looks important" isn't always easy to explain. You see it and the phrase just fits. Which is how it is with Bruce Lauritzen's canvasses, imposing their collective presence this month on corridors at the Marin Civic Center.

Lauritzen's exhibit is in two parts. On the first floor entry to the Hall of Justice are gigantic canvasses he executed a year ago. In each of them, ribbons of hard, clear hues, silver, black and white cut through a shower of confetti-sized colors. These are overlaid in restless layers which group into masses, leaning like windblown seas or highways moving across the surface.

They are further structured by a border or flow of isolating white. It makes them purposeful. And finally, they are altogether heroic which makes them much easier to relate to than Lauritzen's most recent output which is housed on the third floor outside the Supervisors' Chambers.

This is where Lauritzen's idea has evolved, a series of squares within squares cut diagonally and in which the tight spattering has loosened into rain-like splashes and drips of color which now cover the entire surface.

There is an enormous energy in these monumental squares. There is a sense of life at its origin, of disassociated matter, in flux, before it becomes a cohesive force.

In this sense, these ater paintings are an enlarged and microscopic view of the more tightly glued and restrictive forms in the earlier series. They are cause and effect in reverse. The earlier, more structured ones are the effect. While these later ones deal with the cause, with the inner core, with the energy which moves the matter and, in general, with components of the finished idea.

The distinction between them is not in excellence and preference for one phase would be purely emotional. But it does relate to what Lauritzen himself is after. Having felt for a time that communication in art required recognizable symbols, he came to realize that it happened "on many different levels of sensitivity." For this reason and to explore more deeply into himself he gradually turned to the abstract and states that, "this exhibition, as with all of my shows, is one more step toward self-discovery."

These are all "self" paintings in the most crucial sense. They deal with the mind as it is most sensitive to itself and they express this understanding with a powerful visual language of awesome and exciting beauty. Yet it is self-expression without exhibitionism. It is the thoughtful and responsive side of art which, while seeming important and authoritative remains, at all times, honest.

Berkeley Plans Police Review

BERKELEY (UPI) —The Berkeley City Council voted 6-1 Thursday night to establish a police policy review board after several speakers complained of police harassment.

The council said details of the proposed board will be worked out at its next regular meeting May 16.

More than 20 persons from an audience of about 300 addressed the council and approximately 90 per cent complained of being "hassled" by officers.

One woman said she had been called a "whore" by officers along Telegraph Avenue near the University of California.

Petaluma Man Pinned In Car

A 19-year-old Petaluma man was pinned inside his car yesterday after it rolled off East Washington Street west of Ely Road and landed in a creek bed, Petaluma police reported.

It took the Petaluma Fire Department and ambulance crews about 15 minutes to get Steven Wayne Riley of 305 Garfield Drive, Petaluma, out of his car after the 6:30 a.m. accident. Riley was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a bruised right leg, hospital authorities reported.

According to police, Riley's westbound car hit the curb before it rolled over.

EOC Members Told New Director Is Due

A new executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council will be selected within the next two weeks, board members have been told.

About 35 original applicants already have been narrowed to eight by a screening committee which will interview those eight next Friday.

The committee will then recommend two or three candidates to the full board which is expected to select one during a special meeting May 17.

The position was vacated in March when former executive director W. Robert Lomax Jr. quit during a controversy over lack of accountability of agency spending.

The position has been temporarily filled by consultant Benjamin I. Young of Belvedere, who originally signed a 40-day contract for about $4,000.

On Wednesday, the EOC board agreed to extend the $100-per-day agreement for another 10 working days. It also extended that of a bookkeeping firm working in conjunction with Young to put agency records back in order. The firm's contract runs another 19 days at $87 per day.

Emergency Plans Session For Nurses

A meeting for nurses in Marin who do not have an emergency disaster assignment will be held in Room 319 at the Civic Center at 7:30 p.m. May 16, according to Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services.

The meeting, sponsored by the county's emergency health and medical division, will be devoted to planning for emergencies where nurses are needed, Kirby said.

Referral Policy On Developments

The City-County Planning Council of Marin accepted a recommendation last night that Marin's 11 cities refer major development proposals to the county planning staff for comment.

According to County Planning Director Werner Von Gundell, several cities already have referral policies but others don't.

The recommendation, drafted by a council committee, calls for all residential developments of more than 50 units to be referred to the county if they are within 500 feet of unincorporated area or require access over a county-maintained road.

Also, all nonresidential developments covering five acres or more and proposals deemed to have a "substantial impact" on the county as a whole would be referred.

The council, made up of city and county representatives, has no authority to enforce its decision, however.

Von Gundell said he felt confident cities would comply since the recommendation simply calls for the same referral courtesy which has been extended by the county to the cities.

He added that proposals referred to the county will be judged only on their effect on areawide or countywide problems such as traffic or growth.

In other action last night, the council named Councilman George C. Quesada of Novato as chairman, succeeding Anne L. Ellinwood, former Tiburon councilman. County Planning Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo was named to succeed Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as vice chairman.

The council also received staff-prepared drafts of a summary of the final countywide plan, phase two of the balanced transportation report and the preliminary environmental protection policy. The drafts will be discussed at future meetings.

Public Offered CIA China Atlas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For $5.25, any citizen can have his own Central Intelligence Agency document.

The Government Printing Office in Washington is offering for sale 30,000 copies of the CIA's new 82-page, multicolored Atlas of the People's Republic of China.

Officials at the GPO said that except for an annual four-volume series listing the broadcasting stations of the world, the Atlas was the only CIA document they had produced for sale to the public.

In addition to detailed maps of modern China, the Atlas, with the CIA's seal on the cover, also contains historical maps, a number of charts describing the growth of the Chinese economy and a narrative accompanying the maps and charts.

NOD Given To Tentative Fire Budget

A preliminary $23,100 budget for 1972-73 was tentatively approved last night by directors of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District.

The spending program is $50 higher than the current $23,050 budget, according to district clerk Harriet M. Greene.

Mrs. Greene said the district board will not be certain if the district's current 37.5-cent tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation will support the proposed budget until assessed valuation figures for the community are released in August.

The budget includes $4,500 for purchase of new equipment, $3,800 for district insurance, $2,500 for maintenance and repair for the firehouse and firefighting equipment and $1,500 for communications and telephone.

Werber Is Released For Parenthood Role

Frank N. Werber, former manager of the Kingston Trio, won temporary freedom from jail yesterday to be present at the birth of his child.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court ordered Werber, convicted in a 1968 marijuana case, released from Wednesday until May 31 because 18-year-old Diane Barrett is expecting his child prior to May 21.

"What I asking for is something I feel I need and that is to be with my lady now on a day-to-day basis when she needs it," the 42-year-old Werber told the judge. "The sentence was set to go longer. Fine. I can stay there longer, but at what price?" he asked.

The young woman is the daughter of Charles Peter Barrett, one of two men said by agents to have carried a huge cache of marijuana to Werber's former home on DeSilva Island in 1968.

A jury convicted Werber in April 1970 of possessing and growing pot and Judge McGuire sentenced him to six months in jail, three years' probation and a $2,000 fine.

Werber's probation officer argued yesterday the four months Werber already had served was enough, but Deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert argued Werber should have been sent to prison and should now serve his full time, which would expire June 1 with time off for good behavior.

Tam High Land Use Meeting Cancelled

A meeting set for last night to discuss the use of Tamalpais High School District land in Marin City was cancelled when District Trustee Bette Wallace, chairman of a task force studying the matter, fell ill.

No date was set for another meeting.

Smith Seeks Elevation To Higher Court

Peter Allen Smith, senior judge on the Marin Municipal Court bench, has joined four other candidates seeking an appointment to a superior court post being vacated in June by the resignation of veteran Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Smith confirmed yesterday he is actively seeking the appointment, which will be made by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Smith is the only Democrat so far named among those who want the job. He said he was hopeful that the governor would not make his choice solely for political reasons.

Those also mentioned as seeking the appointment are two other municipal court judges, David Menary Jr. and Robert A. Smallman, along with Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales and Juvenile Court Referee Jack L. Blaine.

Smith, 46, was appointed municipal judge in 1965 by former Gov. Edmund G. Brown. He had been active in Democratic politics and was the Marin public defender at the time of his appointment.

He also had a private practice and served as Tiburon city attorney.

His seven years on the bench have made Smith the most experienced of the municipal court judges. Menary was appointed in late 1970 and Smallman took office in January 1971. The fourth judge, David R. Baty, has only been on the bench since March.

Youth Injured In Cycle Crash

A Fairfax youth suffered multiple injuries in a motorcycle accident yesterday, according to a Marin General Hospital spokesman.

Brian Critchley, 20, of 12 Chester Avenue, was treated for a broken left wrist, broken left lower arm and a broken bone in his foot after coming to the hospital at 6:20 p.m.

Details of the accident were not availale today.

Police Make Arrests In Locked Yard

Three men were arrested yesterday after a passerby reported intruders inside the locked D and W Storage Yard apparently attempting to remove auto parts, San Rafael police reported.

Booked at county jail on suspicion of conspiracy and petty theft was Jerry Wayne Hurd, 21, of 15 La Brea Way, Apt. 25, Santa Venetia, who posted $2,000 bail and was to appear Monday in Marin Municipal Court. Booked on suspicion of conspiracy were Zack Gaines Jr., 19, of 1805 Rincon Way, Santa Venetia, and Paul Thister Gill, 19, of 675 Del Ganado Road, San Rafael. Gaines and Gill were held on $2,000 bail and scheduled to appear today.

Officers responding to the 3:15 p.m. call found Gill and Gaines sitting inside a car near the yard at 132 Front Street, the engine running. Inside the yard, Hurd was captured after attempting to flee and another man, unidentified, escaped on foot, police said.

Police said Hurd and the unidentified man apparently were attempting to remove a starter motor from a car in the yard.

Break Could Come In Salmon Dispute

There may be a break tonight in the three-week West Coast commercial salmon fishermen's strike when a meeting between dealers and fishermen is scheduled at Fisherman's Meeting Hall in San Francisco.

Zeke Grader, operator of Ocean Trader, a Sausalito seafood wholesaler, said fishermen last night rejected a revised dealer offer for large, medium and small salmon. "But another 3 or 4 cents a pound probably would satisfy them," Grader said.

The dealers' offer rejected last night was for 86 cents a pound for large king salmon (12 pounds and over), 66 cents for medium king (at least eight pounds),and 50 cents for small king (below eight pounds), according to Grader.

When the strike took effect on April 15, dealers were offering 80, 60 and 50 cents, respectively.

Grader said most retail markets now are getting their salmon out of Canada for $1.25 a pound.

He said dealers may increase their 86-66-50 offer at tonight's meeting. A telephone hookup will be used to bring together meetings held up and down the coast, he said.

Ballet Students Dance Sunday

San Domenico School ballet students will present a puppet-dance-theater version of "Petrushka Ballet" by Igor Stravinsky at 8 p.m. Sunday, the anniversary of Stravinsky's death.

Admission will be free to the public in the Lower School assembly hall at 1500 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow.

Tip Leads To Burglary Arrests

An alert witness's tip led to the arrest yesterday afternoon of two men suspected of attempting to burglarize a San Rafael home, police reported today.

Booked into county jail on suspicion of bu3glary were Richard Herve Simmons, 18, of 110 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, and Daniel Edmund Lojko, 18, no known address. Both were held on $2,000 bail and scheduled to appear today in municipal court.

Police said the witness phoned to say two men were trying to enter the residence of Jean W. Broemmel of 367 Locust Avenue, at about 3:15 p.m. Police arrived moments later and arrested them.

A screen had been pulled off an outside window, police said.

Marin Women

Friday, May 5, 1972 — Independent-Journal, 19

Unmarried Mothers Discuss The Future

Facing crucial decisions about their lives, four young women who are unmarried mothers in the Florence Crittenton Home of San Francisco talked about their feelings yesterday morning in a panel discussion.

Their audience at Marin General Hospital was the Lamplighters of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers, mostly young wives with small children.

Each of the four spoke of the situation she faced, her life prior to her pregnancy and her future plans. Their questioner and discussion leader, Mrs. Jean Bolton May of Belvedere, former director of the Crittenton Home, geared her questions toward bringing out the women's attitude toward their futures and steering them to translate their dreams into reality by beginning to work toward their goals now.

The four told of varied family relationships. Two had good relationships with their parents and two had had relationships so unsuccessful that they were placed in foster homes and institutions.

THEY RANGED in age from 16-year-old Judy to 23-year-old Diane. Regina is 17 and Sue 18. All but Diane plan to keep their children.

This is something new over the past 10 years, Mrs. May said from her years of experience at the Crittenton Home. "The peer group is putting great pressure on today for unwed mothers to keep their children," she said. "I suspect that Diane, of all of you, will face far more pressure" because she plans to relinquish her child for adoption, she told the panelists.

Diane said that she, as the oldest, had a good idea of where she wanted her life to go and had started a career in teaching the retarded. She did not feel she could adequately care for a child at that point in her life. She said that the baby's father had stopped seeing her when she became pregnant.

Diane, unlike the others, had looked into abortion, but she delayed making the decision until it was too late. She will have her child soon. The others have theirs already.

Regina has a 6-month-old daughter and is in the infant day care program recently innovated by the Crittenton Home. She is finishing high school while the infant is in the day care center. Diane receives school credits for working in the center with the babies two days a week. She lives in the residence that includes mothers and babies.

Regina is the eldest of three children in a San Francisco family and has a good relationship with her parents. She will keep her child and is taking secretarial training and plans to continue it through college. She and the baby's father were planning to get married, but, she said, "I told him I'm not going to marry him if he didn't have a job and he didn't get anything. I'm not going with him now."

SUE WITH a week-and-a-half-old son, plans to keep him. She herself was in institutions until age 3 when she was adopted and felt she never belonged to her family. Her relationship with her father was good, she said, but she could never accept her mother. Sue was eager to get out on her own and was in a girls' institution when she became pregnant on an outing at home. She was finishing high school and was going into clerical work.

"When I knew I was pregnant, I knew I would keep the baby," she said. She was given a choice of maternity homes and chose the Crittenton home because it offered more program and home atmosphere. Sue is still seeing the baby's father.

"He comes over all the time, I can hardly rest," she said with a laugh. "Everything's a reality now to me and to him. It's up to us to raise the baby.

"The baby's father and I talked about it. I felt that if I got pregnant, I'd take the responsibility."

ALL FOUR said they had either rejected contraceptives outright, knew little about them, or, in the case of Regina, had a bad experience with them.

Mrs. May pointed out to each woman that she has to make a choice about her life and make it realistically. — B.H.

MARSHA SILVERTHORN
U.C. student to be wed

Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall F. Silverthorn of Mill Valley announce the engagement of their daughter Marsha June to John Emil Staroba II of Playa del Rey.

Marsha is the sister of Mrs. Mel Zernow of San Diego. She is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and is a senior at the University of California at Riverside, where she is employed as a laboratory assistant.

Also a student at U.C. at Riverside, the future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Staroba and the brother of Marilyn J. and Wendy G. Staroba.

Tamalpais Residents Plan Island Outing

Residents of The Tamalpais in Greenbrae will have a picnic lunch May 18 on Angel Island. They will board a bus to Tiburon at 10 a.m. where they will be met by a launch to take them to the island.

Entertainment will be provided by Gwyn Lister on the accordion and Nina Brandt on the saxophone.

Marin Dancers Set A Special Night

Members of the Marin Whirl-Aways Square and Folk Dance group will entertain residents of The Tamalpais May 23 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the retirement residence in Greenbrae.

The dance group has been meeting every week for 18 years.

The Gloved-Look

As fashion moves to the lady-like look, gloves are becoming more important. It's part of the classic trend, so take yours out of mothballs if you've fallen out of the glove habit.

ON THE AGENDA

Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary Sets Theme For Monday Luncheon

"Follow the Yellow Brick Road" is the theme for the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary's luncheon and fashion show Monday on the garden terrace of the Elks Club in San Rafael.

Cocktails will be served at 11:30 a.m., followed by the luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Some members and children of members will be dressed in costumes to portray characters from the "Wizard of Oz." Mrs. Herbert West will be dressed as the cowardly lion; Mrs. James Reese, the scarecrow; Mrs. Robert Logan, the tinman; Debra Stone, Dorothy; Craig Newell, Toto; Barbara Ann Caulfield, a munchkin.

Mrs. Robert Gustafson is chairman, and committee chairmen are Mmes. James Benefield, decorations, and Thomas Reed, models. Mrs. Gustafson is also reservations chairman.

Members of the auxiliary who will model are Mmes. Benefield, James Collins, John Darke, David Dooley, Kenneth Fuller, Anthony Good, Luther Helms, Edgard Linder; Jack Pierce, Reed, John Robinson, Verle Sorgen and Andrew Stone. Members' children who will model are Cara Fefer, Tommy Morrison, Jeffrey Perkins, Rhonda Reese and Erin West.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo.

MRS. N. A. Peterson of San Rafael will attend the PEO Sisterhood state convention being held Monday through Thursday in Los Angeles. She is the corresponding secretary of the California State Chapter of the PEO Sisterhood.

All chapter presidents will also attend the 69th annual convention at the International Hotel.

PEO, a philanthropic and educational organization, has more than 22,000 active members in 519 chapters in California.

ALBERT WILSON, garden authority, will speak at the Marin Country Club Garden Club meeting at 1 p.m. Monday at the Marin Country Club in Novato.

Wilson's topic will be "Spring, Looking Toward Summer." He is author of the book, "How Does Your Garden Grow" and has a television program, "Dig It with Albert," on KGO. He teaches at Skyline College and conducts garden clinics in Hawaii and Mexico City.

Election of officers for the garden club will be held prior to the program.

Members of the Marin Men's Garden Club and Novato Garden Club have been invited to attend.

"HELP, I'M a Cop!" a 30-minute documentary film will be shown at the public meeting of the Novato Branch of the American Association of University Women at 8 p.m. Monday in the Sinaloa Junior High School library in Novato.

The movie is based on three months of research by Leonard Pearson, an associate professor of psychology at Sonoma State College. Professor Pearson spent nearly 90 hours riding in patrol cars in Berkeley and Oakland. He interviewed more than 100 policemen of all ranks.

Law enforcement officers will answer questions following the film.

Cocktails will be at 11:30 a.m. and the parade of original fashions by a Mill Valley designer will start at noon. Luncheon prepared and served by members will be at 1 o'clock.

Modeling will be Dr. Elaine Kepner, Dr. Lois Brien, Mmes. Malcolm Manson, Jerry Davis and Joseph McAleese and Robindra Sobrian, the 2-year-old daughter of Indira, who will be the commentator.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Henry Tonking and John Steele.

A PROGRAM on wildflowers will be presented by Mrs. Glenn Ensign at the meeting of the Garden Section of the San Rafael Improvement Club Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the clubhouse in San Rafael.

Mrs. Ensign has been transplanting wildflowers in her backyard for many years. She will show the results and discuss the history of the plants at the public program.

NEW OFFICERS will be installed at the luncheon meeting of the Redwood Empire Dental Auxiliary Tuesday at noon at the home of Mrs. Delmar Mobley in Santa Rosa.

New president is Mrs. Robert Weis, and other new officers are Mmes. James Bridges, president-elect; John McNaughton, corresponding secretary; Delmar Mobley, recording secretary; Edward McCartney, treasurer; Harold Edwards, publicity chairman; Alan Johnson, hospitality chairman; and George Payne, dental health chairman.

CRAZY HATS will be featured at the Novato Garden Club meeting and dessert luncheon Tuesday at noon at the Novato Community House. Members wearing hats they have created from fresh plant material will be given awards.

Mrs. John Van Horn and Mrs. Lila Van Tagen will speak on the raising and care of rhododendrons, and all past presidents of the garden club will be honored.

WELCOME WAGON Club members of Marin are planning a day at the horse races on Tuesday. They will take a chartered bus at 9:30 a.m., at the Corte Madera Shopping Center to Golden Gate Fields in Albany. Luncheon will be served at noon at the Turf Club.

The charity fund for the Suicide Prevention Center will benefit from the proceeds. Mrs. John Roush is reservations chairman.

PIONEER DAY fair will be held at Strawberry Point School in Mill Valley tomorrow from noon to 5 p.m.

MEMBERS OF the Larkspur-Corte Madera Guild of Sunny Hills will spend Tuesday at the races at Golden Gate Fields.

Chairmen are Mmes. Harvie Freed and M. K. Taylor, and Mrs. Jay Hale is reservations chairman.

SACRAMENTO TOMORROW

Both Sides In Abortion Issue Slate Showdowns

By BARBARA HOSMER

Neither the groups favoring free access to abortion without restriction nor those opposing it are happy with the current California laws on abortion.

Both sides of the issue plan to make their voices heard in Sacramento tomorrow when the Women's Abortion Coalition culminates a week of abortion action and education events with a demonstration at the state Capitol at noon. A rally is set to begin on the Capitol steps at 1 p.m.

Both groups expect to have Marin residents participating.

Though they agree that the present law is poor, the two factions are at loggerheads philosophically.

The Women's Abortion Coalition advocates repeal of all abortion laws and free access to abortion for any woman who wants it. The decision for or against an abortion should be left to the individual woman, the coalition believes.

Pro Life groups oppose abortion and favor making abortion laws far more restrictive. They believe that pregnancies should be carried to term.

The Coalition is part of the Women's National Abortion Action Coalition, formed last July when 1,000 women gathered for a national conference in New York. The Northern California group has headquarters in San Francisco.

The coalition is an educational and lobbying group which has held periodic marches, rallies and education actions in the Bay Area seeking to give women the right to control their own lives, including reproduction. Coalition members advocate repeal of all abortion laws, which, they say, restrict the right of women to control their own bodies, free access to contraception information and devices and no forced sterilization.

THE COALITION'S most dramatic move to date came Tuesday when it filed a class action suit in behalf of some 2,500 California women to declare the state abortion laws unconstitutional. Some of the plaintiffs are Marin County women.

The suit, filed in San Francisco Superior Court, challenges section 275 of the Penal Code on the grounds that it violates women's right of privacy. The code makes soliciting or having an abortion except as allowed under the California Therapeutic Abortion Act a felony which is punishable by from one to five years in prison.

In filing the suit, attorney Zaide Kirtley of San Francisco said that according to the California State Department of Public Health, more than 3,500 women were denied therapeutic abortions in the state last year.

Last night the coalition planned to hold a candlelight vigil in memory of women who have died because the abortion law forced them to seek unsafe illegal abortions. The vigil was held at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, which is an accredited hospital which refuses to allow abortions to be performed there. The coalition reports that 21 California counties do not have accredited hospitals, although the law requires that abortion be done in accredited hospitals only. (It also requires approval on mental distress or other definitely prescribed grounds by a hospital board of physicians.)

Groups which favor repeal of abortion laws also point to high costs of abortion currently ($250 to $600) as restrictive to women.

OPPOSING GROUPS from the Pro Life council planned to counterdemonstrate at St. Mary's Hospital last night, also, according to Mrs. Marie DePizzol of San Rafael, Northern California president of the Voice for the Unborn organization.

Mrs. DePizzol said that anti-abortion groups which have been formed recently across the country and in the Bay Area include Pro Life — a state council which includes the other anti-abortion groups: Birthright, primarily a counseling organization; Right to Life, United for Life, Concern for Life and Voice for the Unborn, which work through local chapters.

The Pro Life groups have been picketing Planned Parenthood offices, including Marin's, and hospitals such as Marin General Hospital, where abortions are being performed under the current laws. Birthright is the only group with a Marin Chapter formed.

They hope to turn the clock back to where the California law was prior to 1967, when California's Therapeutic Abortion Act was passed. To help do so, they are supporting four Assembly bills which will be introduced May 22 by Assemblyman Robert H. Burke (R-Huntington Beach, AB 1549, 1550, 1552 and 1718, which will place more stringent restrictions on availability of abortion to California women and require abortion risks to be explained.

They also plan Mother's Day demonstrations at two downtown San Francisco stores on May 13.

THOSE WHO favor free access to abortion say that one in four women seeks an abortion sometime in her life, and when the law prevents safe, humane abortions to be performed, women still have abortions, but under unsafe illegal conditions and at high prices. They believe that abortion when performed early in the pregnancy is a relatively safe, simple office procedure, and restrictive laws only prolong or prevent access to the proper medical care early in the pregnancy. They point out that statistics show it is safer to undergo abortion in proper conditions than to undergo childbirth.

Those who oppose abortion do so on the grounds, mainly, that it is wrong to terminate a pregnancy. They regard an embryo as a human being, use the term "killing" in place of "terminating the pregnancy," and believe a fetus has a right to life.

While the abortion law controversy is national, both the forces who oppose abortion and those which favor access to abortion as a woman's right are rallying for greater confrontation in the Bay Area and Sacramento, each vying for favor in the Capitol and support from other women.

New 'Thinning' Pattern Is Out

A leading pattern company has introduced new quick and easy "pounds thinner tomorrow" patterns for the home sewer who wants a fast, easy pattern which will make her look taller and slimmer.

A spokesman for the company said the magic is accomplished by utilizing the elements of optical illusion. Included in the "look pounds thinner" collection of patterns are designs for dresses, pantsuits, suits, costumes, evening and at-home wear and even a bathing suit.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Writer Offers His Dont's List From His Five Happy Marriages

DEAR HELEN:

This list of "Don'ts" for a happy marriage has been most helpful to me over the years. I brought it with me to my five marriages and, while they all ended in divorce, I must say I've remained friendly with my five ex-wives.

May I share with your readers my "never, never list"?

For a happy marriage, don't —

Taunt over a mistake.

Talk at one another, through someone else: that is — rico richchet criticism by bouncing it off a third party.

Both get angry at the same time.

Find fault unless you can suggest a remedy, and the fault is worth bothering about.

Make a mean remark at the expense of the other.

Part for a day without loving words.

Let the sun go down on anger, or grievance.

Meet without a loving welcome.

Forget to say "I'm sorry."

Stop remembering the hours of early love.

Sigp over what might have been, but make the best of what is. — MARK

DEAR MARK:

Sounds great, but I can't give your list an A+ confidence rating if it brought you only five friendly divorces.

Perhaps it failed because it omits such necessary ingredients as: fidelity, dependability, humor, fireworks, mutual interests — and the wisdom to choose a mate who considers all these rules important too. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a woman of 30, and my problem is men. Or maybe it's a "hang-up."

Though I've had some close calls, I am holding out for the ring and the wedding ceremony. But my men friends don't stay around that long.

I don't want to lose the guy I am going with now, yet I have my standards and conscience to live with.

Should I take the pill and join in today's loose morality, or stay what I thought every man wanted — a virgin? — MANLESS

DEAR M.:

There's a point in a woman's life when the asset of virginity becomes the liability of spinsterhood. Don't wave your standards like a banner, but if your conscience demands, keep them — and wait for a marrying-type man. They're still around, somewhere.

You'd probably be miserable in an affair. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife talks too much. She blabs all of our business, even our bedroom conversation, all over the neighborhood.

She will tell anything to get a laugh. At social events, people who are strangers to me know the details of our marriage. She thinks of herself as the Phyllis Diller of Maple Drive, and when I remonsrate, she says I haven't any sense of humor — and this too becomes a funny story. She has 'em rolling in the aisles!

How do I get it across that a man's home is his castle, not the neighborhood comic soap opera? — SAM

DEAR SAM:

Why not fight blab with blab? For every "funny" she tells, be ready with two fascinating items about "my weird little wife." If this doesn't cure her — well maybe you can take your act to Vegas. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

New Leader For Sorority Announced

Sewing, cooking, swimming, and gardening are among the hobbies of Mrs. Jerry G. Thompson, new president of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma sorority.

Sharon Thompson and her husband, credit manager for General Motors Acceptance Iorp., have lived in Marin four years. They have two children — Sheri, 4 and Scott, 2.

Born in Fergus Falls, Minn., she attended high school in Kellogg, Idaho, and the University of Idaho in Moscow. She is active in the Novato Parents Nursery School and the Novato Downtown Merchants Association.

Fund-raising projects for the sorority will benefit Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael.

The sorority members plan fund raisers in the spring and the fall. Social activities will include a Halloween party, Christmas party, and a spring social for wives and husbands. The rushing program starts in September, with the first meeting for pledges taking place in October.

Miss Woolston Engaged; June Wedding Is Planned

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Woolston of Mill Valley have announced the engagement of their daughter Janice Carol Woolston to Steven Kent Modesitt of Coburg, Ore.

The couple are planning to be married June 11 in Marcola, Ore., where the bride-elect is living.

Janice is the sister of Clark Woolston of Larkspur and Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Marcola. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. DeWitt of Mill Valley.

Janice is a graduate of Redwood High School. She attended the College of Marin and plans to continue college in Eugene after her marriage.

Steven is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Modesitt of Fullerton and the brother of David Keith Modesitt of Fullerton and Mrs. D. K. Burrill of Antioch.

A graduate of Fullerton High School, he attended the University of Oregon and is a graduate of the University of California.

Conditioning Classes Will Begin Tuesday

Aquathenics is a recreational program of body conditioning for figure improvement. The exercises are done in the water but require no swimming skills.

Classes will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 to 11 a.m. through June 1 and will be directed by Nancy Setnik, who was trained by Sue Kemelman, director and founder of Aquathenics.

Registration for the classes can be made with Barbara Keppelman at the center.

New Hours For Gift Shop At Garden Center

Many Things, the gift shop operated by members of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center, has new hours, and will now be open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and articles will now be received the first Monday of every month from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mrs. Frederick Scatena Jr. and Mrs. Patrick Foster, both of Ross, are chairmen of the shop, which is located on the center grounds.

The shop sells handmade children's fashions, baby gifts, reversible skirts, doll furniture and dolls, custom neckties for men, handbags, notepaper and other handcrafted articles.

Belts Are Making A Fashion Comeback

Belts are big this spring and summer. There's as much emphasis on the belt itself as on the buckle with new fabrics, embroideries and bright colors competing for attention.

Many belts have artificial fruit or flowers attached for a look that goes way back to the forties.

Child Rearing Has Its Happy Moments

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

"The ruin of a nation begins in the homes of its people." This proverb comes from Africa, a continent where, traditionally and currently, the home, even in polygamous compounds, is held as a sacred entity. The African woman is respected by African men as the mother, the nurturer, of mankind.

Today, in American society, motherhood is one of the most maligned and "questioned" professions. The vocal spokesmen and spokeswomen are currently telling us that mothering and caring for children — changing diapers, washing dishes and considering the protein content of peanuts — is not worthy of a woman's or man's full-time dedication.

Along with the negative aspects, motherhood "experts" lately have avoided mentioning some of the fringe benefits of motherhood. Watching children grow, and it still is a miracle, is often as moving as watching an X-rated movie with your lover.

Seeing the first step and hearing the first word of an infant is still very exciting and could well be rated G for family entertainment. We give 1-year-old Erin a standing ovation every time she wobbles across the room or says "Stop that!"

ALONG WITH the work and the worry there are many serene moments in child rearing. Watching a 5-year-old master the art of balance on a two-wheeler and seeing his look of contentment and sense of accomplishment is such a moment.

The "down with motherhood" proponents haven't mentioned the marvel at hearing a 9-year-old unravel a serious adult problem and put it in the simplest of terms — understandable for all.

Yes, today's mothers are being told to get out of their rut (even I am a supporter of Women's Liberation). Leave the home — that uncreative cesspool —and live for yourself.

Well, there are, indeed, women and men who have done just that. They live for the moment and for themselves. They honor no silly, conventional, conservative commitments — such as rearing their children. Some periodically send money, but then welfare periodically does the same. You see their children running the streets at all hours of the day and night. You see their children poorly nourished and sparsely cared for. You are frightened at the anger of their children. You wonder why they have no respect for adults or for honesty and fair play. How can they — when they have never been dealt with honestly, when they have been made to feel guilty for just being?

Suffice it to say, our children are here and certainly not upon personal request. Even with "zero population" as a necessary ecological consideration, children will continue to be a part of our lives for some time to come. They must be cared for — and it is not all pain. The pleasures are there if we do not allow ourselves to be duped into feeling guilty about appreciating such "nothingness."

Times are changing and traditional roles are changing. Still, while motherhood is one of our current scapegoats, it is interesting to note that most women (mistresses, especially) who have never been married or mothered a child want the very thing the drip-dry, outdated wife and mother has — the dirty diapers and the whole family bit.

IT IS, of course, impossible to discuss motherhood without getting on pop's case, too. If more fathers were in the home, fully sharing and participating in the child-rearing process, fewer mothers would feel frustrated and disposed to "fly the coop." Sharing is the key. Any load is lighter, any chore is less distasteful and all pleasures are more pleasurable when shared.

Authority: Eyelashes Add Drama

Properly made up eyelashes add dramatic and luxurious allure to the eyes, according to makeup and beauty authority Max Factor.

To give your lashes as much emphasis as possible, first apply all eye makeup accents except mascara. Tilt the chin upward, and, looking down into the mirror, stroke mascara applicator upward through the upper lashes.

To separate lashes he recommends comb-on mascara, which simultaneously separates and colors the lashes, making them appear longer, thicker and fuller and can be reapplied until the desired effect is reached.

EXPERTS SUGGEST

House You Live In Going Out Of Style

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Conventional houses are on the way out. By the year 2,000 experts suggest, the house you live in now will be as antique as the bustle or the front parlor.

The trend to communal living will bring changes in house design the likes of which the traditionalist never dreamed.

"The upper middle-class family's wealth and mobility have set the standard of house design to date, but the longhaired culture is making itself heard," report three experts in the field of housing and marketing.

They are Mary Jo Weale, assistant professor of housing and interior design, James Croake, associate professor of home and family life, and W. Bruce Weale, professor of marketing, all at Florida State University.

THE EMPHASIS in today's market, whether dress design, furniture, or housing, is on youth, say the three.

"If the communal movement continues, evolution in the structural and functional aspects of the house can be anticipated," they write in the current Journal of Home Economics, publication of the American Home Economics Association.

They see the possibility of large central meeting rooms leading to dormitory wings. And since the rearing of children usually is a group effort, not just one of the commune natural mothers, "commune nurseries will be built where each of the adults, male and female, will work with all of the commune children one day a week." This room would be attached to an outdoor play area.

One large room for meetings, recreation, group therapy and the like will be furnished sparsely but it will at least be carpeted since "space, materials and group interaction needs will make floor sitting important."

THE KITCHEN will have to be larger also to accommodate large numbers in meal preparation and cleanup. The dining room, furnished with picnic-type tables and benches, will have few decorations.

Bedrooms in the dormitory wings will be for individual couples because "group sex is rare." But preferences will be for "gang, rather than individual showers and lavatories."

These "family" or communal groups "will push the rest of society to greater ecological responsibility," they say.

Ecology and current youth values which de-emphasize material goods will "tend to be reflected in homes of minimal size for family needs and these homes will therefore be sparsely furnished or will have nonfurniture (multi-purpose modular units)."

THEY SEE the individual home by the start of the 21st century one stressing showers because they consume less water than bathtubs. Rugs will be replaced partially by tile and-or manmade, soil-proof or easily cleaned materials. Or, the living room may retain its feeling of luxury with the rug replacing seating.

Sanitizers built into a central vacuum cleaner will make cleaning relatively simple. Draperies will be eliminated since one-way windows will regulate the amount of light entering a room and in addition be an efficient source of solar heat.

Computer-programmed delivery of groceries and other goods will decrease dependence on the family car. And prepared foods that lessen meal preparation and the increase in the number of restaurants may result in smaller or dispersed kitchens. The dining room may go away altogether.

ULTIMATELY, THE three foresee a "self-sufficient home" with its own power source, with all waste being recycled into usable food and household objects, with a separate room containing a variety of exercise equipment made popular by national campaigns for physical health.

"The wealthy," they say, "may even add indoor handball and tennis courts."

All of what they predict is mind-boggling. And, as the authors title their article, it makes one wonder, "Whatever happened to the parlor?"

Edward Herrnberger To Wed Doris Gary

The engagement of Doris E. Gary to Edward F. Herrnberger of Novato is being announced by the bride-elect's parents Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gary.

Doris is the sister of Laura and Joan Gary of Novato and the granddaughter of Mrs. V. H. Giragosian and Mrs. H. B. Balian of San Francisco. She was graduated from Novato High School and attended California College of Court Reporting. She is employed at the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue Service in San Francisco.

Edward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan F. Herrnberger of Novato. He is the brother of Mrs. William Langtry, Thomas, Arthur, Victor and March Herrnberger. He was graduated from Novato High School and is attending College of Marin. He will attend San Francisco State College in the fall. He is employed at San Rafael Auto Parts.

Women Are Top Souvenir Hunters

STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—Women are more interested in buying souvenirs than are men, according to a survey conducted by the operators of Meramec Caverns. Eight of 10 women buy souvenirs at the cave while the figure for men is four of 10, says Lester B. Dill, who conducted the survey.

Both women and men prefer souvenirs with something about Jessee James on them, according to Dill. James and his gang hid out in the cave during the 1870s.

Men Working In Lingerie Shops

NEW YORK (UPI)—More men than ever before are working in women's lingerie shops, once a woman's domain. Mark Gindi, designer for Exotique, a lingerie house, says so.

And he thinks it's a good idea since so many more men than women purchase lingerie for gift items. "Most men feel more at ease getting lingerie from a man rather than a woman," he says.

The Laundry Room

Make sure you do your wash in a well ventilated room, the American Gas Association advises. A laundry room is a source of considerable moisture, which in turn can cause dirt and particle-filled film on surfaces and make the air in your home difficult to breathe.

July Rite Planned By Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Satrom of Novato are announcing the engagement of their daughter Marla Suzanne to Larry Bruce Fricke of Novato, son of Mrs. Patricia Fricke of Novato and Donald Fricke of San Francisco.

The bride-elect is the sister of Doug Satrom and Mrs. Bob Guerin of Novato. She was graduated from San Marin High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed at Holiday Magic in San Rafael.

Larry is the brother of Don Fricke. His local grandparents are Mrs. Allie Fricke of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kovarik of Vacaville. The future bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and served in the Army. He is employed at Novato Fire and Battery in Novato.

A July 29 wedding is planned.

To Clean Paint

If the discolorations in house paint will not wipe off easily with soap and water, try a mixture of household bleach and water, suggests the American Gas Association.

Engagement Of Couple Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Heibel of Novato announced the engagement of their daughter Linda to Hans-Bernd Baerthel of San Rafael.

Linda is the sister of Robert Heibel of Vallejo, and Jane and Michael Heibel of Novato. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunphy of Novato. She was graduated from Novatc High School and College of Marin and attended Chico State College. She is employed at the Trade Fair in Sausalito.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johannes Baerthel and the brother of Siegfried and Winfred Baerthel of San Rafael and Gabriele Baerthel of Oakland. He was graduated from high school in Gaithersburg, Md., and is attending San Francisco State College. He is employed at the Safeway store, in Tiburon.

Fashion And Safety In Childs Wear

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Fashion and safety are finding their way into the realm of young children. A special boutique of children's clothes was opened recently in Paris and another develohment was the Houston, Tex., fashion show of around the clock children's fashions in flame retardant fabrics. These showings support the trend that planning and design are going into children's wear, says Gerda Petersen, Extension textiles, clothing and design specialist, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

UNICEF Issues Year-Round Card Collection

UNICEF has just issued a delightful new collection of year-round cards for many occasions.

The 20 designs contributed by artists from 10 countries include for the first time birth announcement cards, invitation and thank-you cards. All standard and mini-size cards are available without any message. Some come with such messages as — "thinking of you," "love," and "best wishes."

Proceeds from the sales of UNICEF cards help the United Nations's Children's Fund provide medical, nutrition and education assistance to 100 million children around the world.

ALAN YOUNG
Formerly Mr. Ed

Star Of 'Mr. Ed' Series Slates Talk

Alan Young — onetime star of the "Mr. Ed" television series — will deliver a Veterans Memorial Building lecture May 13 on "Can You Simply Trust?"

The 10:30 a.m. lecture is sponsored by Second Church of Christ, Scientist, San Rafael. Young left his acting career in 1967 and subsequently organized the national church's film and broadcast department.

He has produced several films for the church and developed the "Truth that Heals" radio series. Young became a Christian Science lecturer last year.

His lecture will focus on "applying spiritual trust and understanding of God," according to Dora Talley, Second Church of Christ spokesman.

Tower Sign Is Supported By Chamber

The Novato Chamber of Commerce board yesterday backed the Novato Fair Shopping Center in its fight to retain its tower sign, considered a downtown landmark.

The center is appealing planning commission denial of its bid for a variance to permit the 56-foot pylon tower, which exceeds the allowable sign height in the area, to remain.

Two weeks ago, the planning commission, in a hard-line stand against nonconforming signs, denied several applications for variances.

Under an ordinance passed several years ago, many business signs became nonconforming in height, area or location and owners were given three years to bring them into compliance or remove them. That deadline since has passed.

Suspect Faces Arson Charge

Jon Christian Ballard, 35, of Fairfax has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to face a charge of trying to burn down a home with a Molotov cocktail.

Ballard was ordered to appear in superior court May 17 on the arson charge stemming from an argument with another Fairfax man that allegedly ended with Ballard driving off and returning a few minutes later to hurl the firebomb on the roof of the house.

The charge, filed in January was dismissed in February when a witness refused to testify, but later refiled.

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. Magazines and Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Modern Times" — Chaplin produced, directed, authored, composed music, edited and starred in this 1936 reissue which is a satire on mechanization and pomposity and an affirmation of the importance of love.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Big Jake" — A violent western tale of a gang of ruthless raiders kidnapping Big Jake's grandson and Jake's rescue party's attempts to get him back.

"Cold Turkey" — Contemporary satiric comedy about a whole town kicking the cigarette habit for 30 days to win a contest for 25 million dollars. Some cursing.

"Dr. Jekyll and Sister Hyde" — This Dr. Jekyll adds some female hormones to his serum which produces sister Hyde. Typical horror story. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"House That Dripped Blood" — A quartet of horror tales about a house that is inhabited by various tenants, each falls prey to a bloody supernatural fate. Skillful acting creates a thoroughly chilling mood.

"Omega Man" — The Omega man is supposed to be the last man to survive a world bacteriological war (1975), but a group of ghoulish psychotics outwit and thus outlive him.

"Tales From the Crypt" — A crypt keeper fortells the future to five people who have been lost in the catacombs while on tour. Good cast makes horror stores highly engorssing shocker. (Boxoffice Magazine)

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say adults only)

"Anderson Tapes" — An ex-convict unaware his every move is being filmed and taped plans to rob all the tenants of an exclusive apartment building. Very violent and bloody, some sex.

"French Connection" — An exciting suspense thriller about two relentless narcotics detectives trying to crack an international heroin smuggling ring. Much violence.

"The Honkers" — Moderately interesting story of a rodeo drifter, a selfish and dishonest man who leads a seedy life that leads to his downfall. Cursing, violence and sex.

"Little Big Man" — Long fictional biography as told in flashback by a 121 year-old ex-gunfighter. Bloody massacres balanced by humor. Tale stresses the humanity and understanding of the American Indian.

"Two Mules for Sister Sara" — An American mercenary and a prostitute disguised as a Catholic nun meet and travel in the Mexican badlands to join a revolutionary Mexican army. Long drawn-out bloody battle, profanity and sex.

"Vanishing Point" — An ex-race car driver is "doing his thing" drives from Denver to San Francisco in 15 hours regardless of what stands in his way. A pointless story filled with sex, nudity, violence and cursing accentuated by hard, driving music.

ADULTS ONLY

"Dirty Harry" — This police thriller is an exercise in violence. A case against the pampering of criminals and justification of sadistic, illegal police techniques. Tension is excruciating and violence is shocking.

"Fritz, the Cat" — A tasteless and vulgar X-rated full length feature cartoon about a cat who by fadeout has used up eight of his nine lives investigating the drug scene, radical politics and experimenting with sex. A potpourri of soul, rock and pop music provides an audio backdrop.

"The Godfather" — Gripping epic gangster film filled with excessive violence the head of Mafia family leads two lives, as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"Hospital" — An aging doctor who postpones his suicide in order to investigate the mysterious deaths of two interns and a nurse. Scathing episodes are sometimes humorously presented. Strong language, sex, excellent acting and cast.

Suspect Found By Fingerprints

Because of fingerprints on a coin book, a 35-year-old man is charged with an armed robbery as a result of the February holdup of the owner of a Strawberry coin store.

Robert Michael Linsley of San Jose, was arrested by sheriff's deputies Tuesday on a warrant after his fingerprints were matched with those on the pages of a coin book one or two bandits took into the Golden Gate Coin Store at the Town and Country Village Feb. 24.

The bandits, armed with revolvers, robbed owner Fred V. Velten of $5,000 to $7,000 in rare coins and $30 in cash and subdued deputy Billy Dews before making their escape.

Linsley was scheduled to plead to the armed robbery count today in Marin Municipal Court.

Belvedere Jobs Are Being Filled

Positions on 10 Belvedere commissions and committees will be filled by Mayor Thomas S. Price at the June 5 meeting of the city council, he has announced.

The mayor has asked that nominations be submitted to him. Sought are three park and recreation commissioners, one student representative to the park and recreation commission, two planning commissioners, a fire commissioner and a Tiburon Sanitary District board member. He will also appoint two members of the city council to the finance committee.

Dominican To Host Conference On Ballet

The 1972 craft of choreography conference sponsored by the National Association for Regional Ballet will be held at Dominican College of San Rafael Aug. 6-12.

Mrs. Robert Jenkins, manager of the Dick Ford Dance Center in Mill Valley and member of the board of directors of the Pacific Regional Ballet Association, again will serve as chairman of the conference. The event was held last year at the College of Holy Names in Oakland.

Participants will come from Alaska, California, Washington and Oregon, including 10 working choreographers, 10 student choreographers and 80 dancers.

In addition to professionals in the field, anyone interested in dance and the related arts of music and lighting design is eligible to attend as an observer on a full or part-time basis.

The conference, offering intensive exploration of the craft of making a ballet, is staged by top dance professionals.

Director of choreography will be Todd Bolender, who has done work for the New York City Ballet, Joffrey Ballet and the American Ballet Theater.

Norma Dalby, affiliated with the dance department of Sarah Lawrence College, will conduct the music workshop, while Beverly Emmons will direct a workshop on stage lighting. She has designed for Merce Cunningham, Hartford Ballet Company and American Ballet Theater Players.

Classes in teaching ballet technique will be taught by Janet Reed, former prima ballerina with the San Francisco Ballet.

Discussion periods are planned for those attending as observers.

Accidents Cost $27.7 Billion

CHICAGO (UPI) — Accidents in 1971 cost Americans about $27.7 billion covering everything from medical expenses to lost man hours.

The report comes from the National Safety Council which estimates that in 1971 the accident death toll was 114,000, with another 10.8 million persons suffering disabling injuries.

Drug Case To Superior Court

Russell Morris Vibbard, 20, of San Anselmo, has been ordered to face charges in Marin Superior Court that he had 500 tablets of benzedrine in his pocket when stopped on a traffic warrant March 16.

He is to appear May 17 to face the felony possession count resulting from a search by San Anselmo police.

The case was bound over from Marin Municipal Court.

ANTIWAR FEELING IGNITES

Trial Set In Coed Assault

Dennis Kirk Smith, 19, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Superior Court to charges stemming from the rape of a coed from Dominican College in San Rafael.

A jury trial was set for the week of May 30 for the youth, who is charged with rape, sex perversion and kidnaping.

He was arrested after he and three others picked up two coeds in San Rafael and took them to a secluded hill area where one was raped.

In a separate case, Smith is charged with burglarizing a garage in San Rafael less than 24 hours after he posted bail on the sex counts.

Fire Hazard To Be Four Months

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There will be four, instead of three, months of extreme fire peril in California's mountains this year, state forester Lewis Moran is warning.

Because rainfall has been about half of normal, Moran said Wednesday that June should be added to the usually critical months of July, August and September.

Speaking for the U.S. Forest Service, information officer Jerry Gause said the national forests in this state "are in a really serious situation so far as the potential for large fires goes."

Truck Brakes Lock And Hub Traffic Snarls Up

A truck carrying 36,000 pounds of hot asphalt locked its wheels and was immobilized today on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at San Francisco Boulevard in San Anselmo, backing up rush hour traffic about a mile.

Large wrecking trucks dispatched shortly after 8 a.m. when the accident occurred, were unable to move the truck, and workers used acetelyne torches to cut the trailer free of the truck's undercarriage, police said.

The truck is owned by the Basalt Rock Co. of San Rafael.

Workers struggled to move the truck quickly, because they told police the asphalt had to be moved before it cooled and solidified in the truck.

Capt. Chester C. Orr said the truck blocked only one westbound lane, but morning rush hour traffic, combined with the curious, caused the traffic tieup. Orr said the accident apparently occurred when the truck stopped for a light and the fork of its trailer slipped from its connection and fell, ramming into the undercarriage and locking the wheels.

The driver of the truck, who was uninjured, was not identified.

Novato Youths Theft Suspects

Two Novato Youths, 15 and 17, were cited by Novato Police yesterday on suspicion of theft of a motorcycle from a garage at the home of Edward Miramontes, 2418 Center Road.

The Motorcycle was taken about 7 a.m. and the boys were cited after officers stopped the motorcycle at Center Road and Diablo Avenue at 3:30 p.m., police reported.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Good German Menus In Novato; Lark Creek Inn Makes Its Debut

One of my favorite dishes has always been a good beef rouladen — the way the Germans prepare it.

You can get it often at Cloud 5 in Novato. Christine Bolten is from Munich and knows just how to make it, served with potato dumplings. If you don't find it listed on the menu, ask for it as it may be available.

There are other German dinners — sauerbraten with potato pancakes, wienerschnitzel, beef goulash and smoked pork loin with sauerkraut — kasseler rippchen, the Germans call it. Or you can go the route of lobster tail, steaks, prime rib and chicken in the American style.

Cloud 5 is in the heart of downtown Novato at the corner of First and Grant — just a block from the highway. There is offstreet parking and usually quite a bit of street parking available. The restaurant has been there quite a while. Chris and her partner Archie Sawyer have had it from the beginning and it has worn well with the years.

It is also a popular spot for banquets and parties. There is a bar and lounge. You might not even think of Cloud 5 as a place to eat and enjoy yourself — that is, unless you live in Novato or have known it over the years. Most Novatans have forgotten when it first did open — and I have, too.

On Saturday nights there is entertainment and dancing in the Cloud Room. Right now a group that has become very well liked in the Bay Area and is playing here is The Liechsteiners, headed by Harry Fox. The group plays all the German songs and other music, too. In fact, it has quite a repertory of all kinds of music for dancing.

Try it sometime. Prices are moderate and the service is good.

LARK CREEK INN made its debut in Larkspur last weekend and apparently has been going strong ever since — in fact so strong that the kitchen is already having to be enlarged to handle the business. Meanwhile, lunches are not being served on Saturday and Sunday.

This is the present schedule: Closed Mondays; open from 11:30 a.m. to midnight Tuesdays through Thursdays; open from 11:30 a.m. to 2 a.m. on Fridays; 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. on Saturdays; 5 p.m. to midnight on Sundays.

Lunch service is between 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Dinner service is from 5:30 to 10 p.m. No reservations for meals are being taken — unless, of course, you are thinking about arranging for a group in one of the upstairs rooms.

History was written into this location on Magnolia Avenue long before anyone ever thought of making it into a restaurant. According to Skip Sommer, the house which now forms the restaurant was built in 1888 right across the creek from Larkspur's first sawmill. Almost a half-century later it became the family home of Hil Probert and his wife, who restored it and lived here until Hil's death two years ago. It is Mrs. Probert's belief that Hil would have looked with favor on this second restoration.

Roasts, steaks and casseroles are the order of the evening meal. Yes — there is a bar and lounge. There would have to be to make the picture complete.

If you prefer to make your first visit by daylight, try going there for lunch. The menu offers roast beef, turkey and ham sandwiches, a variety of burgers, salads and a cold cut platter.

Sooner or later you are bound to be drawn into this arboreal setting for either lunch or dinner if for no other reason than it's new, different and very enticing. I can already feel its coolness on a hot summer day or evening.

A NEW FOOD OPERATION — Deli on the Boardwalk — should open at 1550 Tiburon Boulevard in Tiburon by the end of the month.

Owner Mrs. Merlita Richter has taken over the former Boardwalk Restaurant and is now remodeling. At the start it will be a self-service establishment, with home-made soups, salads and desserts, hot and cold sandwiches.

This very likely will be expanded. It is Mrs. Richter's first restaurant operation, but she is a graduate home economist and has been engaged in recipe development for several years — so look for her to add several new ideas as she goes along.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays but probably longer hours and Sunday service in the summer (Mrs. Richter has four sons to help her).

An application has been made for the wine and beer license formerly held by Thelma Kyer at the Boardwalk Restaurant and this may or may not be validated in time for the opening. But it should be approved shortly afterward.

YOU CAN LOOK for champagne as one of the fringe benefits of your dinner orders at the Mayflower Inn in San Rafael next Monday through Thursday nights.

The occasion is the observance by Ron Patnaude and Barry Olden of their first year in business.

The past 12 months have brought them a gratifying measure of success and they are in the mood to celebrate. I am not that well acquainted with English pubs to know what the customary libation is for celebrations, but Ron and Barry said to make it champagne and that's the way it stands.

Monday night is spaghetti night. In addition to the regular menu, there's a $1.25 spaghetti special.

And if it happens that you can't join them for champagne and food Monday through Thursday, stop off sometime for one of their Ploughman's Lunches.

CERTAINLY one of the most cheerful and favored lunch spots in East San Rafael is Eugene's Country Club Restaurant at the Country Club Bowl on Vivian Way.

It's also inexpensive and there's always a daily $1.45 lunch — a special concoted by Eugene Lackenbach to give variety to the menu. This may range from stuffed pepper, stuffed cabbage, beef burgundy to chopped sirloin, a hot barbecued beef sandwich, barbecued meat balls, beef Stroganoff or his special chicken livers with fresh mushrooms.

There was a time when Eugene's former restaurant in downtown San Rafael was a regular port of call for luncheoners. For years his 21 varieties of pancakes and seven different syrups made 909 Lincoln Avenue a popular business and snack rendezvous.

Remember his deep dish pie? He hasn't given that up altogether, or for that matter, making pancakes, although the fare at Vivian Way is somewhat changed in other respects. But just as popular as it ever was. Eugene always was one for

Bagley Attacks Watson Proposal

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, last night forecast a $15 million cut in Marin school programs if the Watson initiative is approved in November by California voters.

The initiative by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson proposes a maximum $825 limit on expenditures per student, Bagley noted, well below the current support levels in Marin school districts.

The initiative also would limit property tax assessments to 1.75 per cent of market value and shift all welfare and school costs to the state. The sales tax would be hiked by two cents, corporation taxes would go from 3.4 to 11 per cent, cigarette taxes from 10 to 20 cents per pack, and hard liquor tax from 50 cents to $2.50 a gallon.

Bagley, speaking at the Reed School District's Parent-Teacher Club's annual districtwide meeting at Del Mar School in Tiburon, said the initiative's limit on education financing would "create an educational system of median mediocrity, and undermine local control and flexibility."

The result in Marin, he said in a statement prepared for his talk, would be "an educational wasteland in Marin County."

Bagley, chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee on school finance, said that the Watson initiative would not allow local voters to increase the $825 maximum even if they wanted to approve an override tax to do so.

The assemblyman said that "a proper formula," allowing local votes to add override taxes above a maximum statewide level, will be announced within a week in Sacramento. "We can equalize low-wealth districts and provide property tax relief but also maintain local control and the flexibility of programs for those districts which wish to continue an enriched program," he said.

Armed Red Sub Visiting Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Russian submarine equipped with ballistic missiles is visiting Cuba, the first time a Soviet vessel so equipped has done so, the Pentagon said Thursday.

A spokesman said the ship, accompanied by a destroyer and a tender, appeared to be on a training cruise since naval cadets were seen on board. Previous vessels visiting Cuba were equipped with ship-to-ship missiles, but this marked the first time a submarine has appeared there with ballistic missiles, the Pentagon said.

Manufacturer Says Kewpie Value Up

CHICAGO (UPI)—Stombecker Corp., the 96-year-old manufacturers of the Kewpie doll, says Kewpie collectors surveyed report they are willing to pay at least $90 for a six-inch doll that sold for 25 cents in 1920.

"Many of the later Kewpies have a value of $50 to $60 among collectors," Richard M. Shure, executive vice president of the firm said Thursday. "The price of antique Kewpies may have something to do with their recent revival in popularity."

Rohnert Park Aids College Workshop

The Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission last night voted to donate $125 to the Sonoma State College Dance Workshop.

The students have been invited to perform at the ballet biennial in Yugoslavia this summer and are trying to raise $15,000 to fund the trip.

Two Marks For Urban Transit Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Advocates of urban transit in the San Francisco Bay area have won two major victories in the Assembly Transportation Committee.

On an 11-1 vote yesterday, the committee approved a bill by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, that would provide abut $20 million by 1975 from toll bridges in the San Francisco area to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission for development of public transit systems.

Currently the tolls go to the California Toll Bridge Authority for construction of highway bridges.

The panel then defeated on a 5-2 vote a measure by Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, to authorize construction of a new Dumbarton Bridge and to improve the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge.

McCarthy's bill now goes to the Ways and Means Committee.

"It's a good thing you people don't have to drive on that Dumbarton) bridge," Bee said after the vote. "It's the most dangerous bridge in the state."

Bee had been the only assemblyman to vote against McCarthy's bill. He contended the measure would give the power to impose tolls to a body that was not directly elected and that plans were to eliminate the tolls once the bridges had been paid for.

McCarthy noted the funds could be used for facilities related to mass transit and not just for Bart. But he said the prime thrust of his bill was to begin finding new ways to fund urban transit systems.

TWO SUNDAYS OF THE YEAR are especially busy times for the restaurants — Easter and Mother's Day. The first has passed. Mother's Day will be a week from Sunday — May 14. It would be wise to make advance dinner reservations sometime during the coming week at your favorite spot.

First restaurant to announce its menu for that day is the Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile, which is serving a special $5.50 dinner ($3.50 for children under 10). This will consist of soup du jour, salad, a choice of duckling with orange sauce, coq au vin or top sirloin or bareuzais, along with dessert and beverage.

The regular a la carte menu will also be available.

Service is from 3 p.m.

THERE HAS BEEN a change of ownership at the Kettle in the Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael. Wayne Henninger has sold out to Carl and Ernestine Fitzgerald and Paul and Bonnie Fitzgerald — Sacramento people.

Paul Fitzgerald has taken over as manager and Bill Owens, also from Sacramento, has been brought in as assistant manager. Restaurant name, hours and menu will remain the same for the present. Some changes will be made later.

Teen-age Walk Raises $26,012

Teen-agers who participated in a walk for charity in Central Marin on Feb. 27, raised $26,012, Joan Murray, chairman of the event, announced today.

The 20-mile walk was made by 1,200 young people to raise money for the medical ship HOPE, project HOPE for Indians in Arizona and the Marin Charitable Foundation.

The top money raisers and the amount they raised were: Sam Abbott Claybourn, 13, of Ross, $235; Roxane Berry, 13, of Kentfield, $219; Mary Hubbard, 17, of Mill Valley, $180; Marie Cabbarus, 17, of Sleepy Hollow, $175, and Nancy Dakin, 13, and her dog, Alsie, of Kentfield, $171. Nancy is the daughter of Dr. Richard L. Dakin, who will spend three months on the medical ship HOPE.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Firefighters hoped to control a slow-moving 600-acre brush fire on the southeast side of Laguna Mountain sometime today.

San Rafael Library Association Formed

The San Rafael Library Association was formed last night with Jeanne Wasp of 2 Mountain View Avenue as chairman.

The name San Rafael Library Association was chosen at the charter meeting in city hall in preference to Friends of the San Rafael Library, which had been used initially by the organizing committee. The new organization's constitution set forth its purposes as encouraging expanded city library services, promoting public awareness of the library, sponsoring new library programs, enlisting volunteers for library activites and promoting public support for the library.

Mrs. Wasp was not among the approximately 30 persons present, being on a trip to Colorado, but had agreed to serve if elected.

R. M. Mertz, who chaired last night's meeting, was named vice chairman. Harold Wayne Hobbs Sr. was elected treasurer, and Elizabeth Ring, corresponding secretary. The position of recording secretary was left open temporarily Clarice Kramer was named chairman of the membership committee. Dues were set at $2 per year.

James H. Mayer, a member of the San Rafael Library Board, described plans for expansion of the library.

Next meeting was set for May 31 at 8 p.m. in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. conference room at Third and Brooks streets.

Voluntary Bay Vessel Traffic Plan Proposed By Coast Guard

The Coast Guard is proposing a voluntary vessel traffic system in San Francisco Bay that would exclude large vessels from Raccoon Straits between the Tiburon Peninsula and Angel Island.

As a prepatory step, the Coast Guard will conduct a public hearing on proposed revisions of bay anchorage areas at 10 a.m. May 24 at the Presidio Theater, Presidio of San Francisco.

"The anchorage changes are required as the initial step in the establishment of a traffic separation plan," the Coast Guard announced.

Under the slystem recom mended by the San Francisco Bay Vessel Traffic System Committee, Raccoon Straits would be reserved for recreational boats, ferries and sightseeing boats.

The traffic separation plan will be voluntary, but the experience to be gained "will contribute materially to the development of any future regulatory action," reported Rear Adm. Mark A. Whalen, commander of the Western Region and 12th Coast Guard District.

As proposed vessels more than 300 gross tons would use designated traffic lanes voluntarily, as a means of reducing the risk of maritime accidents.

Under the proposed anchorage changes, the explosive anchorage area east of Tiburon Peninsula would be used only by vessels loading or unloading explosives or barges involved in transfer of the cargo.

The San Pablo Bay anchorage grounds along the west shore of San Pablo Bay would exclude the channel to Hamilton Field, and the vessels in the general anchorage south of Point San Quentin would be excluded from protruding into the San Francisco Bay North Channel.

There would be minor alignment changes to the general anchorage grounds at Belvedere Cove, the Coast Guard reported.

One of the changes necessary to establish the traffic separation system will be to reduce the size and use of a temporary anchorage between Treasure Island and Alcatraz, the Coast Guard reported.

The proposed anchorage changes, extending to San Pablo Bay Carquinez Strait, Suisun Bay and San Joaquin River, "reflect shifting traffic patterns" and "will provide more clear maneuvering area for vessels under way," Admiral Whalen said.

Rear Admiral W. M. Denkert, chief of the Office of Marine Environment and Systems, of the Coast Guard, said "The number and size of vessels calling at the port has increased. It appears that the existing anchorage grounds occupy a disproportionate share of the available deep water."

Persons who wish to review the proposed anchorage changes can obtain copies by writing to the Commander, 12th Coast Guard District, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, or can view the copies at Room 505 Custom House, 555 Battery Street, San Francisco.

New Novato Center To Aid The Needy

A human needs center has opened in Novato to take over emergency functions formerly handled by the Economic Opportunity Council but closed as an economy measure.

The new center, an independent operation by local citizens, started operating this week at the former Bank of America building, Second Street and Grant Avenue, according to Rev. Eugene Quinones, one of the founders.

The center isn't associated with the EOC, Quinones emphasized. The center is now providing supplementary and emergency food service and meeting emergency clothing needs, he said.

When the EOC center closed, the needs still existed and a group of residents decided to set up an independent center, he said. Funds and volunteer workers are needed, and "we will have accountability," Quinones said.

The center is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and from 1 to 5 p.m. Fridays. The building space was donated by the Bank of America and Continental Services Co., which has a lease on it, Quinones said.

Eventually, he said, he hopes the center will serve as a clearing house for social service agencies and will provide direct services rather than just by referral.

The plan is to form a nonprofit corporation of residents to administer the center. Founders are Quinones, assistant pastor at Our Lady of Loretto Church and Marin County EOC director; Mary Brooks, who was head of the advisory committee to the Novato EOC Center, and Robert Stockwell, former Marin County EOC director.

The center would like to hear from "those who need help and those who can help," Quinones said. "We have no paid staff and we will solicit funds and volunteer time."

Our Lady of Loretto Church has pledged a contribution of $30 a month and Novatans for Racial Equality aided with storage of emergency food, Quinones said. "We hope other organizations will help."

27 Cars Scraped

Vandals, apparently using a beer can opener, scraped the bodies of 27 cars on the Sanderson Ford Co. lot, 13 Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma, Wednesday, police said.

Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Youths Demand Cheaper Motion Picture Tickets

The television tube obviously has not entirely wooed Marin's youth away from the motion picture box office, but about 75 teen-agers and youths are up in arms over what they claim should be better treatment in the cinema.

The Movie Goers of Marin (MGM) recently organized as a "community consumer action group interested in resolving the long overdue need for less expensive and more dynamic theater entertainment in our county" according to Anita Perna of Novato, MGM secretary.

MGM recently fired off a letter to Blumenfeld Enterprises, which manages 11 of Marin's 15 cinemas. It demanded an answer by today on proposals that the company operate one movie house with 50-cent admissions at all times, and lower the price to 99 cents Mondays through Thursdays in its other theaters. MGM also asked that movie patrons be allowed to bring their own refreshments, and called for lower prices in lobby concessions and changes in scheduling film runs.

Abe Blumenfeld, spokesman for Blumenfeld Enterprises in San Francisco, said yesterday the firm would not acknowledge the MGM letter in any way.

"I don't think it's any of their business. . .they're so far in the wrong," he commented. "This is not the University of California, it's a private enterprise."

Miss Perna said that theMGM demands were based on the replies to 1,000 questionnaires that the young members passed out at theaters, shopping centers and in home neighborhoods.

'A Great Career' With Tam District Nears End

By BRUCE MARTIN

Francis P. Shafer is a fellow who's been involved with the Tamalpais High School District in one capacity or another for a long, long time.

Since coming to Marin at age 9 from his native San Francisco in 1919, Shafer's been a student, teacher, coach and administrator in the Tam district for 41 of those years.

Now 61 and the associate principal at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo since 1953, Shafer will resign July 1 from the profession that he says has given him "a great life . . . a great career."

After attending Main School (now Wade Thomas School) in San Anselmo, he moved on to Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley. It was his time at Tam that was "very important to me. My experiece there made me want to become a teacher."

During his four years at Tam — at that time the only school in the district and boasting a student population of 900 — he was president of the freshman, sophomore and senior classes and was student body secretary. He lettered in football two years — he was an all-North Bay League halfback — basketball three years and track four years.

After his 1928 graduation came two years at Marin Junior College (now College of Marin) and three more at the University of California at Berkeley, where he recieved his teaching credential in 1934.

Meanwhile, he had married another teacher, Eunice Fuller of San Rafael, in 1930. In 1936 they moved into the house at 145 Barber Avenue, San Anselmo, which has been their home ever since. In 1938, she quit teaching and, in 1940, their only child, Joan, was born.

Shafer taught history and Spanish and coached track, football and golf (" . . . the kids taught me how to play") at Tam High until 1944 when World War II interrupted his career. After two years overseas, he returned to district duties and in 1948 became principal of the adult evening school while teaching part time.

By 1951 he was vice principal at Tam and, when Drake High opened its doors that year, he became head of the two-school district's adult evening school program.

In February 1953 he was named assistant principal at Drake, the job he's held ever since.

"My duties have changed considerably since 1953," said Shafer, nattily dressed in a wide-lapel striped brown suit.

"For the first 10 or 12 years I was primarily responsible for attendance, discipline and student activities. As we've grown and administration has reorganized, I've become principally a business manager and budget controller."

Shafer remarked on the state of education and its direction in the past two or three decades.

"There've been a lot of changes," he said, leaning back in his chair inside the small, bare-walled office. "There's more responsibility on the students' shoulders today . . . they assume it and insist upon it.

"Students are encouraged to make their own needs felt, and to make decisions regarding their educations and careers," he said.

In order to allow sound decisions by students, "there must be a middle road" between what many educators label the permissive-versus-structured philosophies of education, Shafer said.

"I'm not an advocate of total permissiveness. There have to be limits while still allowing students a freedom of choice and self-determination.

"Today's students are less receptive to structure or discipline . . . they want to participate more in setting the rules," he said. "For example, 20 years ago there just weren't any student demonstrations."

He believes that students today "mature more rapidly" than their predecessors.

As one reason for this, Shafer cited improved teaching technique and resources. "Therefore," he said, "students are exposed to and have a larger body of knowledge."

And what happends after July 1?

"We'll just do whatever people do after they retire," he said. "I like to putter around the house, and maybe my wife and I can even do a little world traveling."

Candidates' Welcome Is Extended

Facilities of the Frank Howard Allen real estate company are available to assist "responsible political candidates" of all parties, the company president, Jeffory Morshead, has announced.

Morshead's announcement came on the heels of a report furnished the Independent-Journal and published April 29 that campaign headquarters for Alan Douglas French had opened in the firm's Greenbrae office.

Not quite so, Morshead said yesterday. The firm's office and facilities were made available to French during a visit to Marin, but are not a permanent headquarters. Neither, Morshead said, should that be considered company endorsement of French's effort to secure the Democratic nomination for the Sixth Congressional District.

All candidates and parties are extended similar courtesy as a public service, he said.

Bridge Slaying Suspect Booked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— George Jones, 21, of Oakland was held today on suspicion of the slaying of a motorist last month on the Bay Bridge.

MILL VALLEY CANNOT BE COPIED

. . . nor can it's award-winning project six miles from the Golden Gate. Here, professionals take care of exterior maintenance, so you can relax in pools, sauna clubhouse and tennis courts. Such luxuries as wood paneling and fireplace are standard in these two and three bedroom homes. The lifestyle, design and location of these beautiful garden homes cannot be copied at this price (from $35,200).

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz on the May 5 154th birthday of Karl Marx (1818-1883), German revolutionary:

T F 1. A Rhinelander who was born in the old Roman town of Trier, Marx had racial ideas as a youth but did not adopt communist views until he was out of college.

T F 2. Educated in law, history, and philosophy, he got his first job as a newspaper editor but was so critical of local authorities in his editorials that he was forced to resign and flee to Paris.

T F 3. After his revolutionary activities got him expelled from France, Belgium, and Germany, Marx sought asylum in the United States, where he worked on New York newspapers.

T F 4. Marx's influence was not great in his lifetime but Lenin made him world famous by making his theories the core of Russian communism.

ANSWERS

1. TRUE — Marx attended universities at Bonn, Berlin, and Jena.
2. TRUE — He met his collaborator, Friedrich Engels, in Paris.
3. FALSE — He got asylum in England, where he was a correspondent for the New York "Tribune."
4. TRUE — Marx was a good theorist but poor revolutionary.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes Those Rigid Rules Are Better Left Under Table

When I was an infant my mother used to lull me to sleep by singing "With eight, ever; with nine, never." In fact, bridge teachers who quote that rule can still put me to sleep. So if you're looking for a cure for insomnia, take a careful look at today's hand and add to your little list of rules that are better forgotten.

DIAMOND ACTION

West leads the king of diamonds and then continues with the queen of diamonds. East discards the deuce of clubs on the second diamond.

West continues with the ace of diamonds, and East discards another club. You ruff, of course, and then must decide how to play the trumps.

THE OLD RULE

"With eight, ever; with nine, never," said the old rule on finesses. That is, you finesse for the queen when you have eight trumps in the combined hands; you do not finesse, however, when you have nine trumps.

This rule applies only when you have no special information (or when you can afford to let either opponent gain the lead). When you have information about the suit breaks, you may revise the old rule.

SEVEN-CARD SUIT

You know that West started with seven diamonds. If the spades are to break 2-2, West must have two spades out of six cards, and East must have two spades out of twelve cards. This doesn't sound very likely.

As a matter of cold mathematics, it isn't at all likely. The odds are two to one that West has a singleton spade rather than the doubleton queen. So the best play is to lead a spade to dummy's king and return a trump from dummy. When East plays low, you finesse with the jack.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - 2
♥ - Q 9 4
♦ - A K Q 8 6 4 2
♣ - 5 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

There is no advantage in making a shutout bid when you have such great high-card strength. You might easily miss a slam if you started with such a bid as three or four diamonds.

Mill Valley Man Hurt In Crash

A Mill Valley man was injured at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday when his car was struck by another on the connector road between Highway 1 and Highway 101.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Bradley P. Aivazian, 23, of 304 Richardson Drive, complained of a cut right knee and pain in his left leg.

His car was hit, according to the patrol, when he failed to yeild yield right of way to a car driven by David L. Robbie, 27, of 1713 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

Don't Forget The Insect As Villain

CHICAGO (UPI) —When complaining about food prices don't neglect to scold a group of particularly expensive villains —insects.

Despite centuries of fighting agricultural pests, says Encyclopaedia Britannica, insect activity still is costly, ranging from an estimated 6 per cent loss to wheat, to 12 per cent to corn and 15 per cent to potato crops in the United States.

ABSOLUTE PRIVACY

is a hard thing to find these days, but here's a house that's got it, and great sun, and a nice view. The house itself is real funny. Lots of rooms, here and there, and porches and windows, all more or less in the modern manner. It needs some work, and taste, and imagination, but it has wonderful potential, if you know what you're doing. Lots of level land for outdoor living and tall trees all around. Interesting at $37,500. PARADISE NOW! In Marin's loveliest unspoiled valley. Savor the moment of growing with your family while truly enjoying your well earned relaxation. Here are 2-mini estates with 2 very different perspectives. Both offering the land, privacy and comfort of western living:

$69,500. WOODACRE. A 4 bdrm., 2 bath home on grounds on 3 adjoining lots totaling approx. 1 acre. Built with the meticulous love of 2 generations — to last forever. 9 rooms in all. A place that will give you an unreserved feeling of price and satisfaction. A secluded haven for family and guests with everything you could want and possibilities for more. Sculptured organic and terraced gardens. Walkway and a bridge. Sunny lawn. Restful panoramic views from bdrms., patio upper deck, guest apt. — from every angle. A kitchen that is so complete that it is a joy and a challenge to prepare food. Glassed in winter porch and summer deck. Large workshop, 2-horse barn and elec. corrals. Optional membership in the Woodacre Improvement club, pool, playing field, tennis courts. And for possibilities an approved building permit and plans on the lower lot, or an attic ½ finished. Eves. Mr. Heller, 669-1442.

$69,950. LAGUNITAS. (George didn't, but Teddy did — sleep here that is) A 4 bdrm. (sink in each bdrm.), 1½ baths, historical home, completely and tastefully restored. Well known in Marin county as the home of President Theodore Roosevelt's cabinet appointee, where the rough and ready Teddy spent many weeks visiting, riding off to Bear Valley for the hunt. Here is the complete seclusion of the redwoods and forest — with no one to pass by — since this is the end of the road. Approx. 1 acre. A magnificent view from sun flooded decks and porches. Live creek. Artist's workroom in the house and out buildings perfect for a soundproof music studio waiting for your restorative talents. A 2 story living room with fireplace and balcony that has no peer today. New central heating and septic system for complete comfort. Owning the "Argentina House", as it is called, will change you for the better. Eves. Mr. Heller, 669-1442.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR STATE CERTIFICATION OF CONSTRUCTION OF HOUSEBOAT MARINA BY MR. DONLON J. ARQUES P.O. BOX 666 SAUSALITO, CALIFORNIA 94965

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that D. J. Arques has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 21(b) Federal Water Pollution Control Act, for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the construction of a houseboat marina by Donlon Arques as described below will be conducted in a manner which will not violate the California Water Quality Control Policy.

Donlon Arques intends to construct a 245 berth houseboat marina. Construction of the marina will involve the placement of approximately 22,800 cubic yards of clean fill, 1800 cubic yards of riprap, and construction of approximately 31,300 square feet of wooden docks. The project will be located between Gate 5 and Gate 6 at Waldo Point in Richardson Bay near Sausalito. The proposed construction will be completed by December 1, 1973.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364-14 Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by June 2, 1972

'Zero Population' Advocates Attack The Baby Boom Charts

By PHILIP W. McKINSEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — About the longest-ranged of all leading indicators, according to the conventional wisdom of many businessmen, are birth statistics. A baby boom one year means a business boom in years to come, and some industries — such as baby foods and diaper-makers — profit right away. Now, prestigious advocates of "zero population growth" are challenging this equation.

The congressionally formed commission on population growth and the American future, in a section of its final report that received little public attention when the report was issued last month, argued that stabilizing population would be good for the economy as well as the environment.

"We have looked for, and have not found, any convincing economic argument for continued national population growth," the commission said in its three-volume report. "The health of our economy does not depend on it. The vitality of business does not depend on it. The welfare of the average person certainly does not depend on it."

The commission, chaired by John D. Rockefeller 3rd, said that whatever happens to population growth rates, dramatic changes are in store for the economy over the next 30 years.

By the year 2000, it said, average family income is expected to exceed $21,000, compard with today's $12,000 — in constant dollars — even if the work week is reduced to 30 hours. Individual consumption is expected to double today's rate, with increased emphasis on services such as education and health as against manufactured goods.

And whatever happens to population growth rates now, the baby boom of the 1940's and 1950's will be very much with the economy for some time. In the 1970's the commission noted, 35 million new workers will be looking for their first job, 7 million more than in the 1960's. by 1990 the labor force will total about 114 million, about 20 million more than in 1970.

Those are projections, not predictions. The new workers involved have already been born.

Picking up the "zero population growth" idea at this point, the commission argued that individuals and the nation as a whole would be better off if American families average two children apiece than if they average three.

Although it concedes that the nation's gross national product over the long run would grow "far more" at the three-child rate, it said that per-capital income would be 15 per cent higher by the year 2000 with only two children per couple. And the nation, it said, would have more resources to devote to such "desirable purposes" as "human resources investment, public expenditure involving qualitative improvement and modernization, and great attention to environmental and amenity objectives."

As a bonus, the commission reported that the higher average incomes that would accompany the slower growth rate would provide some help toward reducing poverty in the United States — although it said that additional strong steps to change the distribution of income will be needed to do that job properly.

Individual industries have nothing to fear from a slower rate of population growth, the commission contended. The commission examined the impact of two-child and three-child growth rates on some 15 industries ranging from housing to frozen foods, and it concluded that "a gradual approach to population stabilization would not reduce demand from current levels for any industry we studied."

"Beyond the next 10 to 15 years," it added, "the adjustments businesses must make to changes in consumer tastes and technological developments should far exceed the problems of adjusting to a lower population growth rate. The loom tender in the diaper factory is hurt more by the competition from synthetic disposables than by the recent decline in births."

The commission was formed by Congress two years ago, at President Nixon's behest, to explore the policy implications of population growth and movement within the United States. It broadened its task to discuss the desirable — not just probably — rate of population growth for the nation, and its underlying conclusion was: "We have found no convincing argument for continued national population growth. On the contrary, the pluses seem to be on the side of slowing growth and eventually stopping it altogether."

The Higher Roller Will Be Victor In California

By GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Like gamblers playing jackpots-only slot machines Democratic presidential candidates are risking millions on the winner-take-all California primary — the nation's biggest political sweepstakes this spring.

It is a good bet there will never be another primary quite like it, in California or possibly anywhere else.

Party leaders and campaign strategists contend the California system is unfair, uneconomical, undemocratic and stacked against the underdog. They say it's got to go and undoubtedly will by the 1976 presidential election.

"If we don't change it by the next time around, the Democratic National Committee may impose it on us," says Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Cranston and Democratic state chairman Charles T. Manatt of Van Nuys are leading advocates of switching to a system where a candidate's vote percentage determines the number of California delegates he wins.

"If you believe in one-man, one-vote," says Manatt, referring to the Supreme Court guarantee of an equal voice for every voter, "then you can't believe in winner-take-all. You can't have it both ways."

The winner of the California presidential primary — in both parties — takes all the state's delegates to the national convention where they are required to vote for him. The runnerup takes home nothing but a stack of campaign bills and perhaps a California tan.

The Democratic victor this year will capture 271 delegate votes. Only New York, with 278 delegates, will field a larger contingent at Miami Beach. New York's votes probably will be divided among two or more candidates.

The Republican winner will earn 96 California delegate votes, the largest bloc at the party's convention. So far former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch is the only major California Republican talking about moving away from winner-take-all.

"I've been on the winning end of winner-take-all and on the losing end and I really don't think its democratic," says Joseph Cerrell, California campaign manager for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

In 1968, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, prior to his assassination, won 46 per cent of the California primary vote and captured 100 per cent of the state's delegates. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy was a close runnerup with 42 per cent of the vote but scored a goose egg in the delegate count.

"Was it really fair to 'clean Gene' to wind up with nothing when two out of every five voters were for him?" asks Cerell.

The answer is no, as far as Cerrell and other presidential campaign managers are concerned.

"These kinds of primaries are geared to keeping minority people out of the contest," says Shirley Quarmyne, a California campaign coordinator for Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-New York.

It costs anywhere from $1 million to more than $2 million to run a competitve presidential primary campaign in California. Kennedy spent $2 million in 1968 and McCarthy used up about $1.7 million.

Politicans contend this is too much money to risk when only one candidate can win anything. But the high stakes involved force serious candidates to run in California.

Another high-cost factor is time. Candidates, if they really hope to win a contested race, must spend most of May campaigning in the far-flung state. There are only five winner-take-all primaries. The others are Oregon, South Dakota, Rhode Island and Washington D.C. California offers three times as many delegates as these other four combined.

"If all the states were winner-take-all that would be one thing. But when California is the only major state that kind of distorts its impact at the convention," says Marvin Shapiro, California campaign coordinator for Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota.

A bit of "distortion," of course, is what California politicans had in mind when they adopted the winner-take-all system many, many elections ago. The idea was to maximize California's influence on the presidential nominations.

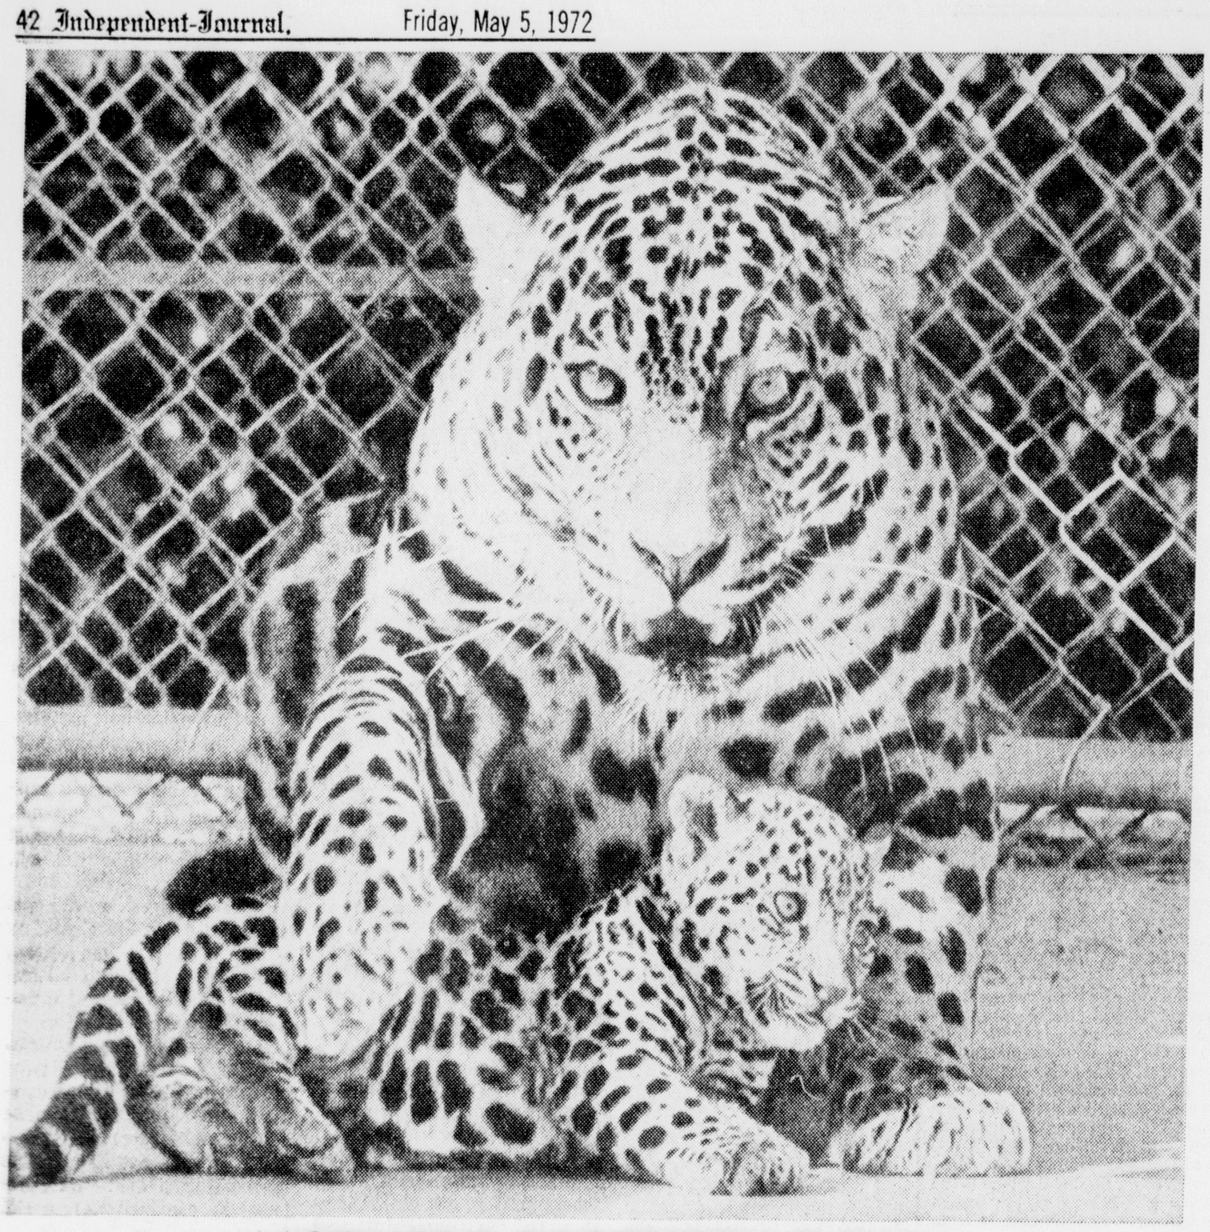
In practice, however, it hasn't worked out. With few exceptions — such as 1964 when Sen. Barry Goldwater clinched the GOP nomination by winning in California — the Golden State's potential power, for one reason or another, has been rather impotent at the conventions.

Most advocates of change lean toward two choices.

One is the 'proportional system," where a candidate's percentage of the vote determines his delegate total. The other is the "congressional system," where the candidate who wins in a given congressional district is allotted that district's delegates. Most primary states use some version of these two methods.

"California's prize still would remain the greatest. The stakes would continue to be the highest here," notes Cranston.

"This will be the last time for California's winner-take-all," predicts Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys. "I don't think the national convention would even accept it four years from now."



MOTHER'S PROTECTIVE PAW

Revenue Sharing Making Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Republicans formally have thrown their support to a Democratic substitute for President Nixon's revenue-sharing bill, improving its prospects for enactment.

But the proposal to spread $30 billion over five years among states and local governments still faces numerous hurdles, including a crowded Senate agenda.

The plan has stirred sharp opposition from left and right. Conservatives argue that the federal government, running up record deficits, has no money to share. Liberals say the sharing plan should be tied to loophole closing that would boost tax revenues to offset the costs.

GOP leader Gerald R. Ford said the 28-man House Republican Policy Committee approved the bill without dissent Thursday and recommended its prompt enactment.

The committee rejected the advice of Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., senior GOP member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee which drafted and passed the bill. Byrnes called the measure wrong in principle, dangerous, and possibly unonstitutional. He also said the government has nothing to share now but a multi-billion dollar annual deficit.

Ford predicted that at least 90 per cent of all GOP House members would support the bill, and he forecast its enactment this year. He said any attempt to block it or sabotage it in the Rules Committee — where hearings start next Wednesday —would rouse mayors and governors to revolt and lead to political retribution against those responsible.

Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who last year had said his committee would kill Nixon's bill, said he was "very pleased and deeply appreciative" of the Republican support for his substitute measure.

The bill, as recommended by Ways and Means on a 17 to 7 vote, would appropriate to the states, with no strings attached, $1.8 billion the first year and larger sums up to $3 billion in subsequent years. Cities would get $3.5 billion yearly and could spend the money only on public safety, environmental protection, or public transportation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Bargain Foreign Tours May Create Problems For Elderly

Inexpensive foreign tours have become increasingly popular, but these holidays may create problems for older persons, especially those with heart trouble, high blood pressure, asthma, or diabetes. Many side trips are on the agenda and some of these jaunts are exhausting. People with existing medical conditions never should leave home without a letter from the family physician containing the diagnosis and the medications needed. A person recovering from a heart attack should also bring along one or two electrocardiograms.

Last year my wife and I went on a Mediterranean cruise. Therefore, I was interested in an article by a British ship's doctor who had been on 35 of these, each lasting from two to three weeks.

THESE WERE cheap package cruises that satisfied 80 per cent of those who took them. However, the ships were not always suitable for the elderly or handicapped and mentally unfit persons. Even though the price was right, they were far from the advertised life of leisure, pleasure, sea, and sun.

The travelers usually fly via a large jet from home to the port of embarkation. If the flight is long, some of the passengers with existing heart conditions may deteriorate on the way. Economy class cabins on board ship are small and not air conditioned. Some lack portholes and in other cabins the portholes cannot be opened.

VICTIMS OF asthma or heart disease are uncomfortable in close, poorly ventilated quarters. The vessel may or may not have elevators and it is a chore walking up and down the steps.

These are cruises, yet most of the time is spent on paid-in-advance shore trips in the various ports. The ships are not always clean and outbreaks of gastritis and diarrhea are common. Passengers who become seriously ill cannot be kept on board and must be left at the nearest port of call.

According to the British ship doctor, he would have had fewer problems if before sailing, the passengers knew more about their health, medications, and physical limitations. These short cruises are not for the infirm or for those recuperating from a serious illness. Please bear in mind that these drawbacks are found mainly on cheap package cruises.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

VISION AND GOITER

REPLY

No. Some persons with an overactive goiter develop bulging eyeballs (exophthalmos), but sight is not affected. An enlarged thyroid gland may press on a certain nerve in the neck that affects the pupil but does not alter vision.

WALKING ON AIR

A reader writes: Why does a person feel as if he were walking on air?

REPLY

He may be elated because his girl said yes gr dizzy because his blood pressure is low or his pulse slow. This form of dizziness stems from circulatory troubles, sinus problems, nervousness, and weakness.

Hearing May Determine Next Moves

A public hearing scheduled for May 18 could determine the future annexation and connection policies of Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, according to board president Frank Solomon Jr.

The hearing was scheduled after several persons voiced their objections to board policy during a board meeting on April 27, Solomon said.

Dissatisfaction with board action at an April 13 meeting — when the board decided to add the 27-acre Green Oaks property to the district — led in part to objections by homeowners and the Terra Linda Valley Homeowners Association, Solomon said.

Board policy has been to approve annexations if applicants "pay our charges and meet our sewer construction standards," Solomon said. Homeowners' objections were based on preservation of the environment, the president said, adding "they apparently believe that more sewers mean more development."

The board's next regular meeting will be May 11, "at which time there may be requests for annexations," Solomon said.

The May 11 and May 18 meetings will be held at the district office, 300 Smith Ranch Road at 7:30 p.m.

Reconstruction Of Road Is Given Approval

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday approved plans to reconstruct Kuck Lane off Bodega Avenue, east of Petaluma.

Representatives of the county public works department said the road would be reconstructed from Monte Vista Lane to King Road and that a drainage system also would be constructed.

The work will require destruction of 26 large eucalyptus trees, but engineers said it could not be avoided without purchasing a large amount of right-of-way lane.

In other action, the commission approved the request of Stephen J. Varnhagen to place 527 acres on Chileno Valley Road, south of Petaluma, into an exclusive agricultural zone so that he may later include the land in an agricultural preserve.

Boise Cascade Loses Lawsuit

OAKLAND (UPI) —Two men won a $552,321 damage suit Thursday against Boise Cascade and a former land salesman after a jury agreed misrepresentations occurred in land sales by the giant firm.

The plaintiffs, Dr. Iriving London and L. Scott Barksdale, own 460 acres of land in Siskiyou County.

The San Francisco men bought unimproved land from Boise five years ago near the Klamath River. They contended Boise misrepresented the value of the land, access to the acreage, and availability of water and the kind of road it intended to build.

The verdict requires Boise Cascade and two subsidiaries to pay $43,321 in general damages and $500,000 in punitive damages to the two men.

New Leukemia Drug Treatment Promising

BOSTON (UPI)—A new drug treatment shows promise in treating adults and children suffering from an acute form of leukemia, according to a team of researchers.

In a report Thursday to the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research, the researchers told of the treatment of 59 previously untreated patients (43 children and 16 adults) suffering from acute lymphoblastic leukemia by a combination of drugs called the L-2 protocol.

The report, prepared by the Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases and the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York City, said all of the 43 children responded initially and 37 have remained in complete remission for two to 28 months. The treatment began in November 1969.

Two children died of the infection while in remission. Four have relapsed, and two of these have since died of the disease.

Thirteen of the 16 adults responded to the treatment and 11 have remained without evidence of the disease for two to 25 months. One adult died and one relapsed.

The report said the L-2 series is relatively free of side effects and has not yet shown any risk to patients in the clinical trials. In addition, the L-2 drugs have not interferred with normal growth and development in the children included in the study.

Laundry Detergent Acid Opposed By Government

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government told housewives today it still opposes use of the voluntarily discontinued chemical NTA in laundry detergents because the latest scientific evidence does not indicate whether it causes cancer or genetic damage in humans.

"Until these two uncertainties are resolved, the complete range of possible effects of NTA usage on human health cannot be reasonably anticipated," said the report released today by a nine-member committee of nongovernment scientists.

NTA is a cleansing agent that the soap and detergent industry voluntarily stopped using in laundry cleaners late in 1970 under prodding by U.S. Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld, who since has complained that he has been eliminated from the government decision-making process on regulating laundry detergents.

Government spokesmen challenged Steinfeld's assertion and said he was not included in the committee proceedings because of its nongovernment orientation, but was informed of the findings. The committee is headed by Dr. Lauren A. Woods, vice president for health sciences at Virginia Commonwealth University's medical college.

Dr. Merlin K. DuVal, the government's top doctor, said government opposition to use of NTA in laundry and dishwashing detergents would continue until studies are completed on the chemical's cancer-causing and genetic effects.

NTA has been found in laboratory tests to cause cancer and birth defects in rats that were fed large amounts. However, the Woods Committee review of scientific evidence tries to dispel the birth defect fears by questioning the experiments that found them.

Wounded Officer Getting Better

Lt. Phillip D. Green, San Rafael police officer shot April 14 in a gunfight with a man officers described as a "well known pusher," was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital.

His condition had been ranging from critical to fair. Green, shot in the buttocks, has undergone two operations.

His assailant, Donald Dean Oliver, was slain.

$400,000 Check For Ending War

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) —Colorado State University mathematics professor Robert Kelman mailed a $400,000 check Thursday for the Republican National Committee in hopes of "influencing" it to get the United States out of Vietnam.

Kelman admitted he didn't have the money to cover the check, but said he would make good only if U.S. involvement is ended within 30 days, "even if it takes me the rest of my life to pay it off.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Clean Air Plan Hit: 'Sloppy Draftsmanship'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Opponents of the "Clean Environment" initiative on the June ballot say exclusion of the San Francisco Bay Area from the propositions key smog control features is an example of its "sloppy draftsmanship."

Both supporters and critics agreed Thursday that the nine-county Bay Area Pollution Control District would not come under its provisions for shutting down industrial polluters and imposing other controls on stationary sources of pollution.

State smog officials consider the heavily populated and industrialized San Francisco area as having the second worst smog problem in the state, next to Los Angeles.

Joyce Koupal, a director of the People's Lobby which sponsored the proposition, uaid that after "great debate," it was decided to omit the San Francisco area. She declared that her group expected to include it under the measure, if it were approved by voters, through court action.

She said that including the area would have added the cost of printing another page to the two-page measure.

"When you're printing a half-million petitions, that's a lot of money," Mrs. Koupal said, adding that the group had $8,300 for printing expenses.

A group opposed to the proposition, Californians Against the Pollution Initiative, contended, however, "It's one more instance of sloppy draftsmanship and an example of confusion in interpretation that would exist until court clarification was forthcoming."

Mrs. Koupal said the opponents singled out the exclusion because they are "searching for anything they can because they're losing."

"You cannot criticize Prop. 9 for what it doesn't do," she said of the controversial and far-reaching measure.

The dispute centers around four of the proposition's sections dealing with smog control which apply only to county air pollution control districts. They bay area would not be covered because if comes under a different section of the law.

PATRONAGE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Governmental Organization Committee has killed legislation authorizing Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and other statewide officeholders to hire more deputies exempt from civil service.

The proposal was defeated on a 5-6 vote Thursday despite a plea by the energetic 34-year-old Brown for additional "flexibility" in securing the "expertise" he wants to help run his office.

At the same time, Republican and Democrat senators alike questioned what they said was Brown's use of his current staff for tasks "outside the scope" of their normal jobs.

It was the first time that legislators criticized Brown face-to-face about his office operation, although some have griped about it privately. Brown is a potential Democratic candidate for governor in 1974.

BEAR BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Thursday making it illegal to hunt bears commercially for their hides.

Under the bill by Assemblyman Eugene Chappie, R-Cool, the hides from bears could only be used to make articles for personal use. The sale, tanning or manufacturing of articles from bear skin would be illegal.

RESCUE PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill requiring home counties of lost "city slickers" to pay more of the cost of rescuing them when they lose their way in mountainous areas has been passed by the Senate.

The bill by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, was sent to the Assembly Thursday on a 24-1 vote. It would require the county or city where a lost person lives to pay all the cost of a search above $100. Currently, such local agencies are required to pay two-thirds of the cost over $500.

JOB CAUSE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed legislation that supporters said would help preserve 300 to 400 jobs in sparsely populated Amador County by easing smog control standards.

Basically, the bill would permit local smog control agencies to authorize disposal of wood wastes by outddor fires until July 1, 1975.

But it also contains a provision allowing any person actively constructing a replacement facility for an open wood waste burner to use the burner until July 1, 1973.

Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Rail Road Flat, said the latter provision would permit continued employment of 300 to 400 persons in Amador County by a saw mill which has had difficulty in building a new facility to dispose of its wastes in conformance with air pollution standards.

MORALE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has scuttled a bill creating a state commission to give advice on how to encourage higher moralty in California young people.

The Governmental Organization Committee agreed Thursday that the measure by Sen. John Harmer, R-Glendale, was an appropriate candidate for a between sessions study by the Legislature. The proposed nine-member "Commission on Encouragement of Morality in Youth" would have the power to subpoena witnesses and require them to testify under oath. It also would advise the Legislature, governor and school boards on ways to encourage "good moral conduct."

Harmer told the panel there were many forms of antisocial conduct among youth, citing the epidemic of venereal diseases as an example "of society's apparent failure to come to grips with this problem."

Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, agreed.

REMODELING

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Legislature may have to abandon the Capitol for up to three years while the 112-year-old structure is remodeled to meet earthquake safety standards, a state senator said Thursday.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, chairman of a joint committee on space needs, said rebuilding the west wing of the old Capitol, which houses the Assembly and Senate chambers and several executive offices, could cost $3 million.

"The old building must be closed to the public, the occupants, and the Legislature while it is made structurally safe," he said.

"Every window and door would have to be boarded up in the old building. No one could possibly work in this building during the rebuilding process."

A final report with a cost estimate on how much it would cost to make the west wing earthquake-resistant is expected to be released in June.

Health Dept. Says Air Safe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Public Health reported yesterday that radioactivity in California's atmosphere was well within public health levels in February and March.

Dr. Simon Kinsman, chief of the department's Bureau of Radiological Health, said a slight increase in radioactivity in March to 0.33 picocuries per cubic meter from 0.25 picocuries in Feburary was "negligible" and posed no threat to humans or animals.

A picocurie is equal to one millionth of one millionth of a curie. A curie is the amount of radioactivity associated with one gram of radium.

Novato's Fire Budget Is Due

The Novato Fire Protection District board is scheduled to act on a tentative budget of $780,817 for 1972-73 at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the main fire station.

Directors reviewed the tentative budget last Wednesday night, but didn't take any action or propose any major changes, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

The tentative budget, up $166,172 from this year's, probably will increase the tax rate, now 48 cents per $100 valuation, but an exact estimate can't be made until assessed valuation figures are firm, the chief said.

A share of the increase has resulted from hiring four additional firemen as the result of negotiations with the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, Kidder said.

Memorial Day Rites Due At Civic Center

Marin County veterans' organizations will hold their annual Memorial Day ceremonies for the first time at the Marin County Civic Center on May 19, according to Leroy R. Clark, chairman for the observance.

Services in the Veterans Memorial Building at 11 a.m. will be followed by a parade of veterans' organization members to the Doughboy statue west of the auditorium. There the groups will mass their colors and present floral tributes at the base of the statue.

Clark asked that all organizations wishing to parade their colors write or call the Memorial Day committee parade marshall, Dr. James Von Bima, Box 833, San Rafael, or Irving F. Blabon, 424 Montecillo Road, San Rafael.

Floral tribute arrangements should be made through Jerry C. Moon, 1951 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, or Edna Adams, 110 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera, Clark said.

The veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries for many years held Memorial Day ceremonies at the Courthouse Square in downtown San Rafael, until the Doughboy statue was moved following the fire last year that destroyed the old courthouse.

Chamber Speaker

Frank Walton, secretary of business and transportation on Governor Ronald Reagan's staff, will address a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce at noon Wednesday at Nave Lanes, Ignacio.

Stop Sign Installations Are Asked

The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association has decided to ask the Mill Valley City Council to install stop signs on Millay Place at Roque Moraes Drive and at Longfellow and Seaver drives at Kipling Court.

After agreeing that the intersections were dangerous, the association decided to send letters to the council asking for its help.

The homeowners association also decided to oppose any access routes that might be constructed through Enchanted Knolls, connecting Sycamore and Blithedale avenues.

"We don't mind an access route for fire trucks," said association president Robert Rankin, "but we don't want a lot of cars driving on it through our neighborhood."

The association also elected Louis Millin as president; John Chelini as vice president; Blanche Giusti as secretary, and Edward Gingras as treasurer.

No Particular Group In Mind

The Performing Arts Guild of Mill Valley was not the object of a remark last week by Supervisor Michael Wornum on the merits of various county grants allocated by the Marin County Youth Commission.

Wornum said yesterday he was not referring to any specific group when he commented that Survival Inc. "is a lot more worthy cause than some they (youth commissioners) put their money in."

The Independent-Journal reported Thursday that Wornum was referring to the youth commission's subsidy of the arts guild, which includes members of the White Panther Party. Wornum said, however, he was referring to no group in particular.

Mountain Play's Producer Named

William Carter of 3330 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, has been named producer and sound director for the 55th Mountain Play, a musical production of "Rough 'N Ready" to be presented at 2 p.m. May 14 and 21 at the Mount Tamalpais amphitheater.

Carter has served as sound director for the Mountain Play for the past nine years. The play was written by Dan Totheroh of Mill Valley.

Candidate Speaking

Barbara Boxer, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Second District, will discuss county problems at 5 p.m. Wednesday at the Sleeping Lady restaurant, 58 Bolinas Road, Fairfax.

State Rules On Status Of Deputies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Security officers working full time for a private employer do not qualify as "peace officers" even if they are deputized by a county sheriff, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger said yesterday.

Younger issued the legal opinion in answer to a question from Monterey County Counsel William H. Stoffers, who asked if deputized members of a private security patrol can become peace officers when they are under the control of a private employer.

The question was prompted by a request from Del Monte Properties, owners of the unincorporated Del Monte Forest, that the sheriff deputize six members of the company's security patrol to serve as peace officers.

Younger said the law specifies that peace officers must be under the control of "proper authorities." In the Del Monte case, he said, the security officers if deputized would remain under the direction of Del Monte Properties although the sheriff would give them some on-the-job training.

When the 1972 Marin Designers' Showcase is held later this month in the six-bedroom, nine-bathroom mansion on the Robert Stearns estate in San Rafael's Dominican District, visitors will have an opportunity to inspect not only the contemporary version of the grand and spacious home of the past, and the room settings created by the area's talented interior designers, but also a garden with spectacular plantings and a rich history. The I-J Marin Magazine offers you a preview look at that garden tomorrow.

Tennis is enjoying an unprecedented surge of popularity as a sport. And Marinites are participating fully in that trend. It is a happy development for the likes of Ernie Nutto who makes his living giving tennis lessons, selling tennis equipment and restringing racquets. How the native Marinite became a tennis pro, and what his work involves — with emphases upon the unusual skill of racquet restringing, are the meat of a special feature written for tomorrow's supplement by its editor, Don Keown.

Ross Man Gets Year In Assault

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Morgan Gilbert Doyle, 20, of Ross, was sentenced yesterday to a year in county jail for assaulting a police officer during a riotous antiwar demonstration when South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky visited San Francisco in 1970.

Superior Court Judge Walter F. Calcagno also placed Doyle on three years' probation and gave him credit for two days already spent in jail. Doyle began serving the sentence immediately, court aides said.

The policeman suffered numerous cuts and bruises during the fray on Nob Hill outside the Fairmont Hotel where Ky was speaking.

Doyle pleaded guilty to a charge of battery on the officer March 22, and a count of robbery for taking Nevin's helmet was dismissed.

After Doyle's arrest, he was quoted as telling newsmen, "You people just don't understand. Young people have to have some way of expressing themselves."

Doyle, a former Redwood High School student, had been attending the University of California in Berkeley.

Tentative Nod Given To Recreation Plans

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board last night gave tentative approval to a $3,000 summer recreation program, according to board member Herbert C. Belben Jr.

A final draft of the program, to be drawn up by recreation director Carolyn E. Jauch, is expected within two weeks, Belben said. When finally approved, the eight-week program is expected to begin June 24 at three locations — Santa Venetia Middle School, John McPhail School, and the recreation center at 714 Adrian Drive.

The bulk of expenses tentatively approved last night will go toward salary for the three-member recreation staff, Belben said. Other expenditures will be for $200-per-month rental of two 10-passenger vans and for materials used in various classes, he said.

The board also hired Gary Ravini at $3 an hour to round out the recreation staff and set pay for Diane Belben, who was hired at the board's previous meeting, at $3 per hour, he said.

The summer program is expected to run five days a week, Belben said, adding the tentative signup date for classes is June 23.

Historic Vessel Sails For Oslo

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The sailing vessel Gjoa arrived in San Francisco 66 years ago after cracking the Northwest Passage with Capt. Raold Amundsen at the helm.

The historic vessel headed back to its homeland of Norway.

Gjoa, landlocked for 63 years as a tourist attraction in Golden Gate Park, was loaded Thursday aboard the Norwegian vessel, Star Billabong.

It was due to arrive in Oslo in three weeks, where it will be placed in a national museum.

Illness Causes A Freeway Crash

SAN MATEO (UPI) — A truckdriver who opened the door of his cab because he became ill fell out Thursday. His vehicle rolled into a busy freeway and collided with a car.

Police said Julian Rivas, 40, of San Francisco, was driving up an access ramp to Interstate 280 near San Mateo when he became ill. He opened the door and fell out.

The truck, loaded with nursery plants, careened across the freeway and bounced off the median divider, where it was struck broadside by a car driven by Mrs. Carol Killer, 32, of San Carlos. Mrs. Killer and two passengers suffered minor injuries.

Rivas was not hurt.

Meadow Club Lands Pro Bill Corbett

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The Meadow Club people have landed one of Northern California's best teaching golf professionals in William H. (Bill) Corbett who for the past 20 years has been head pro at Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton.

Corbett, 46, took over the head pro job at the hilly, picturesque private course southwest of Fairfax last Monday. He replaced Joe Ferrero who left the golf business after 11 years at Meadow Club, the last three as head pro and eight as assistant. Joe's reason for leaving was financial.

BILL CORBETT

For the last week, Corbett has had a steering wheel in his hands much more than a golf club since he has been commuting daily from Pleasanton, 110 miles round trip.

A native of Oakland Corbett spent his boyhood days there and after graduation from Fremont High spent two years in the Merchant Marines and a year at San Francisco State before deciding on a career in golf. "I had even thought of becoming a sports writer," he laughed. (Well, he had a choice. I can't play golf worth a darn.)

He was assistant pro at San Francisco Golf Club in 1947-48 and assistant at Northmoor Country Club in Chicago 1949-50 before returning to Oakland for a job as assistant at Sequoiah Country Club. Two years later he moved to Castlewood where he remained for two decades.

"It really turned into a huge operation at Castlewood," explained Corbett. "We had two 18 hole courses and 850 members. I just wanted to move to a smaller club so I could give more personalized service." There are about 350 members in the Meadow Club.

"I feel the main thing in being a golf pro is the teaching," said the man who has tutored pro golfer Ron Cerrudo since Ron was 11 years old. "I still see Ron about once a month, check out his swing and things like that. He'd doing pretty good the last couple of tournaments." Cerrudo now lives in Napa but his parents live in San Rafael. Instead of Castlewood, Ron will be making trips to Meadow Club to see his teacher.

Corbett tried the pro circuit on the winter tours of 1949-50-51 "but I was lucky to even make the cuts." He didn't make enough money to meet expenses and admitted the pro tour route was not for him.

He got into the game of golf at the age of 14, getting some personalized lessons from an uncle, veteran pro Harold Sampson. His son, Bill, is a chip off the old block, and at 12 appears headed for golfing stardom. This past year, Bill (it's William D., thus no Jr.) won 10 of 14 Northern California Junior Tourneys in his age group.

"Golf's a game of competition. You have to compete to be able to improve your game. You need the pressure." This is what he tries to impress on young player who tell him they want to play pro golf.

"Pro golf is really a rough game. You three putt a green and 10 guys go right past you. More than talent is needed to play with the big boys. You have to have things like the right disposition, attitude."

During our conversation came a tip that I think can be used by all golfers, even we duffers. "There is a lot of difference between KNOWING you can make a putt and HOPING to make it."

Corbett is in the midst of writing a thesis on teaching the game of golf. He is looking toward the day he earns a Professional Golfers Association (PGA) Masters card, something very few club pros ever obtain.

But first he's hoping to find a house in Marin for himself, wife, Emily, and two children. He doesn't dig all that commuting.

DOWN TO THE WIRE — Redwood High School's Ken Bentson (right) won a close, hotly-contested 440-yard dash from San Marin's Randy Colfer in yesterday's track and field meet at San Marin. Bentson's time of 52.3 seconds was the best in the Marin County Athletic League this year, and helped propel Redwood to a 76-56 victory and the league championship.

GOLIATH WINS

Track Title To Redwood

By LEW CODDINGTON

This time, Goliath won.

With 1,500 more students to choose from, Redwood High School assembled a strong, deep track and field team which yesterday won the Marin County Athletic League championship by defeating San Marin, 76-56, in a dual meet at San Marin's track in Novato.

Redwood finished the dual-meet season with a perfect 7-0 record, compared to San Marin's 6-1. The season was not a complete loss for the outnumbered Mustangs, however. They compiled the best record in school history by far — the top previous mark was 3-4.

The matchup of the league's two best teams produced some outstanding races and four of the MCAL's best times for the year, despite cold and blustery weather which made it difficult for runners to get loose. The temperature was in the mid-sixties as the meet began, and declined as the afternoon wore on. It was not a good day to be running around in your underwear.

Mike Sweeney of Redwood came from 30 yards back to defeat San Marin's Bob Briot in the half-mile in a matchup of two of the league's better runners. "He really blitzed out," said Sweeney about his opponent. "I don't like to run a fast first lap." Sweeney does like to run a fast second lap, and finished at 2:00.6.

Redwood's Ken Bentson defeated San Marin's Randy Colfer in a spirited 440-yard dash by two-tenths of a second in 52.3, despite saying he "couldn't get loose" because of the cold.

Gary Lathrop prevented a San Marin disaster in the distances by running a 4:50.9 mile for a victory, and the mile relay team of Larry Butti, Lathrop, Briot and Colfer clocked 3:20.0 in the closing event, after the meet was decided. Those four times were 1972 league dual-meet bests.

Another outstanding duel occurred in the long jump, where Tom Malvino of Redwood and Colfer tied at 20 feet, five inches, and Malvino was awarded first place on the basis of a better second jump. Malvino and Colfer never seem to be more than an inch or so apart any time they meet.

"We also got big, unexpected victories from Duff McEvers in the 100 and Bruce McCarthy in the low hurdles," said Redwood coach Doug Basham.

"We were here in force — all 17 of us," said tight-lipped San Marin coach Jim van der Beets. The numbers game was against him. Redwood has 2,400 students to San Marin's 900, 40 track team members to 17, and 19 point-scorers to nine.

The only number pleasing to van der Beets was the crowd figure, which exceeded 100. "This was a good season for us," he said. "We got some publicity and some interest going, which can only help us in the future."

NHL Bruins Beaten By Rangers, 5-2

NEW YORK (UPI)—Beating the Boston Bruins at their own power game, the New York Rangers had the victory they so desperately needed today although it cost them two defensemen.

Scoring on their first three power play chances in the first 13 minutes of play, including a pair by defenseman Brad Park, the Rangers beat Boston 5-2 Thursday night to narrow their deficit in the Stanley Cup final to 2-1. However, two of their defensemen, Ab DeMarco and Jim Neilson, spent the night in Lenox Hill Hospital.

DeMarco, a youngster who didn't play in the first two games at Boston, was the most seriously wounded as he suffered a deep skate cut in the back of his left knee while struggling for the puck with Boston's Ace Bailey in the final period. DeMarco was taken to the hospital and was operated on early this morning.

Finley Stays In Hospital

Finley was admitted to Merritt Hospital Thursday, a few hours after a plane carrying him and his baseball team, including Blue, landed in Oakland following a transcontinental flight from Boston.

During the flight, Blue unburdened his feelings about Finley to an East Bay sports writer. And if Finley caught any of the conversation or read about it a short time later, his discomfort is readily understandable.

Among other things, the 22year-old pitcher said:

"Charley Finley has soured my stomach for baseball. He treated me like a damned colored boy."

Blue, last year's Cy Young Award winner and Most Valuable Player in the American League, referred to the lengthy contract battle he had with Finley before signing this week for $63,000, up nearly $50,000 from his 1971 salary.

"I wanted $75,000 but I didn't get it, so what?" said Blue. "Finley said I wouldn't get more than $50,000. I got it ... I'm no fool. I know next time I'll be negotiating from a $50,000 contract.

"Personal pride is a reason for coming back. I could have gone back to Mansfield, La., and lived with my mother and been perfectly happy."

Finley was reported "resting fairly comfortably after a little spell of chest discomfort."

Dr. Charles Hudson, Finley's physician, said the owner was suffering no pain and there has been no medication.

"At this point, we are just watching him," said Hudson.

Blue is expected to be in uniform tonight when the A's open a nine-game homestand against the New York Yankees. But he won't be ready to pitch for another three weeks.

Blue did some running at the Coliseum Thursday before the A's intrasquad game in which the regulars beat the rest of the team 8-0. He praised A's manager Dick Williams as a "true professional" during his contract negotiations.

"He said the team had a chance to win it with or without me," said Blue. "That's cool."

Novato Tops San Rafael Golfers By 1

Pat Grogan stroked a solid 38 through blustery May weather yesterday at Indian Valley Golf Course, leading first-place Novato to a 217-218 Marin County Athletic League golf win over San Rafael.

In another MCAL match, the expected close confrontation between the second place teams, Terra Linda and Redwood, turned into a breeze for the Trojans, 210-218, at Marin Country Club.

"Grogan did an outstanding job in a pressure match," Novato coach Al Scott praised.

Butori, Creighton To Coach Stars

Donald D. Butori of San Marin High School will coach the North team and Richard W. Creighton of Drake will handle the South in the third annual Knights of Columbus North-South High School Baseball Classic, game officials announced Wednesday.

The game pits an all-star team of graduating seniors from the four northernmost Marin County Athletic League schools against a similar team from the four southern schools. This year it will be held Thursday night, June 22, at 7 o'clock, at Albert Park in San Rafael. Proceeds benefit the San Rafael K of C scholarship fund.

Butori, 28, is in his second year of coaching at San Marin. His team currently is tied for third in the MCAL with Drake and Terra Linda.

Born in San Francisco, Butori was an all-city outfielder at Sacred Heart High School and went on to play at St. Mary's College in Moraga, where he received a B.A. in history in 1965. He coached two years of freshman baseball and two years of junior varsity at Sacred Heart before moving on to San Marin.

Butori teaches English. He is single and lives in Tiburon.

Creighton, 34, is in his fifth year at Drake. His current team needs just one more league triumph to surpass its previous best victory total of five.

Creighton received an A.B. in history from the University of Santa Clara in 1960 and was twice an all-league pitcher for the Broncos. He pitched briefly in the Minnesota Twins' farm system.

Creighton taught and coached varsity baseball at St. Helena High School for six years before moving on to Drake. He teaches social studies and English. He, his wife and five children live in San Rafael.

Marichal Vs. Phils Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Maybe Philadelphia, Montreal and Shea Stadium will be more agreeable to the San Francisco Giants than their own Candlestick Park.

After a disastrous homestand in which they dropped 11 of 13 ballgames, the last-place Giants embark on a nine-game tour of the historic and scenic northeastern United States and Canada.

Lefthander Sam McDowell (30) of the Giants will work against Dick Selma (1-1) Saturday and Ron Bryant (0-1) vies with Steve Carlton (4-1) on Sunday. In his last outing against the Giants, Carlton pitched a one-hitter to beat Marchal.

New York Mets Dickering For Giants' Mays

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Mets confirmed Friday they are talking with the San Francisco Giants about luring homer-hitting Willie Mays back to New York.

Mays, who makes an estimated $165,000 a year, is second only to Babe Ruth in career homers and has been a drawing card since joining the Giants in New York 20 years ago.

A hint of a deal was in the air when the Mets visited San Francisco recently and Bob Scheffing, the club's general manager, was understood to have huddled with Giant executives.

FISH AND GAME

California Has Most Licensed Fishermen

By AL GIDDINGS

California led all states again last year in numbers of licensed fishermen, accounting for close to 10 per cent of all fishermen in the country.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reported that California had 2,263,229 paid fishing licenses during the year, and that the gross cost to fishermen for licenses, tags, permits and stamps came to $10.08 million.

Over the last 15 years, a Fish and Game Department Director Ray Arnett report said, during a time when the Department of Fish and Game was holding the line on license and stamp costs, other fees increased about 50 times.

Nevertheless, fishing and hunting continue to be highly popular forms of recreation. The number of fishermen in the United States rose about one-third in the last 10 years, and the number of hunters remained almost constant.

ALTOGETHER, nearly one-quarter of the United States population over twelve years of age hunted or fished during 1970. Statistics showed one third of these were men and approximately 12 per cent were women. Only 13.3 per cent of persons living in large cities hunted or fished. The percentage for small city and suburban residents was 21.2 per cent, and 28.5 per cent for town and rural area residents.

The money spent for licenses, stamps and other permit fees — the smallest percentage of the sportsmen's expense — cannot indefinitely meet the increasing costs of habitat acquistion, development and preservation. As to the money problems, it cannot be deemed reasonable that sportsmen carry the full burden of these costs alone. Particularly as they relate to nongame species and general habitat acquisition.

Development and preservation costs should be shared by the general public who increasingly utilize outdoor areas, and the wildlife which inhabit them. The task faced is monumental, but the solutions are not impossible.

LAST WEEK at the Long Beach Headquarters of the Department of Fish and Game when the office staff arrived for work 45 telephones were off the desks, 30 wastebaskets were overturned, the telephone switchboard was in disarray, an adding machine and a comptometer were out of order, and most of the potted plants were pulled out by the roots.

In this case it was discovered that the culprit was Kinky, a 2½ pound playful and affectionate kinkajou which had been caged and awaiting pickup from the keeper of the Irvine Zoo. The animal had been picked up by wardens as an undesirable alien in accordance with the Fish and Game Code!

Kinkajous, if allowed to become pets, could become pests such as the mongooses in Hawaii. Hawaii would now donate a fortune to rid their island of these animals. California restricts their entry because apparently they would be harmful to natural wildlife and agriculture of this state.

THE WILD turkey hunts of last fall and this spring were considered successful. Hunter survey results indicated that about 3,700 hunters bagged about 540 birds. At the Spenceville wildlife management area and in the surrounding areas of Yuba and Nevada counties, 86 hunters showed up for the opening day taking five toms, the largest weighing 23 pounds. On private lands 13 toms were taken opening weekend.

There were no anglers along Papermill Creek last Monday — so we feel that most of the silvers and steelhead really did get to sea.

prevent swelling. He was sent to the hospital for observation and the extent of the injury was not known.

As a result, New York was forced to finish the game with three defensemen—Park, Rod Seiling and Dale Rolfe—but held the charging Bruins scoreless in the final period.

It was the power play that won the game for the Rangers in the first period, both in their ability to capitalize on their own chances while stopping Boston's opportunities.

The Bruins, who set a National Hockey League record by scoring 74 power play goals during the regular campaign, had a man advantage for 5 minutes and 57 seconds during a 7:08 span of the opening period but were unable to capitalize.

In the meantime, Park became the first defenseman ever to score two power play goals in the same period in Stanley Cup play and he assisted on another power play goal by Gilbert to send New York off to a 3-0 lead. Park later made it a four-point night when he helped set up another Gilbert score in the second period.

Thorpe In Houston Golf Lead

Thorpe, 25, the son of a Roxboro, N.C., greenskeeper, took a one-stroke lead into the second round of the $125,000 Houston Open today. He opened with a six-under-par 33-33—66 Thursday over the 6,998-yard, par 36-36—72 Westwood Country Club course.

Hale Irwin and Don Bies were a stroke behind with 67s and Doug Sanders, Jim Farriell and Jack Ewing were tied for fourth with 33-35—68s. Grouped at 69 were Bruce Devlin, Lanny Wadkins, Bob Menne, Bob Payne and Marty Fleckman. Napa's Ron Cerrudo fired a 71.

Thorpe, who joined the tour in Los Angeles in January, had the best round of his career on a par-72 course by driving long and hitting some superb chip shots.

"I've never played with Nicklaus, but I believe I can drive with him or anybody else," the 6-foot 2½, 190-pound Thorpe said. He gave a sample of it on No. 18 by hitting his drive 320 yards.

"I started out hitting a golf ball with a stick cut like a club and I could hit a ball 240 yards with it," he said. "When I finally got clubs, I was like a gorilla. I didn't know how far I could hit it."

It brought back memories of Trevino who used to drive with a soft drink bottle. Trevino and Thrope are similar in other ways.

They both came from poor families and it took both of them a long time to get started on the tour.

Marin Fields' Rash Of Aces

A rash of holes in one reached epidemic proportions this week on Marin County fairways, five were shot.

Three were recorded at Indian Valley in Novato and one each at the Mill Valley and Oakmont.

At Indian Valley last Thursday, Darrell Altermatt and George Scherba scored their third aces, both on the 13th hole. Three hours later, Lyle Hastings aced the 145-yard eighth hole using a six iron. Scherba also used a six-iron.

Larkspur general contractor Trevor Jones used a four-wood on a 194-yard par three hole in Oakmont last Friday for his ace. It was his second hole-in-one.

The final ace was registered by Jules Prizant at Mill Valley Saturday. He used an eight-iron on the 130-yard, par three fifth hole. It was his third ace.

THE INDIAN VALLEY course will host the North Bay qualifying round Friday, July 28 for the 43rd Northern California Golf Association's Junior Amateur Championship.

Entries for the championship tourney to be played Aug. 7-11 at San Francisco's Lake Merced Golf and Country Club are open to boys reaching their 12th birthday by midnight Aug. 6 and who have not surpassed their 18th birthday by midnight, Aug. 11.

Entries are available at Northern California course pro shops or by writing the Northern California Golf Association, P.O. Box 1157, Pebble Beach, Calif., 93953, ATTN.: Junior Championship.

Slamming Cubs Club Braves, 8-0

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Chicago Cubs are sorry to hear that the Atlanta Braves don't return to Wrigley Field until July 14.

It's been a long time since the Cubs enjoyed anything more than their just concluded three-game series with the Braves. The Cubs completed a sweep of the three-game set at Chicago Thursday by blanking Atlanta, 8-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Milt Pappas.

In the three-game series the Cubs collected 42 hits and scored 32 runs while holding the Braves to 18 hits and just two runs.

Riva Ridge's Challenger In Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —A snappy final workout and the removal of a dangerous foe moved a tough little colt named Hold Your Peace front-and-center today on the eve of the 98th running of the Kentucky Derby as perhaps the top challenger to the Derby's glamorous favorite, Riva Ridge.

With 16 three-year-olds slated to start in Saturday's storied "Run for the Roses" on what just might be a rainy day, there was absolutely no doubt that Riva Ridge will go to the post at Churchill Downs the favorite at odds of nearly even money.

That's been clear for days, and the bettors who are searching for a fair-priced horse to beat the favorite have turned first here and now there in search of a choice. One hope, Derby Trial winner Key to the Mint, went glimmering Thursday when trainer Elliott Burch decided to save his star for the Preakness Stakes later this month.

And into the breach stepped Hold Your Peace with a 1:01 3-5 drill Thursday over five furlongs that had trainer Arnold Winick beaming. By contrast, Riva Ridge toured the same distance in 1:03 1-5 and trainer Lucien Laurin explained that the favorite "could have gone faster, but we didn't ask him to."

Riva Ridge was named the favorite in the advance odds issued by Churchill Downs at 9 to 5, while Hold Your Peace was noted as the second choice at 3 to 1 and No Le Hace as third pick at 5 to 1.

When the 16 starters go into the starting gate for the mile-and-a-quarter classic at 2:32 p.m. PDT Saturday, Hold Your Peace will break from the No. 3 stall and Riva Ridge from No. 9. No Le Hace is at No. 16, the extreme outside.

Marin Tars Bow To Santa Rosa In Baseball, 5-4

Santa Rosa Junior College rallied for two runs in the seventh inning yesterday to send the College of Marin Tars down to their 13th Camino Norte Conference baseball defeat in 19 games this season, 5-4.

Orr To Receive Pair Of Awards

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK — Bobby Orr, who's helping the Boston Bruins in their attempt for a second Stanley Cup title in three years, already has earned some impressive silverware this season.

Orr, the Bruins' star defenseman, has captured the Hart trophy as the league's most valuable player and the James Norris Memorial trophy as the top defenseman, the National Hockey League announced today.

Orr thus becomes the first player in NHL history to win MVP honors for three straight seasons and the first ever to capture top defenseman honors five consecutive years.

The league also announced that the Lady Byng memorial trophy for sportsmanship will go to center Jean Ratelle of the New York Rangers.

Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Betty Bunfeindt of Cannan, N.Y., has a three-shot lead after the opening round of the 72-hole, $50,000 Sealy Ladies Professional Golfers Association classic — and a hole-in-one to boot.

Tennis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Unseeded Frank Froehling upset fifth-seeded Arthur Ashe 7-6, 6-3 yesterday in the second round of the Caesars Palace-Alan King Tennis Classic.

Auto Racing

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Peter Revson made his 1972 debut at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway yesterday and quickly proved he's capable of breaking the official "500" qualifying records he set a year ago. There's just one catch, however: 10 other cars also have surpassed Revson's record speeds so far in practice for the May 27 Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Horse Racing

DETROIT — Under pressure from the state, two men with reputed Mafia connections, Anthony J. Zerelli and Peter J. Bellanca, yesterday resigned from the Board of Directors of the Hazel Park Racing Association.

Herman Franks Arrives On Scene

(Third of a series)

Whenever Willie Mays faced a crisis in the past he called on Herman Franks, his close personal friend and financial advisor, for advice. Thus, when Franks flew to San Francisco Tuesday from Salt Lake City to talk with the captain of the Giants, everyone close to the Candlestick Park baseball scene knew that Mays was wrestling with a serious problem.

Two years ago when Mays and Horace Stoneham couldn't come to quick terms on a new contract, Franks flew to Casa Grande, spring training base of the Giants. It wasn't long after Franks' arrival that Mays signed a two-year agreement at $165,000 per season. This is the last year of that contract.

SEVERAL YEARS ago when Mays collapsed on a Salt Lake City stage while talking to Job Corps trainees, Franks took Mays into his home for several days of rest.

Franks wouldn't talk about Mays' present problem which has the great center fielder of 21 major league campaigns nervous and upset. Perhaps Mays is wrestling with a decision he inevitably will have to make soon because he now is 41 or, at least, will be tomorrow.

Mays is terribly troubled because he hasn't been able to help the Giants this season. Never previously had he been unable to contribute help. So he hadn't thought seriously about retiring. But, now, after a most depressing .182 batting average at the outset of the 1972 season, Mays no longer shrugs off questions about his retirement with a happy laugh of "one, two, maybe three more years."

LAST SUNDAY when Mays didn't appear in either game of a doubleheader at Candlestick, it was announced that he had been sent home sick. When he returned Monday, Mays said he wasn't sick but just didn't feel "ready." When a friend suggested that perhaps he should see a doctor, Mays said: "No, it's not that."

Mays though he would be ready for Tuesday night's game and actually had requested Charlie Fox to put him back in the lineup. The manager did that but just before Tuesday night's game, Mays went to Fox and told him he wasn't ready.

It's obvious that Mays is tied up with a soul-searching problem. When asked by one local reporter if he had any idea when he would return to the lineup, Mays said "Maybe Friday in Philadelphia." To another reporter who had asked the same question, Mays said he might be back in action on his birthday Saturday in Philadelphia. Then he decided to play Wednesday in the last game of the Mets' series.

NEW YORK REPORTERS traveling with the Mets huddled around Mays and told him they were sorry they didn't see more of him in the series.

It would be extremely embarrassing to Mays, one of the game's top salaried players at $165,000 a season, to wind up his great career in pinch roles. That's not the way he envisioned it.

Terra Linda Netters Fall To Redwood

Putting on an awesome display of power at the onset of the second round-robin of Marin County Athletic League play, the Redwood High School tennis team crushed Terra Linda yesterday, 7-0, in Larkspur.

In other MCAL encounters, Marin Catholic squeezed by San Marin, 4-3, while San Rafael bopped Novato 7-0. Drake's match at Tamalpais was postponed until next Wednesday due to a heavy mist in Mill Valley.

Redwood lost only five games out of 89, as three Giant netmen won by 6-0, 6-0 shutouts. It was the 59th consecutive MCAL triumph for Redwood.

STANDINGS

Redwood 8-0, Drake 6-1, San Rafael 6-2, Tamalpais 4-3, Marin Catholic 3-5, Terra Linda 3-5, Novato 1-7, San Marin 0-8.

Sanitary District Cleans Up, 7-4

Bill Baken and Jim Garner each homered to boost Sanitary District to a 7-4 victory over Mill Valley Air Force Station last night in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league game at Albert Park. In the only other adult clash, Chuck Hiller Men's Wear saddened Jolly Roger, 7-2.

In high-school league play, Guy's Gomes defeated previously unbeaten Sobel's Saps, 8-1, and Duke's Dill Nibblers topped Brown's Bite-Offs, 5-3.

2ND LOSS IN ROW

Rancho Cotate Nine Spanked By Sonoma

May is supposed to bring sunshine and blooming flowers, but as far as Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park's baseball coach Jim Dougherty is concerned, he'd rather have the showers that (are suppoed to) come with April.

Dougherty's Cougars, who were undefeated in April at 5-0, lost their second straight in May with a 16-3 bombardment by Sonoma County League host Sonoma.

With the loss, Rancho Cotate may find itself in second place today, one half game behind Piner of Santa Rosa over which it held a one and a half game lead Monday. Piner (5-2) hosted Healdsburg (3-5) today.

Sonoma teed off for 17 hits against the Cougars' top two hurlers. The Dragons pushed across four runs in the first and eight in four innings off Dave Christensen, who went into the game with a sparkling 1.09 earned run average and a 3-0 record in league. Sonoma then exploded for six more off Christensen's replacement Jerry Wachowiak, equally effective previously with a 1.00 ERA and a 2-0 league mark.

Petaluma Track Men Top Sonoma, 87-48

Petaluma High School closed out its 1972 track and field dual meet season yesterday on a winning note with an 87-48 nonleague victory over visiting Sonoma.

The win raised the Trojans' record to 4-4-1.

The Trojans dominated the Dragons, taking 13 out of 16 events. The two outstanding individual performances were produced by Jose Martinez with two wins in the sprints, taking the 100-yard dash in 10.4 and the 220 in 23.8, and Larry David who won the 120 high hurdles in 14.9, tying a Petaluma school record he set Monday.

NBA KNICKS LAKERS VIE TONIGHT

"Debusschere's got to go Friday or we lose," says the talented Knicks' guard.

That's about it in a nutshell. The Los Angeles Lakers grabbed a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven championship series Wednesday night by humbling the Knicks, 107-96, at Madison Square Garden and game No. 4 is set for the garden tonight with Debusschere a doubtful performer.

Petaluma Golfers Defeated

Petaluma High School lost a North Bay League golf match, 13-2, to host Ukiah yesterday, dropping the Trojans' NBL record to 3-6.

Six Marin Drivers On Petaluma Track

Six San Rafael race drivers participate in the Petaluma Speedway Friday night races, giving the track a definite Marin County tinge.

The group includes sportsman division drivers Gary Ramsier, Roy Victor, Dick Lynch, Kirk Edison and Robert Padgett. The sixth is stock car division driver Ralph Hill.

Ramsier, a veteran of several seasons on the fairgrounds' quarter-mile dirt oval track, heads the cast. Victor and Lynch give Ramsier seasoned competition. Edison and Padgett are rookies.

The NASCAR modified sportsman and early model stock car division join the fledgling hobby division for six-cylinder passenger cars in qualifying Friday night's at 7 o'clock. Racing commences an hour later.

Terra Linda Track Team Wins Finale

Terra Linda High School closed out its Marin County Athletic League track season yesterday with a 97-38 victory over San Rafael at Terra Linda.

In the Class B meet for the MCAL title, the Bulldogs emerged victorious, 84-51. Both teams had been undefeated at 6-0 going into the confrontation.

The San Rafael Police Officer's Association presents a perpetual trophy to the winning team in this intra-city rivalry. The Trojans took the award from San Rafael, which won last year. The Officers Association also contributed individual medals to event winners.

Bankers Building New Image, Stable Bases

By DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bankers, once depicted as crusty old money counters, now have taken to counting community social problems...and doing something about them.

While this trend is partly due to a desire to maintain a good image in these changing times, it also is rooted in sound business reasons. To make money banks need stable, growing bases of operation. You don't have such conditions in a decaying or rioting community.

The United Bank of Denver distributed free bus tickets—9,500 during February alone—to encourage people to leave the car at home. "There was a time when people came to Denver because of the air," the bank said in back-up advertising. "There may come a time when people leave Denver because of the air."

A Wells Fargo bank in San Francisco made a $150,000 high-risk, low-interest loan to Chicano migrant workers to help them start a strawberry cooperative. It also helped them locate land, made arrangements for marketing and provided management guidance.

At the urging of Mrs. Olivetto Thompson, a black mother of nine, the National Bank of North America provided $1.3 million interim financing for a middle income housing project at the old Brooklyn Navy Yard. An abandoned structure now provides a home for 1,000 families.

Central Trust Co. of Rochester, N.Y. serves as a clearing house for odd jobs to provide summertime employment for high school students. If they're working, students are less likely to burn down banks or picket them.

High school dropouts get training with pay in academics, personal grooming and vocational skills under a program developed, run by and financed by a group of banks in Columbia, S.C.

The Foundation for Full Service Banks and the American Bankers Association have a joint program called "Banking Serves America." It has established special departments to handle loans for minority groups. Hundreds of millions of dollars are being set aside for housing. And small towns around the country are being reborn because many bankers now invest in faltering communities rather than leave them for greener pastures.

In Livermore Falls, Maine, Banker Arnold Sturtevant started rebuilding single-handed until neighbors followed his example. In New Madrid, Mo., the Bank of New Madrid helped create facilities to attract new industry. Something had to be done since cotton, backbone of the town's economy, had fallen off.

Since man does not live by bread alone, the banking program sometimes touches on the emotional side of a community. The Fayette Bank & Trust Co. of Uniontown, Pa., a depressed area, decided to sponsor a cultural program. It included painting and sculpture exhibits, dance and music performances, a summer theater school for children and a concert series.

Banks, it seems, have learned their interest grows when they take interest in the people around them.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Because I am retired, income is important to me. My portfolio contains 35 shares of Hershey Foods (NYSE) for which the dividend has not been increased in four years. I have written the company twice about this but have received no reply. Should I sell these shares or write to the company again? — L.U.

A. In 1966 when Hershey raised its dividend to the present quarterly rate, the company earned $2.09 a share and paid out 51 per cent of that in dividends. Since that time earnings have dropped so that last year shareholders received 78 per cent of earnings as dividends. Under such conditions it would not have been out of line if directors had seen fit to reduce the dividend rate. Corporate directors who determine the dividend policy must make decisions on the basis of corporate rather than individual shareholder need.

Since you are primarily interested in income, your best course is to switch to a high-return investment.

Q. Would you discuss the potential growth for Mattel, Inc. (NYSE) in view of its intention to build a circus complex near Disney World? — C.C.

A. Construction of a $50 million circus complex by Ringling, a Mattel subsidiary, will begin in the fall. However, this 600-acre family entertainment center is not scheduled for completion until 1975. Meanwhile, operations have produced a substantial deficit. For the year ended Jan. 31, 1972, sales fell 22 per cent year-to-year, from restated fiscal 1970-71 revenues. Mattel's former 10 per cent share of the toy market was reduced to only 8 per cent, an important factor in the $29.9 million loss reported for the year. On a per share basis the deficit was equal to $1.84. Company was seriously penalized by the West Coast dock strike since a good portion of their toys are manufactured in Hong Kong.

With a strong new product this year, Mattel could readily recoup its share of the volatile toy market and make up the losses suffered on its Hot Wheels line.

Stock Price And Trades Move High

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange moved sharply higher in active trading today.

Stocks had opened mixed after Thursday's late decline, but then began a steady climb.

Advances were ahead of declines 728 to 482, among 1,563 issues traded. The two-hour volume came to more than 6,000,000 shares.

Wall Street analysts attributed the rally largely to hopes of a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam situation. A Paris newspaper reported the United States, in secret talks, had accepted two key demands of the Vietnamese Communists.

Favorable economic news also may have contributed to the rise, observers said. Good first quarter earnings continued to pour in and the Labor Department reported there had been no increase in unemployment for April. The wholesale price index, however, rose 0.3 per cent to April compared to a rise of 0.1 in March.

Bekins Co. Earnings Up For Quarter

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Improved revenues and profits for the first quarter of 1972 have been reported by the Bekins Co., Daniel P. Bryant, chairman, said.

First quarter revenues for 1972 were $25,349,000, compared to $24,126,000 for the first three months of 1971, and earnings were $361,000, or 10 cents per share in 1972, compared to $132,000, or 4 cents per share last year.

Petaluma Firm Building Light Fiberglass Trailers For Cars

A lightweight, fiberglass travel trailer weighing only 850 pounds but capable of sleeping four is being manufactured by a new corporation founded by five Marin County businessmen.

Fiberstress Inc. has just opened its plant in a 10,000-square-foot building at 150 Lakeville Road (formerly Hopper Street) in Petaluma. The fiberglass fabricating plant produces the 13-foot trailers, known as the Boler American, which sell for $1,795.

"It uses a new concept, an independent suspension, and is aerodynamically designed," said William Weber of San Rafael, secretary of the corporation. "The inside is lined with insulation so that it acts like a wet suit. There is no condensation or dust problem."

The Boler American is aimed at young families with small cars who want to go skiing, fishing or camping. Weber said that a friend of his with a Volkswagen breezes up Waldo Grade at 45 miles per hour, with one of the trailers in tow.

The trailer was developed in Canada, and Fiberstress Inc. has the license to manufacture them. Weber Associates of 34 De Luca Place in San Rafael is the sales representative.

Heading Fiberstress as president is Stuart Purvis of Corte Madera, who has been in the fiberglass business for 25 years. Other principals in the new firm are Fred Duvall of San Rafael, in charge of plant operations; Griffith Marshall of Tiburon; and R. Bruce McQuarrie, an associate of Weber.

RALPH RICHARDSON, service manager of Dexter Toyota at 445 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, won the 1971 Toyota customer relations award. He is one of 78 service managers to be honored nationally among the 890 Toyota dealerships in the United States.

"The award is presented to service managers who have demonstrated the highest degree of courtesy and quality service while responding to the needs of their customers," said John McGovern, Toyota's national customer relations manager.

Leadem

JOSEPH A. LEADEM of Tiburon has been named resident vice-president with Putnam Financial Services, Inc. (formerly Mutual Fund Associates) of San Rafael. Leadem will take charge of the firm's East Bay division located in Berkeley. Before joining Putnam, Leadem was vice president and regional marketing manager for a mutual fund management company.

Putnam Financial specializes in sale of mutual funds, tax sheltered investments and funding programs as well as life and disability coverage through its association, Western Travelers Life Insurance Co.

THE CUBE furniture store's San Rafael office at 1018 B Street in the Albert Building closed up shop on May 1.

Owner Glenn H. Cavalli of Mill Valley, who opened the Cube store last August, plans to return to the arts and designing field.

YOU, THE ARCHITECT — The Marin home buyer need not choose from "take-it-or-leave-it" ready-made models, says David Grassi, general partner in Inter Discipline Homes of 836 Stone Valley Road, Alamo (Contra Costa County). His company invites the layman to plan and design his own home. Here is how Inter Discipline works:

You sit down with professionals at Inter Discipline and start with a central core containing two complete bathrooms and a fully equipped kitchen. You then decided what rooms you want to add and where — patios, living areas, sliding doors, etc.

"You end up with exactly the type of living environment you want, not something pre-fabricated to suit someone else's fancy," said Grassi.

CALIFORNIA GROWERS Wineries announced the appointment of Golden Gate Liquors of San Rafael as one of three major distributors in Northern Califonria.

REAL ESTATE — Harold A. Strouss, Marin residential manager for Grubb & Ellis Co., Realtors, announced these new additions to his sales staff: Miss Joan A. Johnson of Terra Linda, former Fulbright scholar, and Mrs. Gaddy Crook of San Rafael, formerly with Rupert Jernigan Realtor, joined the Greenbrae staff. William B. Magness of Mill Valley joined the Terra Linda staff.

Dick Oliver, formerly with Associated Developers in Novato, has joined the sales staff of Kay Noah and Associates, 1680 Tiburon Boulevard, Tiburon. Oliver is a retired U.S. Army colonel.

JULIAN E. OLSON of San Rafael, former salesman with 3M Co. in San Francisco (makers of business machines and products), just won his master of business administration degree from Golden Gate College and has joined Advanced Systems Inc. in San Francisco.

VICTOR P. OBNINSKY, attorney, has moved his law office from 225 West End Avenue, San Rafael, to 1920 Paradise Drive, Tiburon. Joe Giacomini, manager of the Frank Howard Allen & Co. office in Tiburon, negotiated the office lease for Obninsky.

WARREN G. McDONALD of Mill Valley has been elected secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco chapter of the California Society of Certified Accountants for 1972-73. Donald W. Kehoe of Tiburon was named to a two-year term on the board of directors.

McDonald is a partner in Main Lafrentz & Co. in San Francisco. He is a member of the National Association of Accountants and holds the rank of lieutenant commander in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve.

Kehoe is managing partner of the San Francisco Bay Area offices of Arthur Young & Co. He is an associate of Golden Gate College and is director of the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco.

Disney Does What Others Dream

By JACK WAUGH
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

SANTA BARBARA — Everybody snickered when he suggested it.

It was just Ray Bradbury off on another of his science-fiction flights of fancy: suggesting Los Angeles ought to elect Walt Disney mayor! That would solve a few things, he said.

This was back when Walt was still with us, in the days when perhaps the only genuinely new thing under the sun (in fantasyland defiance of the ancient axiom that there was never anything new) was Disneyland. Those were the days when Nikita Krushchev was touring the country and wanted to visit Disneyland but the Secret Service wouldn't let him and he went off on a widely televised pout.

Walt Disney for mayor! Preposterous. What did Walt know about administration? What did he know about patronage? What did he know about life in a big city? Just because he had imagination.

Well, when the snickering died, nobody said much. Until recently. And now here comes Peter Blake suggesting about the same thing in New York magazine.

"The truth of the matter is," he insists, "that the only New Towns of any significance built in this country since World War II are Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., and Disney World in Orlando, Fla. Both are "New," both are "Towns," and both are staggeringly successful.

". . . Only the Disney people have created in this country during the past 25 years or so, what Mayor (John) Lindsay, in a moment he will forever regret, called Fun City; only the Disney people (of all the New Towners in the U.S.) are building a whole city of 27,000 acres — Disney World — which is twice the size of Manhattan; only the Disney people . . . have constructed entirely new mass transit systems — monorails that shoot right through buildings, aerial tramways (skyway buckets), water buses, and electric or horse-drawn jitney-type vehicles . . . and even a new railroad system and a trolley line that is free to all!

"Only the Disney people have built lakes and lagoons, artificial surf and waterfalls; only they are building, at Disney World, four miles of new beaches — which is, approximately, what Robert Moses created at Jones Beach . . . and only they have built, also, housing, stores, golf courses, stables, nature trails and camping grounds — while not at all bankrupting themselves or the taxpayers (whoever they may be), but getting richer and richer and making the pople of Florida and southern California and the world happier and happier.

"In other words, it is Walt Disney Productions, and not our innumerable U.S. city planning agencies and experts, that has really created the first, great, vibrant New Towns in America . . .

"The only way to have Fun City, urban-design-wise, is to take it away from the do-gooders and lease it to Walt Disney Productions."

And Blake wasn't cracking a smile or bunching up his tongue in his cheek.

This was serious enough so that we had to get on the phone about it to Don Freeman. Don has been walking through the world always slightly amused, making people laugh with his pen and his deft, zany, imaginative drawings, commenting good naturedly on it all from his wry vantage point on the imagination side of life. He writes such things as philosophical tracts called, "The whole truth and nothing but the hole."

He has just finished a children's book about a detective pigeon in Paris called Inspector Peckit who takes up the puzzling case of the girl's handbag stolen from a windowsill.

Inspector Peckit is a bundle of suspicions. He suspects every-body and everything. He suspects a dish of spaghetti and the sleeping poodle. He suspects a ravel of yarn. And finally he finds the handbag where he least suspected, high on the Eiffel Tower in his own roost. Mrs. Pecket had heisted it and turned it into a nest.

"We are glued to a rut," he says, "because we can't see what the problems are and how to solve them imaginatively. Nixon going to China, that had some imagination to it.

"But take the school busing issue. We aren't looking at that with enough imagination. Think of it this way. The important thing is to make it so kids can go to good schools. And it is an imaginative thing to bus them there. It is one of the most sociable things that has happened in a long time. The kids get to be by themselves and discuss things. They can't run anywhere until they get to school so they have to talk to each other.

"Imagination. It's wonderful. And we need it. We should all be taking subjects and wrapping ourselves around them. We should be asking ourselves all the time how the world should be 10 years from now. But we don't. They do it in think tanks. But it would be good sport if everybody got in on it. Walt Disney for mayor? Wonderful!"

And maybe Inspector Peckit for attorney general?

Child Beating Charge Is Filed

Ronald Leland Porter, 29, of 829 East Washington Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of felony child beating.

He was booked into city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said Porter's stepson, Larry Earl Rodman, 7, had been beaten with a rubber hose with a metal clip attached.

Porter's wife, Sonja, 30, said he beat the boy to discipline him for touching dials on the television set, police said. Officers said the boy's left eye was swollen shut and that he had bruises on his face, arms and legs.

Lamb Killing Dog Reported Out Of Business

The lamb-killing dog that ravaged flocks on Tomales area ranches late in March has been inactive for more than a month, according to Robert Dollahite, livestock conservation director for the Marin County Humane Society.

Dollahite said the few lamb deaths reported in recent weeks were believed due to a bobcat, which ate its victims. The killer dog crushed the necks of 53 lambs with its jaws, and left about three dozen more wounded without eating any of them, Dollahite had reported earlier.

Ranchers, who had mounted a "small army" on nightly guard duty in March and April, put their loss at more than $3,000.

Dollahite said it was uncertain whether the killer dog had left the area, or was being confined by its owner.

Old Adobe's Schools May Set New Trend

Old Adobe School District, in Petaluma and its eastern suburbs, has embarked on a program that may point the way for other districts in the North Bay area.

School will start early in July for many children in the Old Adobe district as it puts two of its four schools on a year-round plan to avoid a return to double sessions next fall.

THE ACTION comes late. Schools in the Old Adobe district have been on double sessions for years, as new subdivision tracts in East Petaluma swelled enrollments faster than the financially pressed district could build classrooms. It escaped double sessions with opening of Miwok Valley School for first through fourth grades in March, but it would have had to restore them in at least one school next September if the year-round plan had not been adopted, according to Supt. Dean Magowan.

The growth pressure in Old Adobe is shown by the fact that it has added more than 400 pupils since beginning of the current school year.

The all-year program, to be tried initially in La Tercera and the new Miwok Valley School (now housing four grades but to be completed for kindergarten through sixth grade by July) will work like this:

ONE-FOURTH of the pupils will begin their school year July 5. Other groups — one-fourth each time — will start at three-week intervals thereafter, the last quarter entering about the time the school year starts in other districts.

Each group will attend for 45 school days, then have 15 school days (three weeks) vacation. Thus, as the fourth group enters, the first will be starting vacation. From that point on, there will at all times be three groups attending and one on vacation. In this way, three classrooms will handle as many pupils as four do under the usual plan — without double sessions.

AS LONG AGO as the early 1950s, some people in California were urging similar all-year school plans to meet the rising school population. They are not untried. First experiments with them date back almost to the 19th Century. But opposition by both parents and educators kept them from being widely adopted, at the same time that many children were short-changed on their education by compressing the school day into double sessions.

Not many Marin and Sonoma districts now face such growth as does Old Adobe. But year-round utilization of the schools has advantages other than making three rooms do the work of four, which may become evident to educators less forward-looking than Superintendent Magowan as the new plan progresses in fast-growing East Petaluma.

Mushroom Time

Mushrooms are popping up all over Marin these warm spring days. Collecting them for eating purposes can be a very dangerous hobby. Mycology is like ski jumping — both require a thorough grounding in fundamentals before take-off. If one must eat wild fungi, it is best to study and become a real expert first. Too many amateurs wind up in the hospital. And a few are fatally poisoned.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Paraders For Women's Lib Traitors To Their Own Sex

By RUS WALTON

There is nothing so unfeminine as these feminists who have been marching up and down the capitol corridors the past few weeks —the ones who are out to get the legislature to ratify Amendment 27 to the U. S. Constitution, the so-called equal rights amendment.

They want to make women equal, want to take them down from the pedestal and put them on a level with men.

If they had any sense they would know that women aren't equal. They're superior.

AT LEAST, some of them are — not these pinch-faced, hard-nosed mannikins in miniskirts. They don't know what being a woman is really all about. So, they're trying to be men.

Some gal from Berkeley told them off. She said the proposed 27th Amendment was the product of organizations dominated by "selfish, naive, business, professional and career women."

I'll tell you. Most of the apron-clad, loose-haired, flour-nosed housewives in America have more sense, more soul — and more sex appeal — than these libbers.

We already have men who won't be men: men who refuse to accept the responsibilities of parenthood, guys who propagate and vacate. Now it's women who won't be women. Where does that leave the family, and the kids?

LET'S GET ONE thing straight, right off:

I believe that when a woman does the same work as a man, she should get the same pay. Equal work, equal pay. And if a gal is qualified she should have the same opportunity as the next guy in a profession or an occupation. Equal smarts, equal status.

But these libbers want equal everything —and that is demeaning to the women of America.

They may speak for their kind, but they don't speak for their sex. I know they don't speak for my wife and I'll bet they don't speak for the vast majority of the ladies in this land.

But did you see the way those poor sheep in the Assembly fell all over themselves voting for the ratification resolution? Why, 56 of them went right along with that ewe turn. Only 11 — five Democrats and six Republicans — had enough courage to maintain that women are different.

And thank goodness for those three state senators — Bob Lagomarsino, Jim Mills and Steve Teale. They have that ratification resolution bottled up in the Senate Rules Committee. For this year, at least.

YOU KNOW, if it weren't for the threat that the amendment would put all women into the same box, and weaken the fabric of the family, I'd be tempted to say: "If a gal wants to make like a man, that's her business."

I mean, all these women who want to be liberated from themselves, let them go. It's no big loss. They're probably not the kind you'd want to come home to anyhow.

Let them grab their briefcases and their picket signs, or belly up to the men's bar — if that's what turns them on. Liberated is as liberated does, I always say.

As for me, I'll keep the little lady I have. Soft and warm. Intelligent and charming. Feminine. And equal. Not subservient. Not superior. And not supercilious. But equal, as when two are one.

For her I'll open doors and carry boxes and take off my hat. And even let her wrap me around her little finger now and then. Just to prove she doesn't have a thing to prove.

She always was the better half!

"One owner, V-8 engine, automatic transmission, power brakes, and —would you believe it? — never been recalled."

"But the more I feed him, the more he bites me."

Fairfax Can't Afford Another 'Orr-gy'

Fairfax's Orr-gy:

Well, the party is over, and its final cost will be no measure of its success. It's been one hell of a binge. More than five months of debauchery, overindulgence and hyperbole, and now it's over. It is time to pay the piper. Like any orgy, we come away from it exhausted, unnerved, and sick in spirit.

The question is: what do we do with the mess? The house is a shambles. Soiled dishes, some irreparably chipped and cracked, lay everywhere. There are sweepings under the rug and the linen is dirty. A bad aftertaste still lingers, and the hangover could be a beaut.

We could, I suppose, mend and paste, scrub and scour, and put things neatly back in their place. We could, on the other hand, dump the whole muddle in the nearest garbage can, condemn the house, and move in with mother.

Burglary Backgrounds Could Be Interesting

The Independent-Journal (Apr. 24) reported 44 burglaries which seems to be a weekly average in I-J territory.

If an enterprising reporter checked on the family background, why they burglarize as a way of life, where they dispose of the loot; quoted the judges and DA on the problem of prosecution, the police in catching them, and the feelings of those burglarized, it should make an interesting article.

'Pot' Case Disposition Found Unsatisfactory

As the result of reading an article published in the Independent-Journal on April 26, relating the final disposition in the Marin County Court of the Clifford Michael McClure case it would appear that Marin County has gone to pot.

Also notably absent in the said article was any mention that said Mr. McClure is the son of one of our county's illustrious sheriff's department. Rather strange, in view of the fact that the "goodies" (pot), were found in the residence of the sheriff's deputy. In passing it may be relative to mention that members of our law enforcement should be more capable of guiding their offspring away from the "drug scene" and at the very least become aware of the presence of such a large quantity of "pot" in their very own residence.

Candidate's Absence Draws Reader's Barb

Mr. Arrigoni has now failed to appear at two out of three candidates' nights, although all eight other candidates for the board of supervisors had the decency to express their views and answer questions from the public.

I believe his absence is an affront to the citizens who go through the trouble to arrange these debates.

Does Mr. Arrigoni think his incumbency will push him through or is he running scared? Not only is Mr. Arrigoni a part-time supervisor, he is a part-time candidate as well.

MMWD Directors 'Holding The Line'

Congratulations to the Marin Municipal Water District for helping to hold the line on inflation. At their last meeting they raised their attorney's wages $22.22 per hour. I suppose it could have been $50. Things could be worse. He's now getting $38.88 an hour, up from $16.66. Unreasonable? They didn't think so, but they are using our money. Interesting when you think that the plumbers for MMWD get approx. $6 per hour.

Recycling Could Be Made Profitable

In your editorial of Apr. 29 you correctly point out that a piecemeal, cottage industry level of operation to solve the problem of recycling is not going to be workable.

You further suggest that we can use our technology to get rid of the mess.

Couldn't those companies who are the chief contributors to the problem solve it themselves by creating non-profit corporations, financed by all the varied interests, to organize the technology and solve the problem?

Senator McGovern's Criticisms Indict The Party He Wants To Win

WASHINGTON — No other serious candidate for a presidential nomination in my reportorial experience has made as sweeping an indictment of the policies and shortcomings of the government as Sen. George McGovern.

And why not? These are his honest convictions and it is well to have him express them.

What he is saying is that for the past several decades Washington has either failed to do nearly everything it should have been doing or did it badly, inadequately, and tardily.

That explains, he says, the terrible mess we are in. And the size of the protest vote in the Democratic primaries — whether it goes to Alabama Gov. George Wallace or Senator McGovern — shows that many voters feel the same way.

I AM NOT HERE attempting to appraise the merits or demerits of the McGovern indictment. His side of the argument can be fairly defended.

The point I am raising is how in heaven's name Senator McGovern can expect the voters to believe both his indictment and his plea that they return to national power the party almost totally responsible for what he finds so wrong!

It is certainly rational to blame the present on the past. But when the past is almost wholly the work of one political party, it seems less than rational for Mr. McGovern to want to reward that party by restoring it to power.

Can Senator McGovern afford to be half-believable? If he is going to be wholly believable, he ought to be running on an anti-Democratic, anti-Republican, third-party ticket.

McGovern is ignoring the fact that the Democratic Party has controlled Congress for 36 of the last 40 years. And that a Democratic President has been in the White House for 28 of the last 40 years.

It is simply an objective fact that almost all of the actions or inactions about which McGovern complains were the actions or inactions of a Democratic President or a Democratic Congress.

HERE IS THE BILL of particulars:

McGovern argues that presidents have put the nation into war too often and too irresponsibly. Yet a Democrat has been president at the outset of this period's four major wars.

McGovern argues that presidents have taken the nation into war without congressional approval. Two presidents have done that —Truman in the Korean war and Kennedy in the Vietnamese war.

McGovern calls it a scandal that tax reform has been so long delayed and that tax loopholes have not been plugged. Who's to blame? Congress writes the tax laws and the Democrats put the loopholes in and have so far refused to take them out.

Welfare reform is imperative but the Democratic Congress delays and delays.

IF WE ARE in a mess today and if the present is the result of past neglect —as seems reasonable —then the responsibility must rest on those who have done the neglecting most of the time.

The record, cited above, shows that the Democratic party has done most of the neglecting. It has controlled Congress uninterruptedly for the past 12 years, and it has controlled Congress for 24 of the previous 28 years.

I am not contending at all that the Republican party would have done better. I am simply demonstrating that if Senator McGovern is to be believable as a protest-reform candidate, he cannot reasonably propose to return to power the party which has committed most of the crimes he complains most about.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH

New Code Gives Great Powers Right To Hang Onto Their Own

The safe, almost routine, return of Henry Kissinger from Moscow to Washington underlines a point we have noticed before about emerging shape of the new post-cold war world. It is the tolerance of the great powers for damage done to their clients.

American bombs dropped on or around Hanoi and Haiphong have put a chill on Moscow-Washington relations, but not enough to interfere with plans for Mr. Nixon's trip to Moscow.

We presume that it would be a very different matter if Washington were trying to overthrow the regime in Hanoi. But since this is a reprisal for an offensive launched from North Vietnam against tha American client to the south, Moscow makes appropriate noises but, like Peking, does not break off relations with the United States in protest.

Under the new unwritten code which is emerging, we can see that is still permissible for a superpower to encourage larceny through one of its clients. Hanoi is vigorously attempting to conquer South Vietnam. But Washington's efforts to frustrate the Hanoi offensive are as tolerable as was Russia's determined frustration of Czechoslovakia's attempted escape from a Russian prison in 1968.

A GREAT POWER, so it seems, is entitled under the new code of the hills, to hang on to its own — if it can.

Thus, while Moscow and Peking both deplore the bombs on or around Hanoi and Haiphong, they only make noises, and those are remarkably muffled. They really do, after all, have a poor case since it is their client, not the American, which is on the attack.

It is entirely in keeping with this code that Mr. Nixon has declared his absolute determination to have his client, South Vietnam, win its battle for survival. The most important passage in his restatement last week of his Vietnam policies was that:

"... We will not be defeated; we will never surrender our friends to Communist aggression."

Those are strong and uncompromising words, particularly "we will not be defeated."

SOUTH VIETNAM is Washington's client. It has been under a non-Communist government since it was set up as a separate state in 1954. It, not Moscow's client to the north, is in danger. Mr. Nixon is determined to defend it from that danger. And Moscow and Peking, by their behavior, recognize his right to defend it, if he can.

It is reminiscent (with differences) of 1968 when Czechoslovakia was trying to get out from under Russian rule. Washington and all the western countries had enormous sympathy with the Czech effort to escape. They gave moral aid and comfort.

Whether they ever offered any other form of encouragement is alleged, denied and never yet established. But certainly the West yearned to have Czechoslovakia break free.

When Russia sent in her tanks to prevent that escape from Moscow's prison the West was unhappy. But it accepted the fact of life that Czechoslovakia had been Moscow's property for 22 years and that therefore Moscow had acquired from those years of possession the right to take extreme and even brutal means to hang on to its property.

IN THE SAME SENSE South Vietnam has been Washington's "property" for 17 years, and that too confers rights, even to dropping bombs on the other person trying to take that property away.

The retaliation may be embarassing in both Moscow and Peking. It may be deplored and resented. But it does not seriously disturb the tenor of great power relations. Mr. Nixon is trying to do exactly what the Russians did in Czechoslovakia, he is trying to hang on to his own property.

We still have no sure sign of whether he will be successful. The offensive has presumably not yet spent its full strength.

This battle will be the pay off. As of this writing the great powers have tidied up their communications with each other as though getting ready to handle and manage the outcome, whichever way it goes. There will be a lot of urgent work for the diplomats when the soldiers are finished. Mr. Kissinger got that work in hand by his trip to Moscow.

COUNTRY PARSON

"I wish more folks were willing to do without what they don't need."

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Percentages Fail To Tell Story Of Supervisors' Pay

There is a savings and loan firm in San Francisco which has a slogan that goes something like this: "We are more interested in you than in the money you invest." Now, this wasn't exactly the import of a letter to the editor in the I-J on Tuesday.

Michael Wornum, county supervisor from the Third District and the dean of the money grabbers on the board, wrote the letter. It was quite evident that he was thinking more of the money you invest in him than he was of you.

He said he "would like to answer briefly, three of (my) personal remarks" in the colum on April 21. Then he went on as follows:

"THE SUPERVISOR'S salary increase of $100 a month to $1,100 a month represents 10 per cent spread over four years, or an average of but 2½ per cent a year — an average every other employee would scorn. Remuneration from the other boards I sit on fails to cover the time I spend on them."

One ofthe oldest hoo-mali-mali ploys is the use of comparative percentages. Let's take a look at what the super receives in dollars over a four-year period, more than he agreed to serve for when he was elected. The salary was $1,000 a month or $12,000 a year, which in turn means $48,000 in four years.

He voted along with the others a raise to $13,200 a year or a base pay of $52,800 in four years. With the extra appointments on committees his take runs to $17,400 a year or $69,600 for the four-year term. Deduct $48,000 from that and the resulting $21,600 is the extra added attraction you are paying for.

THE GENTLEMAN had a few more defensive things to say in his note. "I am at the Civic Center much more frequently than every Tuesday, a fact Mr. Fusselman could discover if he ever would himself visit the Civic Center — something that has never occurred in my whole term in office. Additionally I spend much time with the people of my constituency, where the real action is."

He should co-ordinate his remarks and not stumble over previous ones. At the phony evaluation of the administrator in March he, Wornum, was quoted in the media as saying: "Evaluation is rather unnecessary. The review is every Tuesday." Referring to that remark in this column on March 31, I wrote, "(It) is a dead giveaway. Tuesdays are his visiting days at Brasilia apparently." About my being there; it isn't hard to follow a ball game and know who's at bat these days.

Report Deals With Mill Valley Schools

The Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office will present a report to the Mill Valley School District Monday which suggests several boundary changes for the Old Mill Park and Alto Elementary schools.

The study, asked by the district, outlines changes that could be made to alleviate overcrowding and reduce the district's dependency on portable classrooms.

Planned opening of the new middle school, with resultant vacating of Edna Maguire School, prompted the district to investigate possible boundary changes.

The impending 800-unit Marinview development, which promises to add about 240 students to the district, was another factor in the district's request for the county report.

The most sweeping recommendations deal with the fate of the Old Mill School. That school has a current enrollment of 435 students, while the recommended enrollment for the building for the next year is only 300.

1. Transfer 130 students living in the Blithedale Canyon area from Old Mill to Park School.

2. Relocate the fourth and fifth grades currently attending Old Mill to the vacated Edna Maguire School, while maintaining the existing boundary lines. Old Mill would, in this case, only house kindergarten through third grade studnets.

3. Do nothing to the boundary lines and simply study the situation for a year.

4. Transfer the entire fifth grade and one quarter of the fourth grade enrolled at Old Mill to the new middle school. These students could be integrated into classes with middle school students as "accelerated learners."

5. Adopt the all-year-round "45-15 Plan." Under this plan, students would have 45 days of school and 15 days of vacation on a rotational basis so that one-fourth of the students and staff is on vacation at all times. On such a schedule, 400 students could be served at Old Mill, despite a capacity for 300 students.

School district trustees are to consider the report Monday, according to county Supt. Virgil S. Hollis. The board is to decide the fate of Old Mill School by May 15.

Although the county report did not firmly state a preference among the various alternate proposals, Hollis, who directed the study, told the I-J yesterday he thought the district should transfer part of the fourth grade and all of the fifth grade now attending Old Mill to the new middle school for one year (alternative 4.) During that one-year period, he said, the district ought to study the "45-15 Plan" for possible start the following September.

"We have to move 130 students somewhere, so why not move them to a school that has enough room — like the middle school — where they will be going as sixth graders anyway."

"We're trying to establish permanency in the district, so I favor a plan that won't have to be changed again in a year or two.

"If we adopt alternative 4, it will give us an opportunity to study other alternatives, either a year-round school or further relocation of boundaries."

Approximately 20 to 35 students living in Muir Meadows could be transfered from Tamalpais Valley School to Marin Terrace School. If this were to occur, the report recommends that two portable classrooms be installed at Marin Terrace.

The report also recommends that two portable classrooms be installed at Homestead School to add flexibility to the school's multipurpose rooms.

The sixth grade at Tamalpais Valley School will attend the new middle school beginning in September. The absence of the sixth grade will provide enough space, it is expected, to house new students from the Marinview development.

With respect to Strawberry Point School, the report suggested that the district consider transfering 20 students from Strawberry who are living in Shelter Bay to the Alto School.

Suspects' Charge, Bail Are Reduced

Four men, once booked on suspicion of assault and conspiracy on $40,000 bail, now have been charged with the lesser offense of attempting to harm, with bail set at $250.

Ambrose James Daly, 31, Michael Sylvester Cox, 26, and Richard Trent, 20, all of Fairfax, and Eugene Milton Paine, 23, of San Rafael, all have pleaded innocent to the misdemeanor, which stems from a complaint by Dale Edward Panttaja, 20, of Mill Valley.

Police said the man complained he had been invited to the home of Trent, but once there the men threatened to kill him if he didn't pay $50 they said he owed them.

The men were arrested Sunday on suspicion of conspiracy and assault with intent to rob and the high bail was set, but Judge David R. Baty reduced the bail when they were arraigned.

Scholarship Choir Event Announced

The San Rafael High School A Cappella Choir, directed by Byron Jones, will present its spring scholarship program Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The first part of the program will include "The Omnipotence" by Schubert, with Soprano Chris Dill as soloist; Rachmaninoff's "Ave Maria" and the J.S. Bach Cantata No. 4 "Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison." The cantata will be accompanied by an instrumental ensemble composed of Renee Froman and Carol Osborne, violinists; Debbie Matin and Shelley Mathewson, violas; and Jo Anne Oakley, cello.

Other numbers on the program will be two nocturnes by Carlos Chavez; the English Folk Song "O, Soldier, Soldier," and a group of songs, "Sounds of the Carpenters," arranged by Jerry Nowak. An instrumental ensemble accompanying the "Sounds of the Carpenters" will be composed of Martha Shore, fender bass; Bob Bauer, piano; and Joan Levinsohn, drums.

Youths Fall To Death After Rattlers Bite

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)— The death early this week of two young hikers was apparently caused when they scaled up a rock ledge and encountered a nest of rattlesnakes. One boy was bitten eight times on the hands and chest, and the other twice.

Both then fell 300 feet off the cliff to their deaths, the county coroner said Thursday.

The announcement cleared up a mystery for the parents of 14-year-old Mark Frye. Mark was an experienced outdoorsman and had three times climbed California's highest peak, the 14,494 foot Mt. Whitney.

His fatal climb, in an area north of here, was described as not nearly as difficult as others the boy had made. His parents were said to have been confused when first reports said it was the fall alone that killed him. He was hiking to earn his third Boy Scout merit badge for mountain climbing.

Mark was apparently leading the climb when he moved over a ledge and was struck six times in the hands and twice in the chest by rattlesnakes, and then fell.

The other lad, 13-year-old Michael Huff was said to have been an inexperienced climber. He apparently followed his friend over the ledge and was bitten twice.

The coroner's report said neither apparently died an agonizing death from the snake bites, but were killed from the fall.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Carmalt was arrested March 23 with roommates Marvin Joe Schuck, 25, and Fred Joseph St. Arnault, 19, after pot plants were seen growing inside a window of their home.

A municipal court judge ruled last month there was insufficient evidence to try the other two persons.

Budget Action Is Deferred

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board has deferred action on its proposed budget until May 11.

Chief Kenneth T. Kamp said the delay was granted Tuesday to let him check into costs for retirement benefits, health insurance, fire company equipment insurance, and a diesel fuel tank.

Under the proposed budget of $219,631, Kamp said the district's tax rate of 72 cents per $100 of assessed valuation would rise about one cent.
